OPA PREPARING TO JUNK RATION COUPON BOOKS

Meat Dealers Told of Token Plan.

Indications that the government may junk the present food coupon book rationing system, involving use of the familiar blue and red stamps, in favor of a system employing tokens were given yesterday by an official of the office of price administration.

The official, Walter H. Balsom, chief of the trade section in the OPA meat rationing division, announced the plan to delegates to the war emergency conference of the National Association of Retail Meat Dealers in the La Salle hotel. He said the current arrangement is highly complicated, imposes too much paper or clerical work upon retailers, and, in addition, requires too much printing.

[Marvin Jones, food czar, admits crop control fails. Story on page 7.]

Retailers Oppose Change.

The delegates, who for months have struggled with OPA regulations and only now are familiar with them, were dismayed by Balsom's announcement. Even Balsom's promise that the new plan would reduce their paper work by 75 per cent failed to allay all fears, and some of the retailers, led by George Dressler, spoke against any changes in the present rationing setup. Dressler is president of the Retail Meat Dealers' association of Chicago, and a former OPA agent.

Balsom indicated the new ration plan favored by the OPA would involve a series of single stamps, each good for a fixed number of points, 64 for example. The consumer would cash in these stamps at retail stores for plastic tokens which would be valid indefinitely. The tokens would be assigned different point values and to differentiate between points for meats and fats and canned goods, would either be in red and blue or of different shapes.

Must Teach Public Again.

Dressler and the other retailers told the OPA official that stamp rationing is unquestionably a "headache" but that the public and the store owner finally are becoming accustomed to it. He said that after months of effort in educating the consumer and retailer in the stamp system, it would become necessary to spend several more months educating them in another system.

The delegates applauded Dressler's assertion that the proposed token rationing would waste material, man power, and public money, as well as create confusion and destroy the control over meat distribution. He outlined the burdens of handling and distributing millions of tokens and predicted that illegal use of ration points would be easier.

The OPA representative emphasized that this plan is only under consideration, along with several other systems and schemes that have been advanced.

Says Tokens "the Answer."

Balsom said he expected any new plan would be tried out on an area basis first. Of the various possibilities, he added, the token system "seems to be the answer," altho a major obstacle is the problem of obtaining material for tokens.

The two day conference of the National Meat Dealers association is serving as its 58th annual convention. Rep. Everett M. Dirksen [R., Ill.] will address the organization at the closing banquet tonight.

Chicken Wire Shortage Lets 1,000 Pheasants Flee

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 9 (AP).—A thousand Thanksgiving dinners were on the loose in a Des Moines suburb today. That many 10 week old pheasants answered the call of the wild and flew out of the rearing pens at the L. E. Heifner hatchery. Attempts to drive the birds back into their pens met with little success. Heifner said due to war time shortages he had been unable to cover the pens with chicken wire. He had clipped the birds' wings once but they grew out sooner than he anticipated. Heifner was growing the birds for the holiday trade.

New Deal Gag Moves Defied by 2 Women

Government interference with the activities of two prominent American women, Rose Wilder Lane and Ruth Mitchell, brought vigorous protests from the two authors yesterday. Details follow:

Danbury, Conn., Aug. 9 [Special].—Mrs. Rose Wilder Lane, American novelist, has written a pamphlet disclosing that the federal bureau of investigation caused her to be questioned because she mailed a postcard attacking social security legislation as an implement of national socialism, it was learned today.

"What Is This—the Gestapo?" is the title of the pamphlet, published Aug. 2 by the National Economic Council, Inc., of New York. In the pamphlet she said that last spring she sent a postcard to Samuel Grafton, left wing newspaper columnist, commenting on a radio address in which Grafton praised social security.

A state policeman subsequently called upon her at the request of the FBI and told her what she had written constituted "subversive activity," she asserted.

He "Didn't Like" Her Attitude.

She described the incident in her pamphlet, saying that when she demanded to know what the state police had to do with "any opinion that an American wants to express" the trooper replied: "I don't like your attitude."

"A furious American rose to her full height," the pamphlet continued. "'You don't like my attitude! I am an American citizen, I hire you. And you have the insolence to question my attitude? The point is, I don't like your attitude. What is this—the gestapo?'"

The pamphlet said the state trooper told her it was "subversive" to attack social security and that she retorted: "Then I'm subversive as hell. I'm against this so-called social security."

Signature Is Misinterpreted.

Richard Simons, chief of the New Haven FBI office, said today the investigation had been undertaken "after the receipt of information of such a nature that it left us no choice but to inquire into the identity of Mrs. C. G. Lang." It was said that Mrs. Lane's signature on the card had been interpreted as "Mrs. C. G. Lang." Mrs. Lane, however, explained she had signed her legal signature, "Mrs. C. G. Lane."

The FBI refused to disclose where it got its information about the postcard. In New York Grafton at first said he never had received such a card, but later said he had found in his files a card postmarked Danbury, March 15, signed "Mrs. C. G. Lang" and containing a statement that social security was a German idea invented by Bismarck.

Has Two Sons in Service.

Discussing the incident at her home here today, Mrs. Lane said she has two sons in service fighting against Germany, one of them believed by her to be in a concentration camp, and that "no one could hate the Germans more than I do."

She said she recalled having written Grafton that the Germans have had social security since Bismarck's time and that these measures were largely responsible for the collapse of the German republic.

"It will bewilder the Germans if, after we conquer them, we send them teachers to teach them these measures that they have had for 70 years," she said she wrote.

Among Mrs. Lane's novels are "White Shadows on the South Seas," "Free Land," "Let the Hurricane Roar," and "Cindy." She has taken the winning of the American wilderness by American pioneers as the theme for much of her writing and has been recognized as one of the foremost interpreters of the pioneer spirit.

In a nonfiction work published early this year she viewed the war as a struggle between freedom, as exemplified by the new world, and authority, as represented by the axis nations.

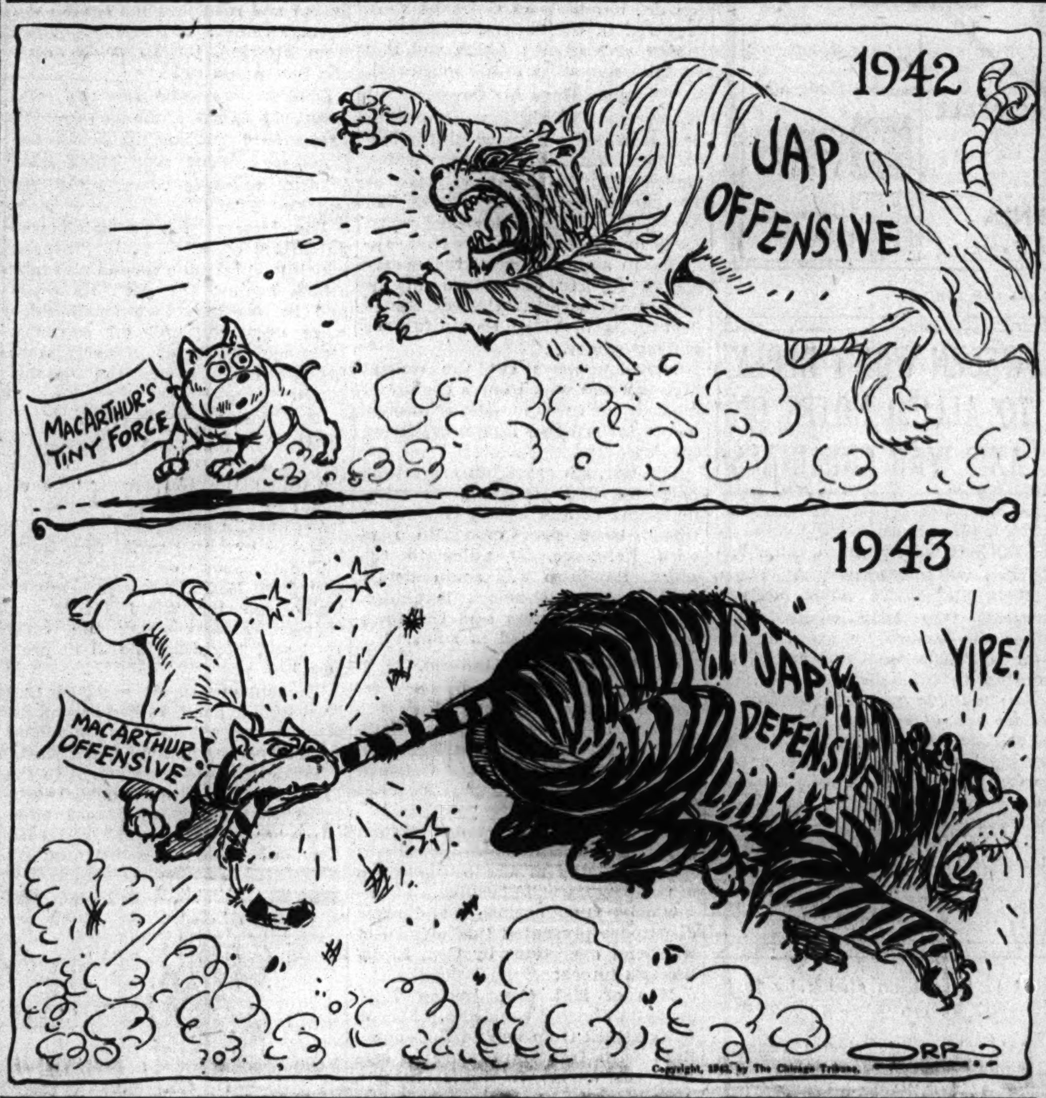
TALE OF THE TERRIBLE TIGER WHO LOST HIS APPETITE



HoldupMisses Fire as Young Bandit Faints

Failing to land jobs at high wages in the steel mills, John Clark, 20 years old, and his friend, John Montregon, 17, who came to Chicago from Denver two weeks ago, decided to get into the "big money" class by turning holdup men.

After robbing a half dozen elevated railroad stations and a real estate office the two agreed that it was time for them to go after bigger game. The "L" stations helped them perfect their technique [they thought], but brought them only measly profits, $5 to $11 per robbery.

Look for Bigger Game.

Yesterday, they confessed to police, they picked out the Roosevelt-Throop Currency exchange, 1249 Roosevelt road, as a victim. Each carrying his .32 caliber revolver in a trousers pocket, Clark and Montregon entered the exchange when Miss Juanita Moore, 22 years old, the cashier, was alone.

With his finger on the trigger of the revolver in his pocket, Clark advanced on Miss Moore's cage, while his pal took up his post as a guard near the door.

The sight of a pile of currency inside the cage made Clark quiver. Instead of drawing his revolver he lost his nerve. Uncertainly, he asked for a driver's license application. He turned white, swayed unsteadily, then fainted and fell to the floor.

Dousing Revives Him.

Miss Moore stepped out of sight and phoned for police. At the moment, a woman entered the exchange, and Montregon asked her to get a glass of water for his fallen pal. Clark drank a few drops and got the rest of the water full in the face. He revived. Montregon dragged him to his feet and led him outside.

The two would-be robbers fell virtually into the arms of Policemen Edward Stoner, Thomas O'Brien, and Fred Benke, responding to Miss Moore's alarm.

Later the two were identified by Miss Lucille Vraniak, 1700 South Union avenue, as two gunmen who last Friday robbed the real estate office of Stephen Tuponich at 1429 West 18th street of $10 and checks totaling $23. They admitted they robbed five "L" stations.

SOLDIER LOSES GIRL; GANG GETS REVENGE; NAB 13

Thirteen young men were rounded up yesterday by Sheffield avenue police following a Sunday night neighborhood blitz designed by a lovelorn ex-soldier who had lost his girl to another man while in the army. Policemen Elmer Rathsam, Patrick Byrne, and Walter Gehr made the arrests.

The ex-soldier, Richard Bogucki, 19 years old, 1800 Haddon avenue, returned home Thursday with a medical discharge for defective sight. Then, police said, he organized a gang of 20 friends to search for Dick Lidl, 16, of 831 Cornelia avenue, who had supplanted him in the affections of Anne Stefanski, 17, of 2647 North Halsted street.

The gang went to Burling street and Wrightwood avenue where Lidl often appeared, and stopped every young man who passed in their efforts to find him. Three youths were beaten, two were menaced with guns, and one, Keith Roark, 18, of 456 St. James place, was robbed of $13.

KIDNAPED BABY IS FOUND SAFE; ACCUSE WOMAN

Albany, Ore., Aug. 9 (AP).—Police tonight identified an infant found in the home of an army sergeant's wife as missing Judith Gurney, the 2 day old baby stolen from the Albany hospital last Tuesday. The woman, Mrs. Catherine Wright, was charged with child stealing.

District Attorney Harlow Weinrick said the baby was recovered from the woman's home near the hospital. He said Mrs. Wright steadfastly denied the charge, insisting the baby was hers, born last Monday in the Albany hospital. Nurses and doctors denied she had been a hospital patient, he said.

Report Berlin Seeking Peace with Russians

BY W. E. BRIQUET.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 10 [Tuesday].—Following persistent rumors, some foreign observers insisted here early today that Germany is trying to reach an understanding with Russia. These observers said Lt. Gen. Hiroshi Oshima and Naotake Sato, Japanese ambassadors to Germany and Russia, respectively, may act as middlemen in the negotiations.

Such a course was supposedly decided upon at a meeting at the German general headquarters a few days ago. While many Germans, in case surrender is unavoidable, would much prefer to trust to the mercy of the Anglo-Saxons, according to observers here, many German military leaders, including those who thought the Nazi attack on Russia was ill advised, still are of the opinion that Germany's future can best be assured by an early peace with Moscow. Their position was enhanced, it is said here, by the adamant Anglo-Saxon attitude toward Premier Pietro Badoglio, while it is pointed out that Stalin's intentions have never yet been tested in a practical way.

Germans in Panic.

A move for peace with Russia is really the last German string in the military bow, according to foreign observers here, as the situation in Germany is steadily growing worse. The air raids have brought such a panic thruout the country that German opinion is said to be forgetting entirely about the Italian situation.

The newspapers limit themselves to stressing for home consumption that Italy gained nothing by the disposal of Mussolini.

"The Italian example shows for once that the blind may lead the blind," said the Voelkischer Beobachter, organ of the National Socialist party, which evidently thinks that there are many "blind" in Germany. Editorially the Frankfurter Zeitung insisted that the whole "die heimat" [home front] has become a theater of operations.

Goebbels Tells Truth!

Nazi Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels in his last article in the Voelkischer Beobachter "is the first Nazi leader who told the Germans part of the truth," wrote the Berlin correspondent of the Neue Zuercher Zeitung.

The allied bombing raids are now being compared to the first World war blockade, whose effects are well known, while the German propaganda minister has issued a pamphlet of instructions recognizing that "the government can do only what is feasible."

CLOSING GRIP ON BIG BASE AS NAZIS RETREAT

Step Up Advance on Bryansk.

LONDON, Aug. 10 [Tuesday] (AP).—Russian troops cutting in from the north closed further their encircling grip on Kharkov yesterday, capturing a point 12 miles north of the big base and driving to within 30 miles west of it. At the same time they stepped up their advance on Bryansk, 75 miles west of Orel, forcing the Germans in both areas to retreat with heavy losses.

The Red army was threatening to turn Kharkov into a summer Stalingrad as large numbers of Germans faced entrapment. The soviet drive behind Kharkov was so swift that it seemed likely to trap at least some Nazi forces even tho the Germans should be planning to evacuate as they have done at Orel and Belgorod.

Drive 30 Miles West.

A special Russian war bulletin reported that the Russians had overrun Stalino, 12 miles north of Kharkov, and had taken Nikitovka, 30 miles due west of the city.

Great quantities of men and material were involved in the Kharkov battle. The Russians reported capturing 212 tanks, 139 guns, 96 mortars, 323 machine guns, and 618 trucks in two days of fighting.

The Russians also said they captured more than 100 villages in their Kharkov drive, while 80 more were taken in the advances west of Orel.

Admit Heavy Attacks.

Even the Germans admitted the Red armies were doing their "utmost" to capture Kharkov from the northwest. German troops were "facing no easy situation," the Berlin radio reported. The Germans said that the Russians were attacking with great masses of artillery and tanks and "strong reserves."

The Russian announcement said 80 German planes were shot down on all fronts.

Railways from Kharkov to Bryansk and Sumy were cut and the only line not menaced at the moment was the one leading into the Crimea via Lozovaya.

Reds Also Menace Sumy.

Sumy, rail city in the eastern Ukraine, was menaced by Russians who captured a town 21 miles east. Sumy was one of the high water marks of the Russian winter offensive which the Germans rolled back during the thaw because the Red army was unable to consolidate its rapid conquests.

Altho the Russian statement made it clear that the major operations were directed against Bryansk and Kharkov, there was much activity in the Voroshilovgrad area and in the Donetz basin sector around Izyum.

The Russian midnight war report said that in the advance on Bryansk a rail station 22 miles west of Orel had been captured and that German prisoners said about half of the 253d German infantry division had been lost in the last three days.

The Moscow radio announced that Soviet planes bombed German troop trains and military stores southwest of Bryansk and that Generals Apanasenka and Gurtyev had been killed in action on the Orel-Belgorod front.

2 Yanks Take 3 Isles at Cost of $3 to U. S.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 9.—When the radio announced that the Egadi Islands, three patches of land off Trapani, Sicily, had surrendered unconditionally to a beach landing party, the staff officers at division headquarters had their biggest laugh of the war.

Lt. Col. Wienecke.

The expedition which seized the islands—Favignana, Levanzo, and Marittimo—consisted of two young American officers in a Sicilian fishing boat. It cost the government $3, and the "expedition" took 1,027 prisoners and brought relief to a civilian population of 5,450.

Colonels Scheme Landing.

This strangest of all landings in the Sicilian campaign was the brain child of Lieutenant Colonels George Lynch of Washington, D. C.; Robert Wienecke of 566 Adams street, Glencoe, Ill. They cooked it up after learning the navy planned a regular landing. They believed such a large scale operation was unnecessary. But the colonels were prevented at the last minute from carrying out the scheme. Their division commander insisted the landing be made by junior officers.

So the honor fell on July 29 to Capt. R. E. Gerard, of Lake Charles, La., and Lt. Louis P. Testa, of Vineland, N. J., an interpreter. They hired a fisherman, and sailing thru minefields they reached a harbor on the island of Favignana.

Directed by Italians.

"We walked up the main street for two blocks looking for garrison headquarters," Gerard said, "before we found some soldiers who directed us. Outside headquarters we met the executive officer on a bicycle who stepped off, clicked his heels, bowed, smiled, and said 'Americani.'"

"The lieutenant colonel commanding welcomed us and surrendered the garrisons of all three islands.

The island had been out of communication with the mainland, and was completely isolated. There was enough food for only four more days and 50 cases of typhus had developed among the civilian population.

Ready to Surrender.

The Italians were more than ready to surrender.

But before surrendering the Italians had destroyed one battery of 75s, four batteries of 76 mm. anti-aircraft guns, and four batteries of naval 152 mm. guns. Gerard and Testa, however, captured nine small tanks and quantities of small arms.

NIGHT ASSAULT CRACKS LINE IN NORTH SICILY

Army's Blow from Sea Routs Foe.

[German troops were falling back in northern Sicily last night after combined American sea and land attacks encircled the main axis forces and then obliterated the San Agata-Cesaro line. Details of the German retreat are told on page 2. The following story, by a reporter for the army newspaper Stars and Stripes, describes the night assault by seaborne troops behind San Agata which played a major role in the American success.]

BY SGT. JACK FOISIE.

"Stars and Stripes" correspondent.

[Distributed by the Associated Press.]

WITH AMERICAN FORCES ADVANCING ALONG THE COAST OF NORTHERN SICILY, Aug. 8 [Delayed].—We landed miles behind the enemy lines at 3 a. m. today.

Our mission was to fight our way thru the beach defense to a high tableland a mile inland, there to cut the coastal highway leading to San Agata and isolate entrenched Germans holding up the American advance along the north Sicilian coast.

Alone and without hope of reenforcements, we were to hold off for 24 hours the bulk of axis forces to the east, at the same time keeping a net tightly closed around the enemy caught between us and the main American lines.

'Knock 'Em to Messina.'

"It's a chance few outfits get, so let's cut the rug and knock them all the way back to Messina," were the final words of Raider Lt. Col. Lyle W. Bernard of Highland Falls, N. Y.

Five hours after the first assault boat had touched sand, we were firmly entrenched in the hills and had smeared all German traffic going in either direction. By noon the town of San Agata had fallen. At 12:41 p. m.—14 hours ahead of schedule—contact was established with advanced elements of the main American forces.

The success of the knife like thrust at the enemy's rear resulted in the collapse of his strong defense line on a 2,400 foot ridge east of San Agata and sent his troops reeling back without time to lay minefields.

Tonight the same battalion of infantry and attached troops of the division which had pulled the raid were out on the heels of the German 29th motorized division which had already pulled back.

Record of "Firsts."

It was a grimly silent band of raiders—"and don't call us Rangers; we are just infantrymen"—who assembled in invasion craft off the beach where the landings were to be made. These same Yanks on another Sunday morning just nine months ago had been first in at Fedala in French Morocco. They had been first at Licata in Sicily.

"Never thought we'd make another one on this island," muttered Lt. Robert F. Ferrell of San Francisco, Cal., who led the first wave of assault troops.

Ferrell's troops pulled away from the landing craft, manned by American sailors, shortly after 2 a. m. Along with them went combat engineers led by Lt. Walter W. Wagner of Anoka, Minn., who was to clear the beach of mines and barbed wire so that a second wave of mobile artillery and tanks could quickly reach the highway and cut the German supply lines.

At 2:45 a. m. American 155 mm. "Long Toms" opened a barrage from behind the American lines on a railroad station two miles east of San Agata.

Landing Site Undefended.

The station marked our proposed beachhead and fire from the explosion was to be our direction pointer. The barrage was to lift at 3 a. m.—our "H" hour—and be shifted to our objective, the high tableland.

"They will point it out to us like a candle in the sky," said the colonel.

The point at which we landed was not defended and had no barbed wire and no mines.

A point to the east appeared to have been heavily fortified.

Those first few minutes after the landing were anxious ones for us who were to follow in the second wave. When there came no sound from the shore we grew apprehensive.

"No landing can be that quiet," muttered Staff Sgt. Lorne Heipel of Detroit, Mich.

Not even the flash of tracer fire was there—only an occasional falling star to mock us.

"Come On In."

But finally there came a blinker light to flash its story of success:

"Landing unopposed—come on in."

We came ashore in amphibious ducks. Jerry wasn't hunting ducks last night, but we were hunting Jerry. On either flank the long proved lot of boats raced shoreward with a cargo of mobile artillery, tanks, and dependable bulldozers to clear the way.

Our duck, loaded to capacity with men and munitions, waddled backward out of the landing craft and churned thru the phosphorescent Tyrrhenian sea. We passed destroyers lying at point blank range off the 1,500 yard beachhead, ready to blast any shore defenses which "so much as yawned."

But nothing stopped us from coming in, altho the sleepy enemy had gotten a few machine guns into action by the time we landed. They quickly were wiped out by rifle, grenades, and bazookas. Already the engineers were laying wire matting over the sandy beach and the metallic sound of sledgehammers "nailing it down" was the only noise to break the uneasy quiet.

Unable to Find Road.

For a time we were unable to find the way thru to the road. It was imperative that we leave the beach before the Germans' artillery could be turned against us. Already fire from a grove beyond had sprung up.

A tank smashed an opening thru a brick storm wall and squeezed thru a narrow railroad culvert beyond. We followed on foot for the ducks were unable to make it.

Our surprise attack had flushed a bevy of Germans. Small arms fire and hand grenades sputtered thruout the length of the orchard as friend and foe battled at arm's length. Every one was shouting the countersign, even the Germans who soon picked it up. So great was the confusion that more noise than damage was done and many of the foe escaped to the hills. Amid it all, vehicles were seeking their way thru the maze of irrigation ditches and garden walls to the freedom of the coastal road.

Because of the necessity of speed in reaching the hills, we had no inclination to take prisoners before dawn.

"If they insist on surrendering I guess we can find something to put them in," the colonel instructed his men.

Some 90 of the enemy did insist, more than half of them Germans. This was in addition to 300 collected later in the trap between the two forces.

Sees 15 Killed.

The German dead numbered about 50. I saw 15 go down before the single blast of a tommygun. They had driven up in a truck just as Company H, a heavy weapons outfit with which I made the landing, hit the road. The so-called supermen dismounted but stood dumbfounded at our appearance. It was still dark and we were not sure of their identity. We challenged them.

"Vas?" said one of their number, walking forward. The challenge was given again. "Vas?" said the soldier, still walking forward. The rattle of bullets from an American's gun ended the conversation in the gloom.

Officers and key noncommissioned men are quick to sense a mistake in direction and the troops swung east to reach their objective. This, plus the fight in the orchard, put us behind schedule and we made haste to get to higher ground. Thunderous explosions from German artillery about 300 yards to our right were an added incentive. But guns from the destroyers and cruisers farther offshore soon finished off that particular trouble maker.

Thruout the morning navy guns protected both our flanks as we climbed deeper into the hills. They smashed a westbound convoy of trucks and men which, if it had gotten thru, might have nipped us before we had time to dig in.

Find Road and a Fight.

Resistance increased as we reached the road. The Jerries who had escaped from the orchard were in the hills now, warning their comrades who manned the cement pillboxes overlooking the road. Our progress slowed down to a nerve-wracking walk or crawl. Already the gray dawn which would unmask us was on the horizon. If we had not been so busy we might have been terrified. It is not pleasant to be cut off deep in enemy territory.

But the Yankee doughboys proved themselves today. Any point of resistance which delayed us more than momentarily brought a call for "Bazooka men up forward!"

We left the road and climbed. Despite the pressing time factor it became necessary to call frequent halts. The men who carry mortars, machine guns and ammunition must rest and accompanying riflemen must protect them. Every halt drew immediate heavy fire from the enemy entrenched on higher ground.

Back on the road, mobile artillery and tanks were churning up and down the road, protecting flanks and knocking off targets at each opportunity. Two Mark IV. tanks, attempting to escape, were caught in the main street of San Agata and smashed by a volley of artillery.

For an hour those symbols of German might burned fiercely, throwing up a huge billow of black smoke over the doomed city. With staccato reports, ammunition and gasoline went off. It was a good sight for us on the hill to see.

Tanks roamed thru the town spraying sniper-infested houses with machine gun fire. An Italian Renault tankette was overrun and smashed by a General Sherman tank driven by Pvt. George F. Stinger of 325 Moulton court, Madison, Wis.

Back in the hills we were still climbing, seeking ground which dominated the road. We came across the first civilians living in a cave. An old man who came out to greet us with clapping hands had not been to the United States. You cannot understand what a refreshing phenomenon this is to Yanks who, whenever they enter a liberated town, are always besieged by characters hollering:

"Hello, Joe! I spenda 23 years in America. Si."

Short on Ammunition.

By 8 a. m. we were secure in the hills. But the delay in getting the ducks with the loads of ammunition thru the breach in the storm-wall had left us with only a basic load of ammunition for all the guns. That is not a very healthy condition when there are Germans on three sides of you.

The next four hours were perhaps the most trying of the operation. Prisoners and civilians indicated to questioners that some of the enemy had pulled out last night, leaving only a skeleton holding force remaining in the ridge which had stymied the American advance four days.

The navy continued to throw in a salvo now and then. The solid thud was comforting especially when it did not come too close to our own somewhat distorted positions. Allied war planes provided a cover altho axis bombers did slip thru once during the morning to have a try at our fleet off shore.

Battalion to Rescue.

But German 88 guns were well dug in and were beginning to get our range and German machine-gunners, who seemed never to run out of ammunition, could not be entirely cleaned out. Sometimes I tried to imagine they were our machineguns but unfortunately the Hitler variety sounds off like a brittle, rapid snore, while the Yankee make gives forth like a barber cutting hair with hand clippers.

It looked bad when, shortly before noon, a column was reported marching eastward along the coastal road.

The company in reserve was set out to deal with the new threat.

At 12:41 p. m. a sweat soaked runner reported in to the battalion command post:

"We are here to relieve you, sir," he said. "My battalion is just a little piece out of town now."

Seaborne Yanks Obliterate Axis Line in Sicily

CHICAGO ENSIGN TELLS ROLE IN SICILY INVASION

Three hours before landing forces invaded Sicily early in July, the navy's specialized amphibious units of scouts and raiders dodged enemy shellfire while charting landing sites, searching out mine fields and arranging proper signals. Among the scouts was Ensign Thomas A. Tobin, 24 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Tobin of 7606 South Shore drive, who is home on leave, and who described the operations yesterday.

Ensign Tobin was in the first class of midshipmen to be graduated at Notre Dame last Jan. 28.

NAZIS SATISFIED ITALY REMAINS IN WAR, SWISS SAY

Expect More Aid from Nazi Army.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 9.—The Germans have concluded their talks at Verona, satisfied with Italian assurances that the war will continue, according to information from Italy.

Marshal Pietro Badoglio, it is reported, decided on this stand as the only one which would not jeopardize the house of Savoy or the prestige of the Italian nation. The alternative of unconditional surrender, according to a semi-official pronouncement tonight, was such as to preclude any other solution.

Neither Marshal Badoglio nor any other potential leader is expected to alter this position before either the allies have inflicted a resounding defeat on Italy or a revolutionary government "with less appreciation of national tradition" seizes the initiative.

Enlists Two Socialists.

Badoglio threw a bombshell into the ranks of the opposition by enlisting the support of several former Syndicalists, just out of jail, who today began stumping for support of his government. Leaders of this new "Liberal Socialist" group are Filippo Amedeo and Bruno Buozzi, who returned to Milan from Rome yesterday after seeing Marshal Badoglio.

Reports from Italy point to an intensive resumption of German military traffic toward strategic points in the north. Reports from Genoa indicated that the major part of rescue and relief work following Saturday night's raid was carried out by German soldiers.

Reports of the establishment of a triumvirate composed of Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, Field Marshal Gen. William Keitel and Adm. Karl Doenitz to rule Germany find no credence in diplomatic circles here. It is even suggested that the rumors have been "planted."

Expect German Aid.

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 9 (AP).—A German press declaration that Germany now faces a "heavy crisis" in the war was coupled today with a Rome dispatch speculating that Italy was staying in the conflict partly in anticipation of receiving a windfall thru new European developments of an unspecified nature.

[The Berlin correspondent of the Madrid newspaper Informaciones reported that an announcement would be forthcoming that Italy will "continue in the war with still more active military help from Germany than ever before." Moreover, the correspondent said, the battle on the eastern front "may change from one moment to another."]

The Swiss telegraphic agency reported today that troops were used to halt the "desertion of factories" by workers in Genoa following Saturday night's heavy R. A. F. air raids. German troops helped extinguish Genoa fires resulting from the raid.

The editorial offices of the Corriere Della Sera at Milan were hit by the British bombers, the dispatch said, and the roof of the famed opera house La Scala was said to have been struck by 10 incendiary bombs, causing slight damage.

Axis diplomatic circles reported Germany had agreed that Italy could return home all her troops which have been in the "fortress of Europe." This includes troops in the Balkans.

SWEDEN WON'T REPLY TO ALLIED NOTES ON AXIS WAR CRIMINALS

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 9.—Sweden will not answer American, British, and soviet notes advising neutrals that they would incur allied displeasure by granting asylum to "axis war criminals," according to semi-official circles.

Any outside pressure aiming to secure the extradition of nationals of belligerent countries would be an infringement upon a nation's sovereignty, according to all standards of international intercourse hitherto recognized, it is contended.

To the question of whether Sweden would ever answer the notes officially, an official cautiously replied: "It is 50-50 that we will and 50-50 that we will not."

SICILY WANTS TO BE ADMITTED AS OUR 49TH STATE

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 9 (AP).—Hawaii has a new competitor for the right to become the 49th state in the United States, American army officers said today. The "state of Sicily," they said, is practically ready to send lobbyists to Washington, D. C.

It appears that the civilians in those parts of Sicily under the occupation of American troops got the idea that the appearance of the doughboys automatically made them citizens of the U. S. A. They know it is possible to acquire citizenship. Many of them have relatives in the United States who did it.

The people already are talking about their "rights and privileges as Americans," the officers said, adding that they refused indignantly to be told otherwise.

SEABORNE YANKS TRAP NAZIS ON COAST OF SICILY

Land Behind Foe; Seize Hundreds; 5 Towns Fall.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 9 (AP).—German suicide troops fell back tonight on temporary defenses at Cape Orlando, 43 miles from Messina strait, under combined seaborne and land attacks by Americans which overwhelmed the Nazi mountain defenses on the northern Sicilian coast.

The San Agata-Cesaro line was obliterated and disintegration of all the Messina bridgehead was threatened.

Trapped front and rear as the result of a brilliant amphibious encirclement by doughboys from the 7th army of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., hundreds of Germans were captured in the rocky fortifications in the area of San Agata and San Fratello, five miles to the southwest.

Yanks Have Air Cover.

American Warhawks and Spitfires provided air cover for the amphibious American forces which landed Saturday night on atolls at Torrenova, three miles east of San Agata. The Spitfires knocked down seven axis fighter-bombers over San Agata to account for all the enemy planes reported destroyed in air combat yesterday. United States fleet units provided escort for the sea movement.

The doughboys cut the coastal highway and wiped out a convoy of trucks which was moving reënforcements toward San Agata, capturing 300 prisoners.

The German survivors are falling back on Cape Orlando, 10 miles northeast of San Agata. Orlando is linked by a poor mountain road with Randazzo, 20 miles to the south. Randazzo was again smothered by round-the-clock bombings. Allied air observers said the town was now half buried in ruins.

Close In on Randazzo.

British 8th army troops were reported in late dispatches from the front to be only seven miles southwest of the Nazi base at Randazzo and Americans, thrusting eastward from Cesaro, were about 10 miles distant.

The whole axis defense system about the north slopes of Mount Etna, centered at the hilltop town of Randazzo, was imperilled.

Official announcements and press dispatches presented this picture of week-end operations by Gen. Eisenhower's forces:

Men of Maj. Gen. Lucian Truscott's 3d division coupled a seaborne flank attack from behind the enemy lines with frontal pressure to capture the enemy fortresses of San Frateol and San Agata, which had delayed the push eastward along the north coast from San Stefano.

Fifteen miles inland other Americans slashed eight miles in a straight line—14 miles by the winding and heavily mined road—from Troina to drive the Nazis out of Cesaro.

Cesaro lies 14 miles west of Randazzo and its wreckage clogged mountain pass which is the enemy's main avenue of retreat at the center. South of Cesaro were Canadian and British units thrusting around Mount Etna's base from Bronte.

Seize Town on Mt. Etna.

Armor supported British troops mopping up the south slopes of Mount Etna knocked out Nazi tanks and captured the town of San Maria di Licodia, high up on the volcanic cone.

British 8th army columns captured Acireale in a nine mile drive along the east coast from Catania and pushed on toward Taormina, a harbor and road junction behind the German center. Acireale is 42 miles from Messina, Cesaro is 48 miles, and San Agata is 50.

[The Algiers radio reported in a broadcast heard in London by the Associated Press that the British 8th army was about nine miles from Riposto, half way between Catania and Taormina.]

The Messina escape hatch was pulverized by R. A. F. Wellingtons which maintained a second all night attack against the port, its roads and its beaches. Two small ships were reported sunk off southern Italy and all types of craft were brought under fire in the Messina strait.

Bomb Roads in Italy.

Railways, roads and bridges across the toe of the Italian boot—avenues by which the Germans might attempt to flee toward prospective defense lines in north Italy—also were attacked by allied aerial squadrons.

The German war bulletin broadcast from Berlin today said numerically superior allied forces had renewed attacks along the coast road and "fighting is still in progress."

The announcement asserted that Nazi fighter bombers had sunk a destroyer and a 7,000 ton merchant vessel "off the Sicilian north coast."

This claim and a statement in the Rome broadcast Italian official statement that "German planes effectively hit two destroyers" were without confirmation in allied quarters.

SMALL PC BOAT RAMS AND SINKS JAP SUBMARINE

Pivots for Awhile on Top of Enemy Craft.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 (AP).—The navy told today of a little patrol chaser on duty in the Pacific which rammed, depth charged, shelled and sank a Japanese submarine which approached a convoy moving into a Pacific base.

The vessel was the 170 foot PC-487, under command of Lt. Gordon Cornell, a naval reserve officer of Port Richmond, N. Y. It was one of a number of escort craft guarding the convoy.

It rammed the submarine twice, tearing off its periscopes, antenna, and net cutter the first time and rolling the sub on its side the second time. Eight times the chaser fired with her deck gun to increase the havoc wrought by her depth charges, and six rounds were observed to pierce the sub's hull.

Chaser Slightly Damaged.

The Japanese sub commander apparently had thrown his second periscope, ordinarily reserved for emergency, into service in an effort to obtain wider vision.

The submarine chaser was slightly damaged by the rammings, but suffered no casualties. Emergency repairs enabled it to reach port in good condition.

The convoy was proceeding thru a thick fog when at 8 a. m. the submarine's presence was detected. A few minutes later lookouts saw its two periscopes 250 yards away.

First the sub chaser went in with depth charges, and these forced the undersea craft to come to the surface. Thereupon the PC-487 circled and rammed the submarine, moved on across it, circled and rammed again. Meanwhile, the gun crews had cut loose with everything aboard the ship which would shoot.

Pivots on Submarine.

On the second ramming, Lt. Cornell said, "the 487 seemed to stick and pivot on top the submarine and felt as if it would break in two, but she finally slid over."

Twenty-two minutes after the submarine was first sighted she began to sink stern first, and two minutes later had disappeared.

Lt. Cornell was awarded the navy cross for his part in the action, and three other members of the ship's company received the silver star medal, including Dana Elliott Linden, motor machinist's mate, 24, of Portsmouth, Ia.

LAND FORTRESS AFTER FIRE ON BOARD, ALL SAFE

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 9 (AP).—A flying fortress crash-landed at the Municipal airport here late today after one of its four engines had burned its moorings and dropped off.

Seven men had parachuted from the plane between Atlanta and Newnan, Ga., 40 miles away.

Capt. James W. Schonlau, New Orleans, La., said he and Lt. Lewis C. Jones, Erwin, Tenn., co-pilot, decided to attempt to land the plane after the engine dropped and some flames in the cockpit were partially quenched. The ship circled the airport for a time, streaming smoke. When the way was cleared it came in to a perfect "belly landing." The pilot and co-pilot jumped out, uninjured.

TELLS OF FIGHT WITH 12 ZEROS; DOWNS 3 TO WIN

And Other Yanks Score Against Big Odds.

(This is the third article in a series which tells the story of "The Grim Reapers"—the famous Fighting Squadron VF-10, United States navy air force. It is told to Stanley Johnston, noted Tribune war correspondent, by one of the Reapers who prefers to be anonymous. It presents a vivid, personalized account of great sea and air actions in the Pacific.)

BY A "GRIM REAPER."
[Member of Fighting Squadron VF-10, United States Navy.]

[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Morning dawned clear and bright on May 8, 1942, the day that was to be the last for the gallant aircraft carrier Lexington. The details of the historic battle of the Coral sea now are so well known that only enough of them will be recounted here to set the stage for three thrilling air battles that were episodes in that far flung action.

The powerful Japanese fleet, which included four aircraft carriers, three battleships, 12 cruisers, and 20 destroyers was steaming steadily southward from Port Moresby while the American fleet, much inferior in size was moving to meet it.

At dawn the air striking forces of the Lexington and the Yorktown took off to attack the Jap carriers, reported to be 200 miles away. Only a few Grumman Wildcat fighter planes were left for defense of the fleet. Because of this Douglas Dauntless scout bombers had been ordered to cruise at 5,000 feet near our ships to screen them against hostile dive bombers and torpedo planes.

Jap Aircraft Attacks.

Just before 11 a. m. we were warned by radio that Jap aircraft were on their way to attack us. Among our defending force were Lt. Stanley W. [Swede] Vejtasa, U. S. N. R., and Lt. John A. Lepla, U. S. N. R., each in a Dauntless.

It was just at 11:14 a. m., Swede recalls, that a hail of tracer bullets began zipping past his plane. Caught completely by surprise, his two seater Dauntless was the target for 12 Jap Zero fighters which had dived out of the sun.

"Zeros were nipping in and out everywhere I looked," he told us afterward. "I never felt so alone in my life."

Orders to His Gunner.

Realizing that the lives of himself and his rear gunner-radio operator depended upon keeping cool, he said quickly over the intercommunication system:

"Son, we're in for a scrap. Keep you head. Conserve your ammunition. Don't let those Japs catch you with an empty gun. I'll do the rest."

"Aye, aye, sir," the lad's voice came back. "You can depend on me."

During this exchange Swede was banking away and diving. The Zero pilots lost no time in deploying for the kill. Some settled on either side while others drew ahead. Those on the sides began drawing in and attempting shallow dives to distract Swede's attention from those ahead.

Lines Up Japs as Targets.

But Swede kept mental track of every Jap. His mind was ice cold as he fought. As the Japs moved in from the sides he dipped his wings alternately, allowing the rear gunner a shot. Almost simultaneously he dipped the plane's nose, lining up a Jap coming in from ahead and below.

Meanwhile, the Zero pilots had developed a healthy respect for that swinging gun in the rear cockpit. They hastily got out of reach of it. The unequal battle had continued 20 minutes over 100 miles of ocean when Swede began to connect. Three times his forward guns blasted a Jap pilot into flames and sent him spinning into the sea.

As the third Jap plummeted, the others drew off, slipped into a cloud, and ran for it. Swede was the pursuer now and the Japs had had enough. Their faster Zeros took them swiftly out of the area.

Returns to Patrol Duty.

Then, as calmly as tho nothing had happened, Swede returned to his station, near the Yorktown and continued his patrol until ordered to return aboard.

At about the same time Swede was being taken by surprise, John Lepla was doing a little surprising himself. Out of a cloud flashed a torpedo plane, on its way down for the approach to the carrier. Its pilot failed to see Lepla in time, if he saw him at all.

Lepla got in a long burst and was rewarded by seeing feathery black smoke plume out behind the Jap plane, which flared into flame and plunged. Lepla had little time to enjoy the sight. The torpedo plane's Zero escort pounced from all sides. With a quick feint, Lepla drove off his first attacker. At the same instant a second enemy moved in on the tail of the Dauntless.

Another Enemy Gone.

The rear gunner—reliable D. K. Liska—had been praying for something like this. The stream of lead from the movable rear gun riddled the Jap pilot in his unprotected cockpit and finished him. The rest of the pack now drew away to reconsider. During the brief respite, Lepla saw Lt. Hall, a comrade, in serious trouble below.

In a fierce and dazzling melee, Hall had just downed two Kogekiki torpedo planes and the two Zeros that had tried to protect them. Now he was out of ammunition and had been shot thru both feet. Two Zeros astern were literally knocking his plane apart.

Lepla dived. The Japs were so intent on making the kill that Lepla's long burst killed one enemy and so startled the other that he ran for it. Lepla escorted Hall back to the carrier where he landed safely, not knowing until he stepped from the plane that his feet had been shot thru.

His Plane Riddled.

When Lepla set his own plane down later it was a sorry sight. One front gun had been shot away and the other was without ammunition. The plane's skin had been rent in more than a score of places by shells from the Zeros' 20 mm. cannon. But neither Lepla nor Liska had been touched.

During the Japs' savage onslaught toward the Yorktown, Lt. Comdr. James H. [Jimmy] Flatley, executive officer of the Yorktown's fighting squadron VF-12 was aloft in a single seater Grumman Wildcat fighter. Jim Flatley later was to organize our Grim Reaper squadron of which both Swede and Lepla were to be distinguished members.

Flatley dived into a flock of Zeros early in the attack, got one victim into his sights and shot his wings off. Later, seeing two Zeros below him, he dived on them. Other Japs above, however, apparently radioed a warning, for both Jim's intended victims looped abruptly and together.

Loses Consciousness.

Jim's plane had been up to a speed above 300 miles in the dive and when Jim hauled back on his controls to follow them up in their zoom, he blacked out—lost consciousness—because of the terrific gravity pressure to which he was subjected by the sudden turn.

When he regained his senses a few seconds later and could see again—sight returns slowly after a blackout—he found a Zero flying almost at his wing tip. They were in a steep climb and so close Flatley could see the Jap's grinning features. The enemy was trying to drop slightly behind and lay a burst into the Wildcat.

Flatley glanced at his airspeed indicator which now showed only 110 knots, which meant the Wildcat would stall at any second. He yanked the stick farther back and went over in a loop, coming out into the guns of another Zero. But the enemy pulled away.

Jim never forgot this experience and this lesson. While he was training us as Grim Reapers—a story which will be told tomorrow—he drove the lesson home again and again. No plane ever must go ranging alone, he decreed. There always must be at least two and they must stay tomether, even during combat.

LT. TOM COMES BACK, AS PALS SAID HE WOULD

Shot Down, Captured, He's Rescued by Yanks.

AN ADVANCED ALLIED AIR BASE IN SICILY, Aug. 7 [Delayed] —(AP).—When Lt. Tom A. Thomas Jr. bailed out of his A-36 fighter-bomber over enemy territory in Sicily two days after the first allied landings, his pals refused to give him up for good.

"He will come back before long, lugging a couple of German pistols," they said.

The pistols arrived today and with them came word that the Ada, Okla., ace, who has figured in dozens of exploits rivaling those in newspaper adventure strips, was safe in Africa—a good many miles from Italy's prison camps. He had been captured by the Italians, recaptured by the Americans and sent to Africa.

At almost the same time that the news about Thomas trickled back, another long missing flyer arrived. He is Lt. Leonard M. Joffrion Jr., of Donaldsonville, La., who was captured and freed in the same way. Both were prisoners at Palermo when the Americans took it, he said.

Downed by Anti-Aircraft Fire.

Thomas, who became a leading American fighter pilot while a member of a famous Warhawk group commanded by Col. Phil Cochrane, was shot down by anti-aircraft fire over Biscaqueno, Sicily, just a moment after he had sent a German Focke-Wulf 190 blazing earthward.

[Col. Cochrane is the original of Flip Corkin, daredevil pilot portrayed in Milton Caniff's comic strip, Terry and the Pirates.]

Fellow pilots gasped as his parachute split while he was drifting downward, but they saw him land safely between two buildings, climb to his feet and start running for a small truck near-by.

After learning of his whereabouts, a friend obtained his complete story.

"We had just finished strafing ammunition trucks in a convoy," Thomas recounted, "when I saw a Focke-Wulf. I had only about 10 rounds left in my gun, but they turned out to be enough to get him. He bailed out, and I pulled up to watch him when flak caught me in the belly. The ship started burning, and I jumped. I was only about 500 feet up so I hit the ground pretty hard. I tried to run away, but fell down after I had gone only a few steps and some Italian soldiers caught up with me.

Meets Nazi Pilot.

"They took me to a first aid station where I met the German pilot whom I had shot down. He was very pleasant but seemed amazed I got him so easily. He said he was all by himself, ferrying a new ship over to Sicily from Germany. He actually congratulated me on good shooting.

"The same day, the gunner who got me came in. He was quite a musical chap. He even knew 'Stardust' in English. I sang a few for him, too, and then some other people came in and we all sang 'The Beer Barrel Polka.' Every one seemed to know that one.

"They made me spend the first night in jail and the next day took me to Corleone in the central part of the island, where I was interrogated by a major who spoke English very well. He asked me where I was from and how long my outfit had been there. I told him I was instructed not to give that information and he said, 'Very well.'

Blamed for Bombings.

"They kept me in Corleone several days. The city was bombed three nights by Wellingtons and the people came and shouted at me as if I were to blame. But there were some Catholic sisters who took an interest in me and, after the first time, they kept the people away.

"They finally took me to Palermo in an ambulance. I rode in the front seat with the driver, who told me I was being sent to Rome immediately. We went to an airport where I waited two nights for a plane. Something happened, however, and I was finally taken to the Palermo hospital to wait until a plane arrived. The soldiers never came back altho my money and personal effects were apparently sent on.

"During the time I was at the airport, some pilots of American fighters and B-25 bombers were brought in but I was not permitted to talk with them.

"I heard later they went on to Italy."

MAIN BUILDING AT SCHOOL FOR DEAF IS BURNED

Jacksonville, Ill., Aug. 9 [Special]. —Fire late tonight caused estimated damage of more than $75,000 to the historic four story main building of the Illinois State School for the Deaf. The original structure dates from the 1840s, and is considered one of the finest examples of Georgian architecture in the midwest.

The fire broke out in the second floor rear and spread to the hospital units, the kitchen, and the dining room. Prompt work by the Jacksonville fire department, aided by 250 soldiers from Illinois college, prevented the flames from spreading.

No one was injured. The school's 700 pupils are home for the summer vacation. The cause of the fire was not learned. Dan T. Cloud is managing officer.

WIFE IS KILLED BY ACCIDENT AS MAN CLEANS GUN

Mrs. Eleanor Erkelens, 38 years old, was shot to death early today as she was sleeping in the bedroom of her home at 7213 South Hoyne avenue.

She was killed by a blast from a shotgun in the hands of her husband, Frank Erkelens, a steamfitter. He told police he was cleaning the gun, and that the shooting was accidental.

Erkelens was in the living room. The bedroom adjoins that room. According to Sergt. Harry Busam, of the detective bureau, the shotgun blast tore thru the plaster wall between the two rooms, the pellets hitting Mrs. Erkelens.

U-BOATS STEP UP CARIBBEAN WAR —ADM. HOOVER

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Aug. 9 (AP).—Vice Adm. John H. Hoover, in a farewell press conference as commander of the 10th naval district, said today there had been "some increase in the last month or so" in axis submarine activity in the Caribbean area, altho shipping losses were still lower than formerly.

Hoover, who is being succeeded by Vice Adm. A. B. Cook, formerly of Jacksonville, Fla., said allied plane patrols have "been having lots of chances" at axis submarines and have "been doing pretty well."

Seize Accused Molester of Girls in So. Side Chase

Roger Sherman, 60 years old, 127 North Ogden avenue, was seized by Gresham police last night after he had been cornered in a doorway at 89th street and Ashland avenue following a chase by 25 irate men and women, who accused him of molesting young girls. Police said two girls pointed him out to their mothers at 93d and Justine streets. Five complaints were signed against Sherman, a retired railway employe.

Here's Case for Gumshoes! Steal 93,333 Sticks of Gum

Enough gum—an estimated 93,333 sticks—to keep many thousands of jaws chewing for a long time, was stolen last night from a truck in front of 1051 North Cicero avenue. The truck was later recovered, minus its load. Joseph Bakes, 3140 Polk street, the driver, said the gum was worth $700 wholesale.

YANKS DROP 224 TONS ON 4 JAP BASES IN PACIFIC

Heavy Damage Caused at Salamaua.

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 10 [Tuesday] —(AP).—Taking advantage of improved weather conditions, allied bombers yesterday struck heavily at enemy bases over the entire southwest Pacific battle front. A total of 224 tons of bombs was dropped on four targets.

A violent attack was made against Salamaua, the big Japanese base on Huon gulf on the northeast coast of New Guinea.

"Our heavy and medium bombers in coördinated attack, concentrated 103 tons of high explosives on targets in the town, harbor, and river areas and south to Nuk Nuk village, causing heavy damage, fires, and explosions," the war bulletin said.

Camps Are Strafed.

Ground activity in the Salamaua area, scene of recent brisk skirmishes, was limited to patrolling and artillery harassing fire.

Medium bombers bombed and machine gunned bridges and enemy construction camps areas on the main road leading south from Bogadjim, a coastal village 20 miles south of Madang, New Guinea. The bombers, leaving many fires burning in the area, swept south along the coast, smashing enemy barges as they went.

Bombers hit Vila airdrome on Kolombangara Island twice, dropping 63 tons of bombs and causing large fires. Reconnaissance planes followed up with a night bombing of the airdrome.

Rains Hamper Advance.

Across Kula gulf from Vila torpedo and dive bombers, with fighter escort, attacked enemy positions in Bairoko harbor, the former Munda supply base on New Georgia Island.

"Our ground forces advancing north from Munda toward Bairoko are being hampered by heavy rains," the bulletin said.

It added that 11 disabled Japanese planes had been captured at Munda.

Northwest of Australia Liberators dropped 36 tons of bombs at night on Amboina, former Dutch naval base, causing fires and explosions visible many miles away. Large fires also were set on the Doela air field in the Kai Islands, 500 miles north of Darwin.

2 BIG ORDNANCE PLANTS PUT IN CIVILIAN HANDS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 (AP).—Management of two large army ordnance depots has been turned over to private corporations which will operate them on a cost plus fixed fee basis, the war department announced today.

The Atlas Powder company will manage the Portage ordnance depot at Ravenna, O., and Procter and Gamble, Inc., already has taken over a depot at Milan, Tenn. Both companies also operate ammunition loading plants in the vicinity of the depots.

"The transfer from army to private management of these installations," said the announcement, "is an experiment designed to take advantage of every possible opportunity to achieve the greatest efficiency in prosecution of the war."

Officials said only a limited number of army officers were stationed at the depots, and the civilian workers, all civil service employees, were being offered employment with the new management at no reduction in wages or salaries. The fixed fee for management of the depots, said the department, is "a fraction of 1 per cent of the estimated operating cost."

BRITAIN THROWS SOME CASH INTO DESTROYER DEAL

Offers to Pay Cost of Base Sites.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 (AP).—The state department announced tonight that the British government has offered to compensate the owners of private property involved in the establishment of American western hemisphere bases on sites acquired from Britain in the destroyers for bases deal of September, 1940.

In the original agreement, providing for the transfer of 50 destroyers to Britain in return for 99 year leases on bases in Newfoundland, Bermuda, the Bahamas, Jamaica, Antigua, St. Lucia, Trinidad, and British Guiana, the United States undertook to compensate the owners of private property for loss by expropriation or damage.

In taking over the compensation costs, the British government assumes the burden of paying for properties appraised at $5,500,000.

"However," the state department explains, "the total cost to the British government may be considerably in excess of this amount."

In addition to the actual value of the private property involved, it states, the compensation will include, in many cases, the cost of moving and resettlement, awards for temporary loss of business or earning power, legal fees and, in some cases, bonuses paid to induce the owners to vacate immediately.

The announcement adds that the British government's "generous offer . . . will, therefore, serve to make these bases stand out not only as effective weapons in time of war but also as tangible reminders at all times of the friendship and coöperation of the British government."

TRAP NAZI WAR TRAIN IN PASS OF THERMOPYLAE

JERUSALEM, Aug. 9 (AP).—Historic Thermopylae pass again was the scene of an important military exploit recently when Greek guerrillas destroyed the railway bridge there, causing a German military train with 25 cars to plunge into the pass, Greek reports reaching here today disclosed.

Germans who survived were slaughtered by the guerrillas lying in ambush. They salvaged valuable material, including machine guns, these reports said. Destruction of the bridge crippled communications between Salonika and Athens.

Thermopylae pass is chiefly famous for the stand made there by the Spartan king, Leonidas, who was slaughtered in its defense along with most of his soldiers by the Persian army of Xerxes in 480 B. C.

EYEWITNESS TO SEA FIGHT SEES JAP SHIPS SUNK

'Cruiser Goes Up in Air Like a Broncho.'

BY ART BURGESS.

ABOARD THE FLAGSHIP OF A NAVAL TASK FORCE, Aug. 7 [Delayed] (AP).—A light American naval force of "Jack the Giant Killers" sank at least four Japanese warships today in one of the most daring attacks of the war.

The United States ships steamed right into the enemy's stronghold in Vella Gulf in the Solomons and destroyed one cruiser and three destroyers. I was the only war correspondent aboard the flagship of the American task force.

[Gen. MacArthur's war bulletin of Aug. 8 said one cruiser and two destroyers were definitely sunk and the fourth vessel "probably so," and added, we sustained no losses.]

From the bridge deck and the direction platform above, I had an unopposed view of the entire battle. I saw the Nipponese cruiser, a three stacker with an airplane hoist, explode soon after it was hit by torpedoes and shells from our ships.

Cruiser Catches Fire.

The cruiser, standing broadside to us, first caught fire in her bow from torpedoes, and when our gun batteries opened upon her I saw additional fire break out, followed by a terrifying explosion.

The blast sent flames thousands of feet in the air, enabling me to take down notes as if under a hundred watt lamp. The fire—in sheets of yellow, orange and red—spread over the water, lighting up the channel from shore despite overcast weather.

Then a Japanese destroyer hove in sight directly in front of the burning cruiser, making it stand out as a perfect target. It gave us a good idea, too, how big the cruiser was.

After salvo after salvo was fired into her by several United States ships, all of which were changing course from time to time, the enemy cruiser went up into the air like a Texas broncho. Then she plunged down and sank within a few minutes.

Torpedoes Sink Two.

Meanwhile, our torpedoes hit the other two Japanese ships, one of which also exploded. The other was burning from stem to stern when we left one hour and 20 minutes later.

The first cannonade from our ship caught me climbing the ladder from bridge to deck to the direction platform. The powerful blast sent me reeling back against the bridge railing, knocking off my tin hat.

The battle opened shortly after midnight Aug. 6. The sky was overcast. The enemy ships were proceeding in a direction opposite to ours and at slower speed, indicating they might have been preparing to drop anchor and land reinforcements.

This flagship carried the fight to the enemy all the way. After leading our forces into Vella Gulf, the flagship held its fire, closing our range.

Encircles the Japs.

We changed course to speed around the enemy. Other members of the task force who had been trailing us then opened fire and drew a return fire, apparently from enemy destroyers and shore batteries.

Within a few minutes our flagship had come around the Japs, catching them flat-footed in cross fire from another section of the channel. I don't believe the enemy ever knew our ship was there until that moment. Soon all forces were sending shell after shell across the water.

I could see our tracers penetrate into one enemy ship with deadly accuracy. None of our ships received a single hit or casualty.

Enemy shell fire was off beam in most cases. Our ship received only two near misses, one of which fell behind the stern. Several torpedoes missed us, one coming within a few yards of the bow, but masterful handling of the ship kept us away from it.

Fumes Prevent Rescues.

When the "captain's talker"—Yeoman 1st Class Francis P. McEnany, 25, of Manning, Ia., received word over the ship's intercommunication system of the torpedo approaching, the captain quietly issued orders for changing to a new course.

For miles afterward we could see fires, and somtimes flames shooting across the water rapidly as blazing oil slicks joined. Near the end we moved in close to the other ships and attempted to pick up survivors. There were dozens of them in the dark water. Fumes and smoke drove us back.

Lt. Comdr. Clifton Iverson celebrated his 35th birthday with the sinkings. It also was the anniversary of American landings at Guadalcanal, so every one thought the United States victory particularly appropriate.

Iverson is from Houston. He has two brothers in the navy.

BENES DOESN'T FEAR RUSSIA AFTER THE WAR

New York, Aug. 9 (AP).—Declaring that his country lies "under the guns" of Russia, Dr. Eduard Benes, president of the Czecho-Slovak government in exile, said today he did not "fear soviet interference in my country's way of life after the war."

"Russia, I am sure," said Benes in an article in the current issue of Liberty magazine, "will have no aggressive interest in the internal affairs of other countries and in the future will develop as a socialistic state within her own boundaries."

"She will be eager to coöperate with other nations to the degree they are willing to coöperate with her."

He said there could be no "general world security" without America or the soviet union as participants.

STANDLEY VISITS REDS' STEEL AND TANK FACTORIES

Envoy Says Ural Workers Looked Well Fed.

Moscow, Aug. 9 (AP).—Completing a four day inspection trip of soviet tank factories and steel plants in the Urals, Adm. William H. Standley, United States ambassador, said tonight that "very effective work is being done" and that he was "very much impressed" by Russia's eastern industries.

The trip was the ambassador's first to the Ural region and one of the few such visits authorized by the soviet government for foreigners. It was made in a special plane with Pullman bunks placed at the admiral's disposal by the United States navy.

Self-Contained Factory.

One of the three plants visited was almost entirely self-contained, producing in its shops everything that goes into a tank from guns to rubber. It "compares favorably with the factories at home," Standley said. "An enormous amout of steel is coming out of the steel plants."

Standley said that "everywhere we went they apparently had an abundance of food." He saw enormous fields of potatoes and other crops the state farms are producing for workers.

"The people not only looked well fed but they know what they are doing. They are going about their business without fuss or feathers.

No Signs of Overwork.

"They all looked lean and wiry as tho they were on the job but I didn't see any emaciation or signs of overwork."

Standley also expressed himself as impressed with the housing facilities. Women constituted about 35 per cent of the workers in the steel works and about 45 per cent in other factories.

The admiral was accompanied by Dr. Louis Michaels, agricultural attache; E. Bland Calder, economic expert; Dr. Fred Lang, physician; Edward Page, second secretary of the embassy, and five Americans forming the plane's crew.

CANADA TO PUT HEAT WASTE ON LIST OF CRIMES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 9.—With a serious coal shortage threatening Canadians next winter, it is to be made a crime in Canada to waste "coal or heat."

Munitions Minister Clarence D. Howe announced in a coast to coast broadcast tonight that the new law will apply to householders as well as commercial and industrial users.

Maximum temperatures will be established for industrial and commercial plants and less heat will be permitted in theaters and public buildings, Howe said.

Canada's coal needs have leaped from a peace time 30 million tons to this year's requirement of 43 million, altho in three years, imports from the United States have doubled.

MRS. LUCE RIPS CHURCHILL FOR VIEWS ON INDIA

Asks Whether Freedom's White Man's Monopoly.

New York, Aug. 9 [Special].—Rep. Clare Boothe Luce tonight assailed Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Britain for regarding freedom as "the white man's monopoly" in an address prepared for delivery before a meeting of the India League of America in Town hall. Mrs. Luce was unable to attend the meeting because of illness, but her address was read by Sirdar J. J. Singh, president of the league, who presided.

In her prepared address Mrs. Luce called on President Roosevelt and other American leaders to abandon their "Pontius Pilate silence" on the question of India and expressed the hope that after the war ends with the defeat of Japan no American would "lift a finger to help the British defeat the Indians in their fight for freedom."

The meeting, attended by more than 1,500 persons, adopted a resolution declaring that "India's just demands for freedom have become a test of the sincerity of the provisions of the Atlantic Charter and of the other proclamations of the united nations, particularly among the millions of the near and far east." The resolution put forward a four point program as a means for solution of the problem.

Ask Pledge of Freedom.

The program called for the release of political prisoners in India; immediate resumption of negotiations between the British government and the Indian parties with a view to setting up a provisional national government in India to enlist the wholeheated support of the people of India for the war; guarantee of complete freedom for India after the war by joint declaration of the leading members of the allied nations, and the offer by the United States of its good offices to accomplish this program if mediation should prove necessary.

"Certainly we fight for the freedom of every white man in Europe," said Mrs. Luce. "But do we fight for the freedom and liberty of the south sea islanders, the Malaysians, the Indians, and the peoples of Asia? May I inquire if the Atlantic Charter extends to the peoples of Asia?

What About Roosevelt?

"Mr. Winston Churchill is neither embarrassed nor frightened by these questions. Mr. Churchill, heroic in all things, answered unafraid:

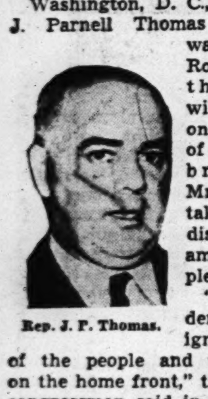
"'I do not intend to preside over the liquidation of the British empire. We intend to hold our own.' Freedom, political freedom, he says, is not so much the white man's concept as the white man's monopoly. So back into the cage of imperialism, you brown-skinned white man's burdens!

"But what of Franklin Roosevelt? Where does he stand about Mr. Nehru? Mr. Roosevelt is the world's best informed man, they say. He must know that Mr. Nehru's only fault is a passionate love for western concepts of political freedom and democracy. Does Mr. Roosevelt see no fault with this man who is now languishing in jail? I am sure he sees none."

WARNS F.D.R. HE FACES CHECK BY ANGRY CONGRESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—Rep. J. Parnell Thomas [R., N. J.] warned President Roosevelt today that congress will clamp down on the powers of the executive branch unless Mr. Roosevelt takes notice of dissatisfaction among the people at home.



Rep. J. P. Thomas.

"If the President continues to ignore the plight of the people and the rumblings on the home front," the New Jersey congressman said in a public statement, "congress, before this session is over, will enact legislation drastically curbing the executive branch of the government. The temper of congress is certainly not healthy for the New Deal."

Rep. Thomas demanded that the President order a thoro housecleaning in the OPA. The underlying evil of the agency, Rep. Thomas said, is its use by the New Deal as a club for regimentation, rather than as a bulwark against the rising costs of living.

Waive Sworn Statements in Presidential Primary

WALLACE LISTED TO TALK HERE ON POST-WAR PLAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—Vice President Henry A. Wallace, advocate of a quart of milk a day for everybody in the post-war world, has joined the Ball-Hatch-Hill-Burton post-war plan caravan for a Chicago address. Wallace announced that he has accepted an invitation from the groups supporting the plan to speak in Chicago Sept. 11. The speech will be broadcast.

The plan, which contemplates that the allied nations will police the world after the war, is embodied in a resolution presented in the senate last March 16. The resolution was drawn by Sen. Joseph H. Ball [R., Minn.], a Willkieite, in collaboration with Senators Carl A. Hatch [D., N. M.], Harold H. Burton [R., O.], and Lister Hill [D., Ala.].

Altho the plan has been severely criticized in both the senate and the house, a strong organization to promote it thruout the nation has quietly sprung up.

The Ball resolution asks the senate to take the lead in recommending a meeting of representatives of the allied nations to form an international organization for coördination of military and economic resources in the prosecution of the war.

BRITISH BOMBERS RESUME RAIDS ON NAZI TARGETS

LONDON, Aug. 10 [Tuesday]—(AP).—R. A. F. bombers attacked Germany last night for the first time since last Wednesday night, the British announced today, and reports from the English southeast coast indicated the assault had been carried out in strong force.

The night raids were preceded by a series of allied fighter sweeps over northern France last evening, during which seven enemy planes were reported shot down. Three allied fighters failed to return.

The last night attack on Germany last Wednesday was carried out by swift Mosquito bombers and was directed against targets in the Ruhr and Rhineland.

Chance Meeting

A SOUTH PACIFIC MARINE BASE [Delayed].—A navy man who hadn't seen his marine son in 18 months got a real surprise here. From his hospital bed he asked a nurse to bring him a glass of water, and she returned accompanied by his son.

Hugo Reinecke, 43 year old mail handler of Milwaukee, was hospitalized with a tropical malady and had just finished a letter intended for his son when he asked for the water. The son is Pvt. Ray Reinecke, 18.

Ray said he had known his father was in this area but had been unable to get leave to look him up. The father hopes soon to be back at his job helping to get the mail thru.

2 CHICAGOANS IN JAP HANDS WRITE PARENTS

George L. Protz, 9664 Franklin avenue, Franklin Park, yesterday received a postal card from his son, Staff Sgt. Albert L. Protz, a marine taken prisoner by the Japanese on Corregidor. Sgt. Protz, who wrote that he was in a military prison, said he was well. The card was the first word Protz and his wife had received from their son since Christmas eve, 1941.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Albert, 333 South Pulaski road, also have received a card from their son, Philip, a Japanese prisoner of war in the Philippines, assuring them that he is well.

This is their first direct communication from him since before Pearl Harbor. He enlisted in the marine corps three years ago, spent several months in Shanghai, and was transferred to the Philippines two weeks before the Pearl Harbor attack. He also was captured at Corregidor.

BARMAID FINED $100.

Judge John T. Zuris in Domestic Relations court yesterday imposed a fine of $100 and costs upon Hazel Sigman, 22 years old, 506 South Oakley boulevard, a barmaid in a tavern at 2508 Madison street, for serving liquor to Irma Jiminez, 16, of 837 South Ashland avenue, and Elizabeth Hampstead, 17, of 515 South Oakley boulevard.

ROOSEVELT BACK AFTER VACATION AT CANADA LAKE

Meeting with Churchill Expected Soon.

London Speculates

LONDON, Aug. 10 [Tuesday]—[Special].—London's newspapers treated President Roosevelt's fishing trip to Canada with decorum. Most of them merely printed the news from Washington and let it go at that, altho a few, like the Daily Express, speculated on what Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt would have talked about if they had been together. All the speculation as well as the news about the trip originated from Washington. Fleet street has not hazarded a guess on its own regarding the prime minister's whereabouts.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—President Roosevelt returned to the White House today from a Lake Huron vacation as the capital awaited official confirmation of reports that Adolf Hitler had been shelved by a military government in Germany.

The White House was silent on the reports as Mr. Roosevelt plunged into a series of conferences with Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and British Ambassador Halifax. During the day heads of various federal information agencies were summoned to the executive mansion.

The White House also refused to comment on reports that Mr. Roosevelt is about to meet with Prime Minister Winston Churchill in a series of significant conferences on the state of affairs in Germany, the cracking of Italy, and Russian overtures of a separate peace to the Nazis.

Reports Not Confirmed.

At the state department, Hull said the American government has received no confirmation on the widespread reports that Hitler has fallen and has been replaced by a military tribunal composed of Field Marshal Herman Goering, Field Marshal William Keitel, and Adm. Karl Doenitz.

As he left the White House, the secretary would not discuss his luncheon conference with the President. Marshall was also tight lipped. Halifax said his 40 minute conference had embraced the Italian situation.

Halifax Gives Clew.

Questioned about the reports of the deposing of Hitler, Halifax said he would not attach too much importance to them even if they were true. This was regarded as serving notice the allies are determined to carry on the war to unconditional surrender regardless of the political set-up in Germany.

It was generally felt that the summoning of the information heads indicated that the President and Mr. Churchill are about to meet here. In some quarters it was said that it is even possible that Josef Stalin may have at last been persuaded to meet with his allies.

The President prepared a statement in his own handwriting to announce his return. It read:

"The President has returned to Washington after a short vacation in Canada on the north shore of Lake Huron near McGregor and White Fish bays.

He was accompanied by his chief of staff, Adm. William D. Leahy; Rear Adm. Wilson Brown, naval aid; Maj. Gen. Edwin M. Watson, military aid; Rear Adm. Ross T. McIntire; James F. Byrnes, director of war mobilization, and Hopkins [special assistant to the President].

Ate Most of His Fish.

BIRCH ISLAND STATION, Ont., Aug. 9 (AP).—President Roosevelt fished and fed last week from northern Ontario waters in the vicinity of this picturesque Indian village nine miles north of Little Current on Manitoulin Island.

Most distinguished angler ever to gaff a wall-eye in McGregor bay or haul a small-mouth black bass from Whitefish bay, the President enjoyed phenomenal luck and has indicated that he will return to this area again.

"He said he was coming back to Birch Island to fish here again," probably next year, said Donald Mackenzie of Little Current, who acted as chief guide for the President on his fishing trips.

"Mr. Roosevelt said he ate most of the fish he caught—he loves a real fish fry—and he also had several treats of fresh Manitoulin Island blueberries," said Charles R. Bradley, Little Current tugboat captain who was attached to the Presidential party as official pilot.

Lived on Special Train.

"Even Fala [the President's black Scottie] took a liking to our blueberries."

For a full week the President lived on his 10 car special train on a Canadian Pacific railway siding at the water's edge. For affairs of state he was "officially" lost to the world during his days on Canadian soil.

Strict censorship prevented earlier publication of news about his trip—his departure from Washington July 31, his trip to Niagara Falls and then to Sudbury thru Ontario with every railway crossing guarded and switches spiked to guard against accident, his arrival at Birch Island Aug. 1 and his departure last week-end.

SETTLE PROTEST OVER BUILDING OF 20 WAR HOMES

Settlement of the dispute over the construction of 20 war project homes on Parnell avenue between 105th and 107th streets, appeared imminent yesterday after a meeting of property holders and E. J. Kelly, state director of the federal housing administration. The FHA granted priorities for the homes.

Teninga & Co., of 10833 Michigan avenue, began work on the homes 10 days ago. A group of home owners tried to block the project, alleging the new homes "would cheapen the neighborhood."

Atty. John P. Loughnane, who represented the property owners at the meeting, said they would be satisfied with certain compromises, the nature of which was not disclosed.

War," despite its approval by the office of censorship.

The book defends Draja Mihailovitch, the guerilla general, who recently has been the object of a campaign of villification by American Communists but who is recognized by the Jugo-Slav government in exile.

Miss Mitchell, who served under Mihailovitch and later was a German prisoner for 14 months, is a sister of the late Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, a pioneer exponent of air power.

OWI Terms it "Dangerous."

Miss Mitchell said her book was to have gone to press about July 1 but that Chester Kerr, chief of the OWI book division, went to her publisher, Doubleday-Doran & Co., Inc., of New York City and asked the company to suppress the book as "dangerous" to American foreign policy.

"When Mr. Kerr first objected to the book he asked that all political matter be taken out," Miss Mitchell said. "When we asked that he put that in writing, he declined. Then we asked him to mark the objectionable sections and he refused.

"He kept insisting this was not a 'formal protest,' and declined to say who in OWI had set forth that policy. Finally I spoke with one of the highest officials in the state department who told me there was not the slightest objection to the publication."

Maxwell Aley, the author's New York literary agent, said the publisher had informed him the book's publication date had been delayed about a month because of the OWI protest. The book publishing division of the office of censorship approved the book before Kerr asked to see it.

Kerr was described as bitter about the book after he had read it, but was said to have insisted his protests be kept confidential.

Miss Mitchell said that when she returned from Europe last year Kerr was friendly with her but that his attitude changed "after he discovered I would not take the Communist line but insisted the Serbs never will accept orders from Moscow any more than from Berlin."

"He favored a soviet Balkans," she said.

Champion of Communist.

Kerr has been active in attempting to obtain the release of Samuel Darcy, Communist candidate for governor of California, whose conviction for perjury was upheld last month by the California Supreme court. Kerr wrote a letter on this subject which was published Sept. 17, 1941, in the New York Daily Worker, Communist official organ.

Miss Mitchell has clashed previously with the OWI regarding its attitude toward the Serbs. She recently sent a public letter of protest to Elmer Davis, OWI director, accusing him of maintaining a "pro-Croat" policy despite Croat responsibility for axis collaboration.

"You never have lifted a finger to stop the slanders, falsehoods, and villifications of the Serbs and the allied leader Gen. Mihailovitch, in the Croat-American and Communist press," she told Daxis. "You have encouraged the undermining of American support for our desperately hard pressed and loyal allies."

Kerr Denies Charges.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 [Special].—Chester Kerr, head of the book section of the office of war information, said here today he gave Doubleday-Doran & Co., Inc., an "off the record" opinion of Miss Ruth Mitchell's book about Serbian Chetniks, but that he doubted if publication of the book was held up because of OWI. "If so, that was Doubleday's decision," he said, adding, "OWI is not in a position to recommend changes in any book." He called Miss Mitchell's charges "complete nonsense."

BRITISH TO SEIZE PRIVATE HOMES; END CROWDING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Local authorities of England and Wales have been given the power to requisition private houses to secure more accommodation for people now living in overcrowded or other inadequate conditions. Previously they were restricted to taking over accommodation only for evacuated and bombed out families and transferred war workers.

Proprietors or tenants of vacant houses, however, will be given an opportunity of renting or reoccupying the premises.

In a circular to local authorities Health Secretary Ernest Brown urges them to give special consideration to people occupying unsanitary or overcrowded houses, and who have large families or are living under unsatisfactory housing conditions.

ENGLISH CHURCH GETTING RID OF SHADY LEASES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 10 [Tuesday].—The Church of England is losing $20,000 yearly by refusing to renew land leases of houses in London's Paddington district which it suspects are being used for immoral purposes.

This was revealed in a pamphlet issued by the church today answering criticisms by soldiers to service chaplains that the church derived considerable benefit from rents on disorderly houses. The pamphlet points out the church receives no rents from the houses and leased the land many years ago. It can take action only when the land leases expire.

Replying to a suggestion that the church has no business meddling in politics, the pamphlet insists that the clergy as its spokesmen "have a duty to the community to point out the features of national life which are, in any way in their judgment, undesirable." It denies that bishops draw large salaries and live sumptuously in palaces.

British Observer Corps Fights Butterfly Invasion

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 10 [Tuesday].—A new type of observer corps, made up of volunteers, is watching the east coast of Britain to sound an invasion alarm — against butterflies. Swarms of white butterflies have been flying into Norfolk and Suffolk from the sea in dense clouds at intervals for several days, menacing crops. One expert said one swarm had arrived at the rate of 1,000 each minute. Immediately the observers spot the invaders they notify agricultural authorities at Norwich who tip off farmers to spray their plants with a tar oil to defeat the pests.

STEEL FIRM IN CANADA TESTS NEW LABOR LAW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 9.—The first attack on the constitutionality of the Ontario collective bargaining act of 1943 was launched in the Labor court here today.

Sen. J. J. Bench, representing Atlas Steels, Ltd., Welland, Ont., announced a writ had been issued on behalf of that company against the attorney general of Ontario asking for a declaration that the act was beyond the authority of the legislature. The company, he said, is engaged in the manufactuse of munitions and war supplies.

Justice Kelly was hearing preliminary objections by Bench against an application of United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America to be named as bargaining agency. Bench contended the international union could not qualify because it was not an association of employes but of unions.

135 CONVICTS WIN ARMY O. K.; 4 '42' BANDITS IN LOT

One hundred thirty-five prisoners in the Stateville and Joliet penitentiaries have been approved by the parole board and army examiners for eventual induction into the army.

Among them are Frank Tufano, Paul Rossi, Dominic Di Nardi, and Joseph Perello, who are serving terms of 1 year to life for the $150,000 holdup in the Lake Forest home of William H. Mitchell on Nov. 21, 1931. They were members of the old "42" gang. Mitchell said last night that he has given his approval to their parole for military duty.

"On previous occasions, I have taken the attitude that they should not be paroled," he said. "However, in view of the years they have served, there will be no objection from me if they are really going into the fighting."

Joe—Say, Pete, a lot of the folks who are reading this ad want to know how the cars of so many different railroads get hooked up into one Burlington train like that one you're working on. Why don't you tell them?

Pete—OK, I'll try. See that map at the bottom of the ad? See all those lines? They represent railroads. The heavy ones are the Burlington. The light ones are a lot of other railroads, each one serving a particular part of the country.

Joe—Notice how the heavy lines are entirely surrounded by the light ones.

Pete—Right—and that's why you see the cars of so many different railroads in this train—in every Burlington train. You see, the Burlington is an important link between railroads of the North, East, South and West.

Joe—The Burlington covers a lot of important territory, too. More than 11,000 miles in 13 states—some of them agricultural, some industrial, and all of them mighty important in winning this war.

Pete—Yes, and that's not all—it serves 22 principal gateways and has over 200 interchange points.

Joe—Better explain what an interchange point is, Pete.

Pete—Good idea, Joe. It's a place where freight cars are switched from one railroad to another. This is an interchange point right here and that's exactly what we're doing—switching these cars from all over the country into one Burlington train and heading it on its way—fast!

★ ★ ★

Day and night, this assembling and routing of vital war materials and equipment continues. It's a big job, and we of the Burlington, more than 35,000 of us, are proud to be among the armies of railroaders who have teamed up to see that it's done—and right!

CHANGE TRIBUNE PLANT ALCOHOL TO RUBBER BASE

Test Run Transforms It Into Butadiene.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 1—In what is believed to be the first operation of its kind in America, alcohol salvaged from waste sulphite liquor at the Chicago Tribune's Canadian paper mills was converted here into butadiene as the main ingredient for rubber to be used in tire tests by the Tribune.

The alcohol, produce of the first modern sulphite liquor distillery in the western hemisphere, arrived from Canada as a potent but potable liquid, 192 proof as compared with the government's requirement for 190 proof.

In a juggle of atoms at an experimental plant of Celanese Corporation of America, it became in turn three other chemicals and then became butadiene, the colorless, volatile liquid which is the main constituent of Buna-S, the synthetic material forming the bulk of the government's rubber program.

Improvement on German Process.

The process is different from any being operated or under construction and is an adaptation and improvement on the process that produces most of Germany's butadiene. Samples of the product were analyzed as 99.2 per cent pure.

The pilot operation here was financed with private funds, and in this respect the project is similar to the Chicago Tribune enterprise in pioneering a new source for alcohol that does not drain national reserves of petroleum or grains.

In a further parallel, both the Tribune and Celanese are exploring new sources for war materials. Both projects are enterprises of private initiative. Both of the parent concerns are big enough to take a loss, as contributions to the war, should either of the ventures fail. And both are promising of success.

Made Into Aldehyde.

The Celanese experimental operation is conducted in three assemblies tucked into a corner of an 800 acre industrial empire devoted mainly to manufacture of synthetic textile yarns. In the first stage, the alcohol [CH_3CH_2OH] is converted into acetaldehyde [CH_3CHO] in the presence of a metallic catalyst.

"We removed a little balloon gas [hydrogen] from the alcohol and it became a poison deadly to imbibe or even to inhale," said Joseph Bludworth, research engineer in charge of this development work.

He handed this reporter a vial of acetaldehyde, a basic material in several synthetic industries. It is a colorless liquid boiling at 65 degrees Fahrenheit. We took a slight sniff, and the sensation seemed to life one's head off.

Feeling of Suffocation.

"You can't get much of it thru your nose," Bludworth said, comfortingly, "because your system revolts convulsively against it. That's why you get a feeling of suffocation."

The three other stages take place in a tall assembly of steel columns, tanks, pumps and pipes. The acetaldehyde first becomes aldol, an oily liquid, $CH_3CH [OH] CH_2CHO$, by a reaction in the presence of a dilute alkali at freezing temperatures. The aldol is hydrogenated under pressure with a catalyst to become 1, 3-butylene glycol, $CH_3CH[OH]CH_2CH_2AH$. The final transition is to butadiene, the main ingredient of Buna-S rubber.

Process Not Dramatic.

The chemical activity is invisible to the eye of a lay visitor. The plant appears to be static. The mysterious rearrangements of atoms take place in the columns, stills and tanks. The visitor hears the low throb of a pump and sees a workman walking from gauge to gauge. Otherwise, nothing apparent is happening.

"Our pilot plant operation to date has indicated strongly the worth of this process in the synthetic rubber program," said Celanese president, Dr. Camille Dreyfus. "The process is simple and unlike other processes does not require quantities of critical metals and scarce and expensive materials for its construction. Consequently the plant cost per ton of product is low. The alcohol," he added, "which was derived from waste sulphite liquors is pure and should be excellent for the making of butadiene by our process."

AFL Board Opens Summer Session

Demands Roll Back

Charging that the office of price administration and the war food administration had failed to do their job of keeping food prices down, the American Federation of Labor executive board yesterday demanded that the government roll back food prices immediately to the levels of September, 1942.

The board opened its summer session in the Drake hotel. Daily sessions will be held thru the week. William Green, president of the AFL, presided over the meeting with George Meaney, secretary and treasurer, and 11 vice presidents in attendance.

The board said it was convinced the economic stabilization program had worked thus far in only one direction—to freeze wages. The board suggested that the only way to unscramble the confusion in the food situation is to provide for production of sufficient food for all wan time needs, put prices of food into an equitable relationship with wages, and stabilize both at a reasonable and fair level.

Green indicated that the United Mine Workers' union petition for affiliation with the AFL would be taken up by the council today. He said he had received a request from the AFL Progressive Mine Workers' union to appear before the board on the question of John L. Lewis' organization rejoining the AFL with his 600,000 members.

HULL SILENT ON RECALL OF ENVOY TO ARGENTINA

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 (AP).—The recall of American Ambassador Norman Armour from his post in Argentina raised the question tonight whether he would ever return to Buenos Aires, a capital which still maintains relations with the axis. Secretary of State Cordull Hull was noncommittal when the subject came up at his press conference today.

Asked why Armour was leaving his post, Hull said he was coming back to Washington for consultation concerning American relations with that part of the western hemisphere with special reference to Argentine developments as they relate to the general international situation.

He was pressed for comment on reports that Armour's recall reflects American disappointment with the regime of President Pedro Ramirez which promised closer coöperation with other American republics when it ousted President Ramon S. Castillo last June, but has continued to have diplomatic relations with the axis. Hull replied only that he thought that phase of the matter was self explanatory.

P-38 FIGHTER PROVES WORTH IN NEW GUINEA

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Aug. 2 [Delayed] (AP).—A year ago this month the P-38 Lockheed Lightning made its debut in what was to be the testing ground of that hard to handle, twin bodied fighter in the southwest Pacific. And in their first 12 days of combat the P-38 pilots shot down 54 Japanese planes with a loss of two aircraft, and the pilot of one of these two was saved.

A squadron of daring young pilots who had been flying other fighter planes in this area took over these untried, capricious new planes and flew them into their first test of fire, over the wild terrain of New Guinea.

Several members of that group are still flying in this theater. Among them is 1st Lt. Richard Bong of Poplar, Wis., who, however, was transferred to a rival squadron many months ago. Maj. Charles Gallup, 2703 East 76th place, Chicago, who has shot down six enemy planes, was another of its members. Still with the squadron is 1st Lt. Richard E. Smith, son of the Rev. Albert C. Smith of Evansville, Ind., who also has six Jap planes to his credit.

Dogcatcher Betty Won't Be Bothered by Wolves

New Orleans, La., Aug. 9 (AP).—Mrs. Betty Ryan Yarborough, a comely 21 year old blonde, went to work here today as the first woman dogcatcher in the city's history. "There's nothing about the job that scares me," she told reporters. "I keep an 85 pound bulldog as a pet."

U. S. FOOD CZAR ADMITS FARM CONTROL FAILS

Asks for Co-operation to Meet Crisis.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—War Food Administrator Marvin Jones in a radio address tonight indicated revolutionary changes are being made in administration farm policies; that the planned economy of Henry Wallace, Milo Perkins, and Rexford Tugwell will have no niche in the Rooseveltian conservatism.

Jones, as chairman of the house agricultural committee nad steered most of the major pieces of New Deal farm legislation thru congress. He made a startling admission of failure for the New Deal way of doing things with the declaration that "directives from Washington," won't produce food.

Crop Controls Dropped.

To this end he announced that crop controls adopted 10 years ago when the nation could not consume or sell its farm products will be discarded and the 1944 farm program will be "on a purely voluntary basis."

"The war food administration has a definite obligation to perform," he told the radio audience. "That job is to assure our armed forces, our civilian population and our allies that there will be sufficient food to sustain life and carry this war to a successful conclusion.

"This food cannot be grown on the streets of Washington. It can only be grown and properly distributed if every farmer, every livestock man, every producer of every character including the victory gardeners join in getting the essential production," Jones continued.

Coöperation Urged.

He declared that if the food production job "is to be done right" it will have to be accomplished thru the wholehearted coöperation of the various communities, the counties and the states, and all the people in these various states."

"This country is too broad, too far flung, too varied in its production to have the work done by directives from Washington," asserted the man from whose office almost every week directives intended to govern some phase of food production and distribution flow by the dozens.

Relies on People.

"We can only assist; we must largely rely upon the state, county and community organizations of the real people who have builded America and who are in a position to save America and her institutions, all of which are at stake in the conflict with which we are faced," Jones stated.

Jones gave the nation the same assurances it was given by his predecessors, Claude Wickard and Chester Davis, that "the civilian population of this country will have a sufficient amount of good, wholesome food." As did Wickard and Davis, he warned, however, our choice of foods will be limited.

ADD MORE JOBS TO WMC LIST AS NONESSENTIAL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 [Special].—The list of nonessential jobs for which draft deferments will not be permitted has been expanded by the addition of scores of occupations, officials of the war man power commission disclosed today.

Among the jobs to be added to the list are the making of toys, games, musical instruments, lace, and alcoholic beverages. The complete list is expected to be made public late this week.

Workers in the nondeferable jobs will be reclassified 1A in the draft and will lose their dependency deferments. The aim of this action is to drive both fathers and married men without children from nonessential jobs into war plants.

IT'S BIG—HUGE—IT'S COLOSSAL: A B-24 BOMBER

Plane Dwarfs Anything at Air Power Show.

75,919 See Exhibit

Attendance yesterday at the display of American air power in Tribune square was 21,690, and boosted the total for the first three days to 75,919. The exhibition, in Nathan Hale court, Tribune Tower lobby, and the parking lots adjoining the tower, is open daily from 10 a. m. to 10:30 p. m. There is no admission charge.

BY FRANK STURDY.

Growing power of the American air forces, the power that is playing a great part in devastating Germany's industrial strength and the Japs' military bases, is symbolized by the Ford-built Liberator bomber in the air power exhibit in Tribune Square.

Few of the thousands of visitors who crowd about the bomber have ever seen one at close range, and even fewer have been able to examine one in sections exposing the most minute structural details of the B-24. Frequently, people seeing the size of the main spar supporting the wing think they are looking at a section of a bridge support. The wide spar, resembling something of that weight and strength, hasn't the appearance of anything expected to be in an airplane wing.

Supports 30 Tons.

Nothing less massive would do the job. The B-24 wing, 110 feet from tip to tip, supports the weight of the entire plane—more than 60,000 pounds with a full load.

The Liberator in the show was made in the Willow Run factory of the Ford company at Detroit. The army air forces materiel command, sponsoring the show in coöperation with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, is allowing this plane, the latest model in production, to be seen publicly for the first time.

So all parts of the bomber can be seen and understood, it is set up in three sections—the nose, containing the pilots' seats, navigator, and radio operator compartments, and the bombardier's glass sighting station; the mid-section, containing bomb bays, and the after section, with control installations, tail turret, and high double-rudder assembly.

300 Miles an Hour.

All details of smooth exterior streamlining contribute to the plane's 300 miles an hour top speed, and its 6,000 pound bomb load capacity. The engines are four Pratt & Whitney 1,250 horsepower installations with turbo-superchargers.

The feature of this Liberator distinguishing it from earlier models is the Emerson electric gun turret in the nose, boosting the defense against frontal attacks, mainly relegated to the top turret in the first versions. Two 50 caliber machine guns are in the nose turret, two in the top turret, two in the rear turret and two in the belly turret, all power operated. Against side attacks, two 50s are mounted in openings in the port and starboard sides of the fuselage.

Curiosity about the belly turret, an armored sphere, centers largely in the question of how a gunner can get into it.

"A fellow would be in a bad way in there if he had to sneeze," said one onlooker, peering into the interior.

GETS JAIL TERM FOR WHISTLING AT WIFE OF COP

Two young men who made the mistake of whistling at a policeman's wife from a car they were supposed to be delivering to a garage yesterday faced Judge Joseph B. Hermes in Safety court. David Hazeltine, 18 years old, 2056 Cleveland avenue, was sentenced to nine months in the Bridewell for tampering with an automobile and Arthur Knowles, 16, of 4803 Sheridan road, was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Hazeltine and Knowles were car hikers at a loop parking lot. They went joyriding last week in the car they were delivering, picked up two girls and were parked near 1501 Olive avenue when Policeman William Hutchinson, 1455 Olive avenue, passed by with his wife, Florence. The youths whistled at Mrs. Hutchinson and the policeman promptly hauled them out of the car.

In court it was disclosed that Hazeltine had been placed on probation for three years last January on a burglary charge.

TERRY

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Edward K. Howland, 1148 North Mayfield avenue.]

THE QUESTION.
When you have to prepare it yourself, what is your favorite supper?

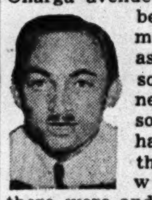
WHERE ASKED.
Wilson avenue at Broadway.

THE ANSWERS.

Frank Davis, pharmacist, 4433 Clarendon avenue — We're all prepared for just such emergencies. A box of ready mix griddle cake flour stands by at all times. Then it's a simple job for me to add a little water and bake cakes. I eat them directly from the griddle—still piping hot.

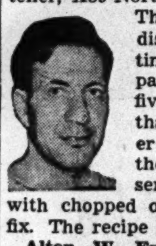
A. J. Serbins, jeweler, 1020 Lawrence avenue—If I knew I was going to have to prepare my own evening meal, I'd make sure that I ate my dinner at the lunch hour—and later than usual. Then, when I came home, I'd fry ham and eggs and ask my wife to vary the breakfast menu for the next morning

William V. Wrobel, optician, 6657 Onarga avenue—That would really be quite a problem for me. Whenever my wife asks me to suggest something I'd like, I never have any ideas, so I'm sure I wouldn't have any when I was the cook. I'd assemble whatever leftovers there were and let it go at that.



Ernest R. Bollinger, salesman, 5830 Kenmore avenue—That's when I'd start practicing some of my pet recipes. My favorite is eggnog with a dash of rum. With a little chocolate sirup and sugar and plenty of milk, it's a complete meal. Cooking would be no hardship for me. I substitute every once in a while.

Harry Wilson, currency exchange teller, 4139 North Western avenue—There's an old standby dish that I fix every time I'm left to prepare the meal. The five children know that when their mother won't be home they're going to be served scrambled eggs with chopped onions. It's easy to fix. The recipe never fails.



Alton W. Ewing, optician, 4440 North Ashland avenue—Just because I would have to cook for myself, it would be no small snack. I'd cut loose and cook. I like to do it. I'd plan and then take my time to prepare a sirloin steak and all the trimmings, complete with a fresh peach shortcake.

WARNING ISSUED TO RAISE GUARD AGAINST POLIO

With infantile paralysis on the increase in Chicago and Cook county, health authorities have issued new warnings to parents in an attempt to prevent the spread of the disease. The death of a 10 year old boy yesterday brought the Chicago fatalities to eight so far this year. Three more deaths were reported in Cook county outside of Chicago during the week-end, bringing to four the total for the year. Eleven new cases were listed in the city by the board of health yesterday, bringing the Chicago total to 56.

Dr. Edward Piszczek, director of the county health unit, reported that Howard Lang, 8 years old, 542 Cuyler avenue, Oak Park, died Saturday. His brother, Carl Lang, 14, died Sunday. Thomas Valdon, 3, of 1420 South 56th avenue, Cicero, also died Sunday.

Of the new cases reported in Chicago since last Friday, 10 are from the area bounded by Kildare avenue, Harrison street, Cermak road, and Washtenaw avenue.

The county total, exclusive of Chicago, now stands at 19 cases. Two Oak Park boys, both 11, and another from Berwyn, 10, are the latest victims. Oak Park has listed 10 cases so far, with three deaths there.

Fifth Son of Couple in Aurora Joins Army

Norman P. Bachert, 30 years old, assistant cashier of the Aurora National bank, yesterday became the fifth son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Rachert of 561 2d avenue, Aurora, to join the army. Other sons in service are Kurt, Warren, Raymond, and William.

OAK PARK FLYER MISSING AFTER RAID ON KASSEL

Lt. John A. Bartlett of the army air forces is missing after action over Kassel, Germany, his mother, Mrs. J. A. Bartlett, 320 South Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, said yesterday. Lt. Bartlett, who is 25, has been in the army since February, 1942. He received his commission as a second lieutenant at Victorville, Cal., last October, and was promoted to a first lieutenancy in April of this year. He was sent overseas in May. His betrothal to Miss Anne McKesson, 19, of Pasadena, Cal,. was announced a few months ago. A bombardier with whom he had been associated on earlier raids wrote that four men were seen to leap from Lt. Bartlett's plane near Kassel and that he might have been among them.

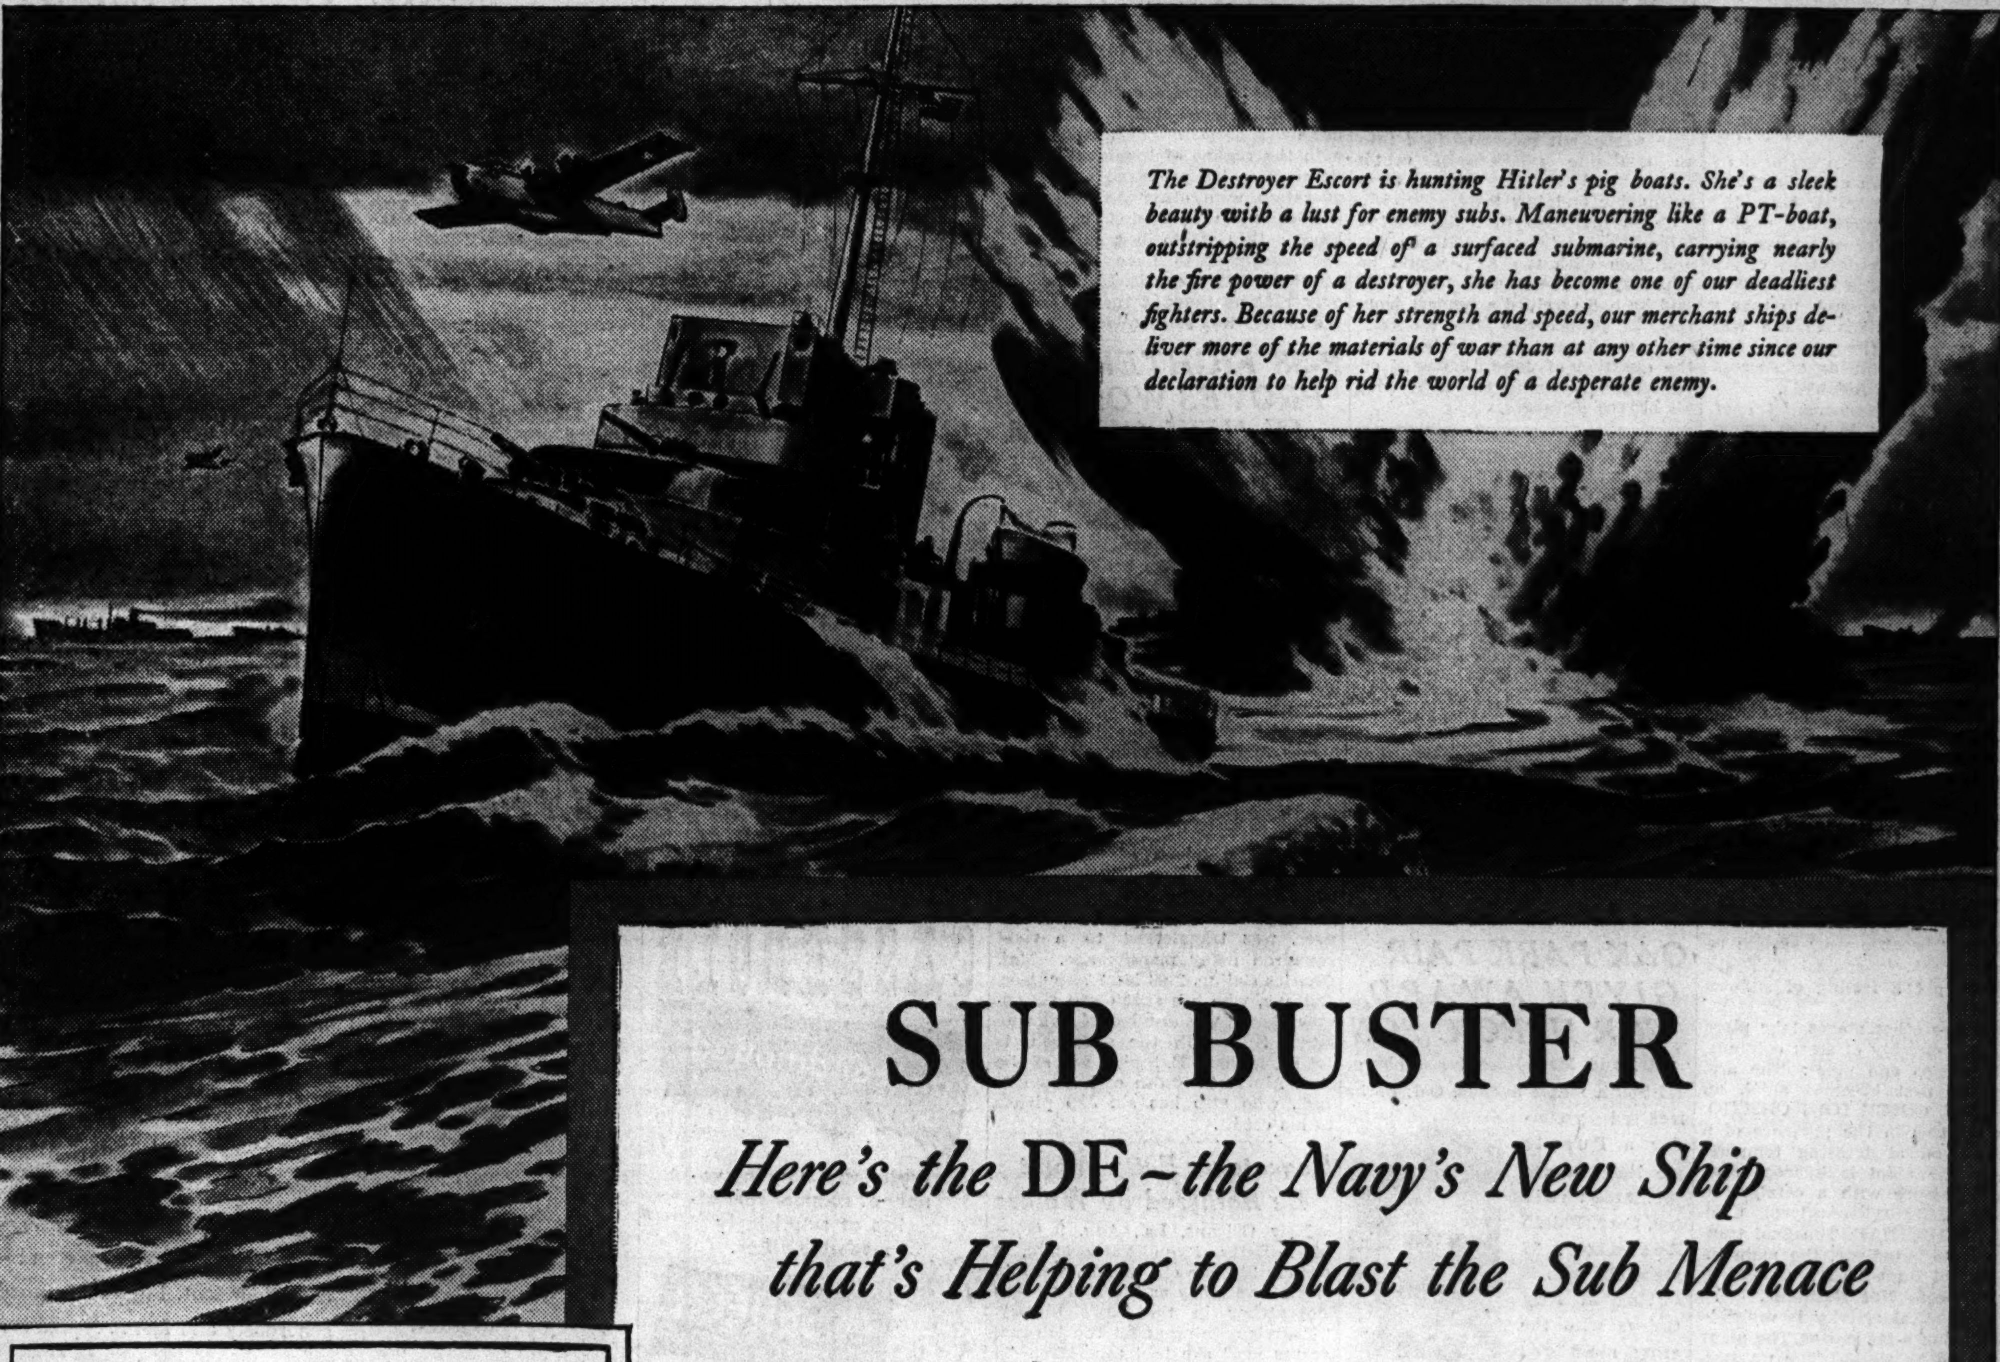
BUY MORE WAR BONDS TODAY!—2nd War Loan



The Destroyer Escort is hunting Hitler's pig boats. She's a sleek beauty with a lust for enemy subs. Maneuvering like a PT-boat, outstripping the speed of a surfaced submarine, carrying nearly the fire power of a destroyer, she has become one of our deadliest fighters. Because of her strength and speed, our merchant ships deliver more of the materials of war than at any other time since our declaration to help rid the world of a desperate enemy.

SUB BUSTER

Here's the DE—the Navy's New Ship that's Helping to Blast the Sub Menace

THE DESTROYER ESCORT is the youngest member of a distinguished family—the fighting ships of the U. S. Navy!

Power plants for all the D E's equipped with turbine-electric drive are designed and built by General Electric.

These turbine-electric units are tough little sluggers, so small that two of them—and two are used on each Destroyer Escort—fit into a single box car, and yet these two mites can drive 1700 tons of ship fast enough to overtake the speediest surfaced submarine.

All the way from the Destroyer Escort to the biggest battleship, G-E turbines are standard equipment. In fact, naval and maritime demands are so heavy now that EVERY TWELVE HOURS ANOTHER SHIP WITH G-E TURBINES HITS THE WATER!

After this war is won, there will be similar propulsion units to drive a vast new U. S. merchant marine through the seven seas, to give America cargo and passenger ships faster and more economical than any we have ever seen.

General Electric Company, Schenectady, New York.

G. E. MAKES EQUIPMENT FOR THESE SHIPS:

Carriers and Battleships — Cruisers Destroyers and Submarines — Tankers and Freighters

★ In addition to the eleven million horsepower in this year's marine turbines, auxiliary power is produced by motor-generator sets. Control of this power is achieved with a variety of switchgear equipment.

Distribution transformers raise and lower power to required voltages. Motors and controls are used for machine tools, pumps, battery chargers, and turning gears. Combat vessels employ equipment for gunfire control.

The list of G-E marine products is almost endless: wire and cable, ship fittings, plastics, signaling equipment, fans, dental X-ray equipment, electric cooking equipment, instruments, and many others.

NEW "SECRET WEAPON" DISCLOSED BY NAVY

★ Recently the Navy made public what it termed an important "secret weapon"—one that allows our big warships to go farther and hit harder because they consume up to 35 per cent less fuel than the ships of any other Navy in the world.

That "secret weapon"—the high pressure, high temperature steam turbines used on battleships, destroyers, and cruisers—is no secret to G-E engineers, who have been working on its development for more than 40 years!

Today's turbines operate at 600 pounds pressure, compared with 300 pounds 15 years ago, and at temperatures up to 850 degrees!

To the Navy those improvements mean an increased range of 25 to 35 per cent for American ships, extending the time our ships can remain at sea, simplifying the supply problem.

FREE — available soon —"The Story of the Turbine"—24 pages—illustrated. Write now to General Electric, Dept. 6-215, Schenectady, N. Y., ask for GEB-129, and we'll send your copy as soon as it comes off the press.

GENERAL ELECTRIC

NAVY'S 'HOTTEST' ARIAS TO STIR MUSIC FESTIVAL

Comdr. Peabody to Serve as Leader Aug. 21.

TICKET SALE.

Reserved seat tickets for the 14th Chicago Music Festival, to be held in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 21, are on sale at 55 cents and $1.10 at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and in the lobby of Tribune Tower. Mail orders are accepted. Checks or money orders should be made payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Thirty minutes of music and entertainment by some of the "hottest," as well as the finest, musicians in the nation's military services were promised yesterday by Lt. Comdr. Eddie Peabody as the navy's part in the 14th annual Chicago Music Festival to be held Aug. 21 in Soldiers' field.

Comdr. Peabody.

Comdr. Peabody conferred with Philip Maxwell, festival director, at Great Lakes on details of the musical organizations and individuals who will come from the naval station to take part in this year's festival.

The famous banjoist will be master of ceremonies for the navy's part of the program and will present to the festival audience such entertainers as John Carter, Metropolitan opera star, who is now a chief specialist at Great Lakes, and Billie De Wolfe, impersonator and mimic now serving at the naval station as musician second class.

"Tune Toppers" Excel.

Comdr. Peabody was particularly enthusiastic in his description of the "Tune Toppers," four musicians and entertainers who also will be among the navy's representatives. He classed them as "show stoppers."

Listed at the top in the navy's group by Comdr. Peabody is the Great Lakes a capella choir of 250 voices under the direction of Chaplain Hjalmar Hanson. The reputation of this musical organization has grown with every public appearance and reached a climax Sunday when it closed the Ravinia season with a concert that brought high praise from critics and music lovers of Chicagoland. The choir, declared by Comdr. Peabody to be unequaled anywhere in the navy, has gained national and world-wide fame thru its appearances on "Meet Your Navy" programs and by short wave broadcasts to American and allied soldiers and sailors thruout the world.

Famous Musicians in Band.

Comdr. Peabody said the Great Lakes band of 100 musicians that will form part of the navy's contribution to the festival will include men who were members of three of the nation's "hottest" bands before their entry into the navy, and also will have radio and motion picture stars.

A contingent of 50 WAVES will take part in the entry parade when more than 400 officers and enlisted personnel march in to take their place on the west side of the stage opposite the 110 piece festival symphony orchestra that will be under the direction of Henry Weber.

Elson to Share Emcee Duties.

Sharing the duties of master of ceremonies with Peabody for the navy's program will be Lt. Bob Elson, executive officer of the band and entertainment division at Great Lakes, and W-G-N sports announcer before donning his navy uniform.

The precision drilling that was such a popular part of last year's festival program will be performed this year by two marine corps drill teams of 60 men who have been in intensive training under Corp. R. F. Winkler in preparation for Festival night.

Seven Bookmakers Fined; Court Frees Six Others

Seven handbook operators were fined a total of $75 and six others seized in raids were discharged yesterday by Judge Oscar S. Caplan in South State street court. Those fined were Edward Skutnick, 736 South Wabash avenue, $25; Henry Piepgras, 225 North Michigan avenue, $10; Louis Sogolow, $10; Sam Cohen, $5, and George Hooper, $5; all seized at 40 North Wells street; John Long, 208 North Wells street, $10, and Otto Glaser, 28 East Jackson boulevard, $10.

PRISON GUARD FOUND DEAD.

MARTHA DOROTHY MILLER.

The reluctance of Judge Joseph A. Graber of Superior court to grant a divorce to Martha Miller, 26 years old, 1921 Sedgwick street, while her husband, Pvt. Walter L. Miller, was stationed in Hawaii, was overcome yesterday. Atty. Victor Frohlich, representing the plaintiff, said Miller had written that he was agreeable to the divorce because he would have greater peace of mind if free of marital ties. Mrs. Miller waived alimony claims and won restoration of her maiden name of Shaw.

S. S. NORMANDIE HALF WAY BACK TO LEVEL KEEL

New York, Aug. 9 (AP).—The U. S. S. Lafayette, formerly the French liner Normandie, rose tonight to an angle of 45 degrees—the position at which engineers said actual salvage operations could begin.

The 79,000 ton vessel, lying on her side since fire swept her at her pier a year and a half ago, had risen to an angle of 46.1 degrees this afternoon, then had slipped back slightly on an ebb tide, but lifted again as the tide came in.

Pumping operations continued as the ship reached the 45 degree angle—exactly halfway between vertical and horizontal. Salvage officials said the work was progressing so smoothly that it might not be necessary to move the vessel out into the Hudson river to finish the righting job.

NEED FOR MEN LEVELING OFF, HERSHEY SAYS

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 9 (AP).—The army's demands on civilian man power resources are leveling off, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service director, said today, and during the coming year labor shortages in critical industries are likely to be eased.

The army is now 7,000,000 strong, Gen. Hershey testified before a congressional subcommittee investigating the effect of selective service on war industries. Its goal is 8,200,000 men, he declared and requirements in the next year will be 175,000 men monthly for the army and 100,000 for the navy. This will include replacements for men being discharged as casualties and for other physical reasons. A year ago the rate was 600,000 to 700,000 men monthly, he added.

Selective service, he said, in an effort to avoid conscripting fathers, "is in a continual process of re-examining 4-F cases, and exerting pressure on military authorities to take as many of these men as possible."

"The present policy is to call up fathers only when there is no one else available," he said.

VICTIMS OF U-BOAT REBOARD FREIGHTER AND SAIL IT TO PORT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 (AP).—Manned by a skeleton crew after she had been torpedoed by a submarine in the South Atlantic, an American freighter survived a second torpedo attack, picked up its crew from lifeboats, and then made port a third of the way across the ocean, the navy reported today.

His ship torpedoed and apparently sinking, her entire foredeck awash, Capt. H. E. Stark of Reading, Mass., ordered boats lowered to permit escape of the crew.

But the ship stopped settling and six of the engine crew volunteered to join the captain in attempting to take the ship to port. The navy gun crew also remained aboard.

Soon after her engines were started, and she began moving on a zigzag course a member of the guard spotted the wake of another torpedo which missed the bow by 30 feet.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 (AP).—The navy announced today that a medium sized American freighter was torpedoed and sunk last month in the South Atlantic. Survivors have been landed at Miami, Fla.

GIRL, 17, KILLED, 4 SERIOUSLY HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Gertrude Perkins, 17 years old, 317 Forrest avenue, Aurora, was killed and five other persons injured, four seriously, in an automobile crash nine miles north of Ottawa on state route 23, which the La Salle county sheriff's office and coroner were investigating yesterday. Two automobile were found at the scene and it was suspected a third hit-and-run vehicle was involved in a collision or collisions Sunday night.

The injured were Mrs. Martha Braun and Mrs. Ignatius Dausch, both of La Salle, who were found in one automobile standing on the highway, and Miss Marie Hake, 19; her brother, William, 17, and Harold Hanson, the driver of a second car, all of Aurora, with whom Miss Perkins was riding. Hanson sustained only minor injuries, but the others were taken to the Ryburn-King hospital in Ottawa. The two women and William Hake were reported critically injured.

Hanson testified at the inquest that an approaching car's lights blinded him and that his auto was sidewiped and upset in the ditch.

Miss Perkins was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Perkins of Aurora. Three of her four brothers are in the army and navy.

MOTHER GIVEN SON'S CUSTODY AS DEATH ENDS DIVORCE NEED

Mrs. Edna Downing of 5049 Fulton street, who last winter offered to dissolve her second marriage so that she could remarry her first husband, Burton W. Colclasure of Lake Bluff, to make a home for her son, Burton Jr., 6 years old, yesterday was awarded the custody of the boy in Lake County Circuit court. Colclasure was killed last July 19 while working in the Portsmouth, Va., navy yard.

Mrs. Downing had been divorced from Colclasure in December, 1941, and the custody of the boy had been given to the husband, who lived with his father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Colclasure, 10 North avenue, Lake Bluff.

Testimony in yesterday's hearing before Judge Ralph J. Dady disclosed that Mrs. Downing had offered to divorce her husband, Clarence, last winter and remarry Colclasure in order to get her son back. Downing testified that he had agreed to the plan.

Judge Dady, in his decision, said he was convinced of Mrs. Downing's good intentions and that he felt the best place for Burton was with his mother.

MARINE GUNNER SAYS TOP THRILL IS DIVE BOMBING

Diving to bomb Japanese battleships, strafing decks, and pulling out at 400 foot altitudes is the "most thrilling work in the world," Master Technical Sgt. Frank Edward Zelnis, 25 years old, a marine, said yesterday after he had arrived to spend his first furlough in 27 months with his wife, Laverne, 10252 Hoxie avenue.

Sgt. Frank Zelnis.

Sgt. Zelnis, an electric welder at the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company before he enlisted in 1938, saw action at Pearl Harbor, and Guadalcanal. He was awarded the distinguished flying cross by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the Pacific fleet, for gallantry at Midway.

In the battle of Midway, Sgt. Zelnis, a radioman gunner, was credited with shooting down a Zero which attempted to interrupt the dive of his bomber on a Japanese battleship. Descending thru anti-aircraft fire, Sgt. Zelnis said, his pilot scored a near miss on the battleship, then strafed the deck of the enemy ship. He said the Japanese sailors, in their panic, leaped overboard during the attack.

HIGHWAY LINK NEAR ROCKFORD TO BE FINISHED

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 9 [Special].—Word was received here today that Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the war production board, has ordered completion of the Camp Grant diagonal highway linking U. S. route 51 and state road 2.

Work on the 4½ mile highway was stopped several weeks ago when it was two-thirds completed, the WPB holding that the project did not warrant the use of materials and man power. Protests from business men, farmers, and public and military officials of Winnebago county were sent to Washington.

Sen. Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.] made a personal appeal to Nelson to complete the pavement, which was said to "end in the middle of nowhere." The $605,448 project was ordered completed after Nelson was reported to have satisfied himself that no critical materials and only a minimum of man power were needed.

THE FORGOTTEN FRONT.

Gen. MacArthur's statement on the progress that has been achieved in the war against Japan will be read in this country with mingled pride and shame: Pride that MacArthur and his men have accomplished so much; shame that our government gave them such pitifully inadequate means with which to combat the nation that is by far the most determined, the most ruthless, the most cruel, and the most skilful of all our foes.

The people of our land may well get down on their knees to thank a blessed providence for giving us MacArthur. A less resolute man would have been broken in spirit by the hideous neglect that left him and his army in the Philippines without adequate means of defense and without support. A less clear headed man would have fallen back on Australia and allowed the Japs to retain the initiative. A less forceful man would have found it impossible in the face of continued neglect to fire his men to overcome an enemy protected by sea, mountains, jungle, and swamp. A less skilful leader would have found no opening in the Japanese armor.

MacArthur had and has what it takes. He decided that his foothold in New Guinea must be held and he held it tho he had but few soldiers, inadequate supplies, only a pitifully small naval force, and a wholly insufficient merchant fleet. There was no precedent for his reliance on airplanes to transport men and supplies to and across New Guinea. In that campaign alone he established a permanent place for himself in military history.

Instinctively, the people of this country pay homage to MacArthur. They cheer the mention of his name and the sight of his picture on the screen. When, the other evening, Mr. Roosevelt neglected to mention him when the President was running over the names of our military leaders, the people saw another evidence of the handicaps under which our little army in the Pacific has been waging its heroic struggle.

The people know what these men have been up against; a brutal enemy that delights in killing wounded men, an enemy that never surrenders, a savage, relentless, cunning foe that deliberately planned to conquer and devastate our country. MacArthur and his little army have had to face this foe without enough men, airplanes, and guns to wage a successful delaying action, but instead of falling back have been pushing ahead.

"We are doing what we can with what we have," the general said, like the good soldier he is. In truth he and his gallant band have been doing more than we had any right to expect of human flesh.

To the American people, the Japanese enemy is and will remain first among our foes. Japan got us into the war by attacking us. Americans are starving in Japanese prison camps. Japan beheaded our flyers and is bayoneting our wounded. If it were not for the influence in Washington exerted by the exiled princelings of Europe, MacArthur would have enough soldiers and supplies to wage the kind of war he wants to fight and that must be fought if the enemy is to meet the fate his barbarities have earned.

The instinct of the American people is sound. They want to give MacArthur what he needs to crush Japan and they will not forgive the politicians who have withheld support from him.

THE WRONG APPROACH.

Gary is one of 23 guinea pig communities in the nation where the office of price administration is seeking to exact pledges from every householder to obey its rules. Three thousand air raid wardens are passing out pledge cards there. Those who sign them agree to buy no rationed goods without stamps and pay no more than OPA ceiling prices.

This campaign is evidently another OPA concession to the fact that there is such a thing as patriotism in America. It is among the first drippings from the sponge that OPA will have to throw up some day. It is a change of face among the little collectivists who set policies and institute crackdowns in Prentiss Brown's cabal.

During the World war civilian food and material shortages were remedied by direct appeals to the patriotism of all Americans to use less and to share what there was for the sake of the Republic. But the New Dealers never tried that idea. They instituted collectivism, regimentation, and their totalitarian abuses.

The OPA has made its concession, but like any government bureau founded on European ideology it has taken the wrong approach. It is not asking Americans to help their country. It is asking them to be patriotic and to obey the fiats of the burocracy. Patriots aren't likely to listen to that kind of talk. The most charitable thing that can be said of this OPA compliance campaign is that the burocrats are wasting their time.

OUR NEW WAR PLANTS.

The government finally has located a number of great, new war factories in Chicago. These modern plants suggest new vistas of production, wealth, and achievement for Chicago, the normal and natural manufacturing center of the country. The new factories and the old ones here, converted to war production, are turning out everything from airplanes, airplane engines, and tanks, to torpedoes, ammunition, naval craft, radar, and radio equipment.

Chicago has many advantages for war production. It is safe from possible attack. It is the transportation hub of the nation. It has a huge, nonfluctuating pool of good workmen and the facilities to house them properly and give them recreation and cultural advantages.

Chicago should welcome these new factories and be determined not to let them close down when the war is won. There are many improperly located factories on the seaboards which are duplicating work done here. Common sense dictates that these vulnerable coastal factories should be abandoned first if there is any production let up.

RUSSIAN CHARGES OF BROKEN FAITH.

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper in Russia is, of course, the mouthpiece of Stalin. When that newspaper says that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill have broken their promises to the soviets, Stalin is saying so. The promises alleged to have been broken were for a second front. Stalin, thru his editorial medium, accuses Great Britain and the United States of deception. He accuses his allies of playing false.

The soviet government professes not to accept the African and Sicilian campaigns as redemption of the pledges. The second front Stalin says he was led to expect would have hit continental Europe with sufficient force to draw at least sixty divisions from the east. If such a diversion had been created Russia could have cleaned up, and between the two fronts Germany would have been crushed this summer.

Pravda says that the allied reasons for not making good on the promises were not military. The explanations of the British and American governments that shipping determines the strategy of sea borne expeditions are not accepted. The Stalinite newspaper says that the refusal to honor pledges had a political motive; that the British and Americans, being plutocrats, fear Russian success and are content to have the Reds and Nazis bleed each other to death.

Russia's appearance in this war is a natural incident of treachery. Two perfidious men, Hitler and Stalin, made an agreement to divide the spoils of war. Stalin did not come to Great Britain's aid when the island was the only fortress not conquered by Hitler in the west. The Russian dictator then was grabbing territory. Russia and Germany are at war because neither tyrant trusted the other and because Hitler made a mistake.

The Russian governing caste has no liking for its allies. Mr. Hopkins, Mr. Davies, Mr. Willkie, Mr. Churchill, and other gentlemen who have been wined and dined in the Kremlin and have had long conversations with Mr. Stalin have not changed the nature of that Georgian ruler nor have they changed his ambitions, plans and desires. He is a man who regards deception as a natural weapon, bad faith as an instrument of government, and falsification as proper method of diplomatic relations. Any one who misestimates him does so at his own peril. A sentimentalist attracted by his smile and his caviar and vodka will end by hanging himself in his own suspenders.

The Nazi-Russian war began as a private conflict. It was not to aid any one. That it gave the allies another front and drew off Germany's major effort was purely accidental. Russia has received a great volume of material and technical aid which it long refused to acknowledge. To give it was common sense on the part of the allies. And it may be remarked that the only damage done to German and Italian soil, the only destruction visited German and Italian war industries, cities and communications and the only terrors of war brought to the German and Italian people at home are all the work of the Americans and British. The Italians are sick of war, but not because of what the Russians have done to them. The Germans are getting sick of it and Hamburg is quite as much a cause of that morbidity as Stalingrad.

What Stalin thru Pravda is getting at is this: He is preparing the way for a separate peace with Germany at the moment when he concludes that this is good policy. He lays the ground for it by accusing the allies of not living up to their agreements. Therefore he is released from any he may have made. He may not need this excuse. It is there if he wants it. He has prepared the ground.

This may seem like a bit of overscrupulousness in an unscrupulous fellow, but it was easy to do and it had a flavor which could be relished for its own sake.

SALUTE TO CORP. CLARK.

Clay Gowran, with the American invasion forces in New Georgia, tells how he was stopped on a muddy trail by a bearded and bedraggled infantryman who identified himself as Corp. William N. Clark, a financial writer for THE TRIBUNE when he was called to the army 14 months ago. Corp. Clark is one of three survivors of a squad of 12 which fought its way to Munda air field. Behind that simple statement lies a story of risk, suffering, and bravery in keeping with the highest American traditions.

THE TRIBUNE is proud of its Corp. Clarks who are fighting the war. There are now more than 500 of them, they are brave soldiers all, and they are proving their right to enjoy the heritage of freedom they left behind them. That freedom must be preserved against their return.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 18.

1. Which one of the following is not a citrus fruit?
   Lemon Grapefruit Banana Orange.
2. The male of which one of the following bears the young of its species?
   Sea horse Seal Penguin Whale.
3. Which one of the countries named below produces more goats than the combined total of the other three? Turkey Russia Union of South Africa India.
4. In baseball, which one of these is often called a "daisy cutter"?
   Bunt Home run Grounder Curve ball.
5. Argentina is famous for its production of which one of these?
   Pork Lamb Poultry Beef.
6. In this analogy problem the first two words of each line are related to each other in some way. Try to select one of the words in capital letters which has a similar relationship to the third one of the analogy. You deserve one point for each correct judgment.

[a] Hangar: Cote:: Airplane: SHEEP—HORSE—COW—TURKEY.
[b] Pea: Pod:: Peanut: WRAPPER—COCOON—SHELL HUSK.
[c] Gilt: Gelding:: Hog: COW—GOAT—MULE—HORSE.

SUMMER'S LAST ACT.

Birds are silent, for a pause has come into their cycle of life. Their ecstasy of serenading, mating, nesting, brooding, and feeding their fledglings has ended, and wanderlust has not yet begun to stir their blood. The moulting time is approaching, and they are feverish and itchy. Since misery loves company, they form little flocks and have dust-rolling parties, chirping to one another, "It won't be long now."

* * *

Venus is preparing to end her reign as the evening star. She was at her brightest on July 31; now she is dimming rapidly and setting earlier. By the end of August she will cease to be queen of the twilight hours.

* * *

The air is often sultry and stagnant, without breeze enough to stir the poplar trees into their leaf dance, and altho the temperatures may not be excessive, the days seem hotter than July record-breakers. Leaders of the future cricket chorus are trilling solos in war gardens. Tomato plants need propping and tying, for they are beginning to feel the burden of life in their green fruits. Broccoli is in luxuriant leaf, and the weary patriot is swollen with pride as he surveys the results of his amateur agriculture.

* * *

Foliage was never denser and greener at this time of year, for it has been a summer of tropical rains and a riot of growing. Out where commuting begins, the night hours are becoming vibrant with the mysterious orchestra of katydids and arboreal frogs, and the vole, shrew, and field mouse, small close-to-earth creatures, jitter thru the herbage, unheard and unseen.

Post-war prophets are saying that after this country has been given away to every race except the Indians, there will be an airplane in every garage, a helicopter on every roof, and a folding, movable house on every lot. In the meantime, advertisments for milady's winter furs and her meal ticket's heavy ulster have begun to appear in the newspapers.

ALASKA MEMORIES.

You haunt me, land of strange, uncanny charm,
Queer land of totem poles and Northern light,
Where once I spent, upon West Taku Arm,
A brief but cloudless arctic summer night.
I viewed your Inside Passage with amaze
That beauty so intense could ever be
As that of ice-blue glaciers, violet haze,
And mountains crowding towns into the sea,
Like Russian Sitka and quaint Ketchikan,
And Juneau, rich in gold and in romance,
The North Wind's home at Skagway, and the span
Of rainbows on the ocean's broad expanse,
Wild Northern land, we'll fight to keep you free
Until your frosty mountains meet the sea.

History of the Gold Coast—XL.

The name gold coast is of ancient and honorable lineage. It was first used in the old kingdom of Burgundy for a short range of low hills near Dijon, which has for centuries produced liquid gold in the wines from the clotures of Beaune, Nuits, and Dijon. This is the famous Côte d'Or, the Gold Coast of France.

Sailors and traders next tagged with it a stretch of the west coast of Africa on the underside of the bulge because gold was found mixed with sand in the bottoms of the rivers flowing into the South Atlantic. This Gold Coast was first exploited by English seamen in the time of Edward I. It became the bone of contention for various European nations, with the British winning out.

The name again came into prominence at Harvard about 1900. At the time student accommodations were primitive and private interests erected a range of expensive dormitories provided with bathrooms and, in some cases, with swimming pools, which were taken over by the wealthier students. The student body derisively dubbed the neighborhood in which they were located the Gold Coast.

In the 1890s, in this part of Chicago, a young gentleman was not considered educated until he had been exposed to a few years of polish at eastern schools. Students returning home brought tales of the glitter of the Harvard Gold Coast, and about this time the name became current for the Lake Shore drive north of Division and its immediate hinterland.

As the life of the neighborhood centered around State and Goethe streets, near the home of William Gamble, it is likely that the name was popularized either by him or one of his cronies. Gamble was a recent arrival from Kentucky and a connection of Mayor Harrison. For a time he was secretary of the Chicago fire department. He was a short, stout, genial fellow, always ready to lend a hand at a dinner or party, or to lead a cotillon. He had a reputation for playing practical jokes on unsuspecting social climbers, such as soliciting subscriptions to the Almanac de Goethe Street.

There was plenty of gold along this reach of the shore, as many a fortune hunter and personable young man can testify. In this sense the name was well applied. Its use was considered bad taste by some, but there were others who took it seriously. The original district could not accommodate the thousands of the great migration from the south and west sides after World War I., and real estate agents extended its use. In a short time the shore from Lincoln park to the river became the gold coast of Chicago.

THE SILENT PRAYER.

(For Bud Gagen, U. S. A.)

Not mine to wish a soldier well,
Nor try to bridge the seas
With poor and weakened ways of words,
But daily on my knees
I name him in a heart-breathed prayer,
Full knowing that he goes
By day and night within the care
Of Him the soldier knows.

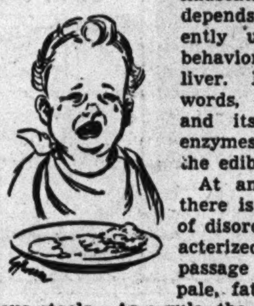
FAULTY FAT DIGESTION.



SOME of us behave in a curious fashion when it comes to a taste for fats. There are those who crave the crisp suet of a broiled chop or steak while others find this portion disagreeable, even nauseating. Much depends apparently upon the behavior of the liver. In other words, can bile and its related enzymes handle the edible?

At any rate, there is a group of disorders characterized by the passage of large, pale, fatty, gaseous stools. As a rule, the abdomen is distended and the victim will exhibit periodic bouts with diarrhea, soreness of the tongue and mouth, and progressive emaciation. In the beginning, the attacks will be intermittent. Later, they will settle down to a steady pace, with increasing debility and pallor.

Whenever this sequence of events appears we may suspect that the pancreas or the liver or both are falling down on the job. This means that fat cannot be absorbed via the intestines and in consequence the individual loses weight.

Typical of these general symptoms is what is known as "celiac disease," which manifests itself in infancy. At the other end of the list lies sprue, which comes about because nutrition is not at par.

In children the malady may not be recognized at first. Mother will merely observe that the tot does not like fat. A few cannot tolerate it. If forced to take it, abdominal pain and fever may ensue. After a few days health returns and remains until the next overly rich meal. Repeat these episodes and the little one will become weak and mental and bodily development will be slowed.

The characteristic diarrhea afflicts adults more frequently than youngsters. It may be limited to two or three loose stools in the morning, scarcely enough to establish the presence of the disease. But if the excretion is examined it will be found to be frothy and to contain an excess of oily material. This situation, associated with extreme thinness and anemia, should point to the diagnosis. If the ailment is allowed to continue, the abdominal wall becomes stretched, flabby, and protuberant.

Treatment consists in dietary regulation. Mild cases respond to a régime which consists almost entirely of proteins and carbohydrates. These victims are nearly always deficient in calcium, phosphorus, and certain vitamins. The administration of calcium [lactate or gluconate], therefore, is desirable. Liver, kidneys, or tripe may be eaten every day. If the condition of the blood demands it, transfusions, hydrochloric acid, and iron may be necessary. Several small meals daily, instead of the routine three, are advised.

Under the following program, combined with a generous allowance of lime, the quality of the stools will be changed in short order. Gradually, as improvement occurs, small amounts of fat may be returned to the menu.

BREAKFAST—Cooked cereal, one egg, toast made of whole grain, honey or sirup, and weak tea.
11 A. M.—One-half pint warm milk.
LUNCH—Liver soup, chopped beef or fowl, green vegetables, fruit, and pudding.
MID-AFTERNOON—Toast, sponge cake, weak tea.
DINNER—Lean beef, lamb, or sweetbreads, etc., green vegetables, fruit, some starchy dessert.

SPOTTED THROAT.

E. K. writes: What causes white spots on the throat that are not affected by gargling?

REPLY.

Usually a fungus which coats tiny ulcers. If the tonsils alone are involved the condition is known as "follicular tonsilitis." The mouths of the crypts [crevices] of the glands become blocked with whitish material. Treatment may require antiseptics stronger than the average mouth wash. For example, canker sores usually yield when covered lightly with powdered potassium alum. Occasionally the diet will be at fault.

CAN BE HELPED.

R. T. writes: Is bronchiectasis curable?

REPLY.

Yes, in many instances. Postural drainage will help. In skilled hands the bronchoscope or surgery may be of real value. Various drugs may be inhaled or introduced into the dilated bronchial tubes.

EATS HAIR.

A. B. writes: My 18 month old baby pulls her hair out and eats it. Her fecal matter is filled with strands. Can you advise?

REPLY.

An abnormal tendency which must be corrected by constant supervision. Dangerous to health.

NOT TOO MUCH.

Tales of a Texan.

"What we lack today," the tall, gray haired Georgian transplanted to Texas was saying, "is dignity. The other day I had to introduce myself to a group of people. I said, 'My name is ——, but,' I added, 'I prefer to have that prefaced by Mr.' Do you suppose they call me Mr. ——? No, they all call me Tex."

"I have met very few famous people," he continued, "I have never wanted to. I am a poor man, but an honest man, and I prefer to have a Mr. before my name. It is my due.

"I take little part in politics. I haven't for years. I do not like the way politics is conducted nowadays, but I'll never forget one congressional campaign down in Texas around 1900 or so, when I wandered into a picnic rally. Two men were running for congress, Cullen Thomas and Bob Henry. Bob Henry was a tall, leathery man with glinty blue eyes, and I saw him when I went in. He had on old blue denim pants and a torn shirt and galluses, and he was curled up at the foot of a tree spitting tobacco juice.

"Cullen Thomas was on the platform getting ready to speak, and he was all dressed up in spotless white linen with his hair shining like a freshly waxed piano, and he started to talk.

"'Ladies and gentlemen,' he began. 'I want to tell you a little incident of my boyhood. It occurred one Sunday morning when my mother had just dressed me in my little white linen suit, had brushed my yellow curls until they shone, and had buttoned my little black patent slippers. She leaned down and kissed me.'

'"Cullen Thomas," she said. "You are the most beautiful boy I have ever seen. The older you grow the better and more beautiful you will be, and some day you will be in the congress of the United States."'

"'Ladies and gentlemen,' Cullen Thomas added, 'when this campaign is over, I want to be able to go to that beautiful mother of mine, kiss her, and say, "Mother, that sweet faced little boy did not betray your trust."

"Then," added the Georgian transplanted to Texas," he sat down.

"Bob Henry got up then. He got up slowly from the root of that old tree, shifted his galluses and tugged at his blue denim pants. He spat out his tobacco and strode toward the platform.

"'Boys,' he said, 'there's one Sunday morning from my childhood I ain't forgetting either. That was the day my old lady chased me all around the house and out to the woodpile. When she caught me, she like to tore the livin' daylights out of me. When she had wore herself out, and me, too, she looked at me and shook me until my teeth chattered, and she yelled: "Bob Henry, you're the meanest, ornariest little devil I ever did see! By the time you're 21, sure as you're alive, you're gonna land in that state penitentiary for life."'

"Bob Henry shifted his galluses again and grinned.

"'Boys,' he said, 'when election day comes, Cullen Thomas is goin' to fool that old mother of his just as much as I fooled mine.'"

"And," concluded the Georgian transplanted to Texas, "he was right. Bob Henry went to congress."

The same old window where she stood
And watched him every day,
As he went off to school or when
He romped about in play.

The same old window where she saw Him grow so tall, while she Grew smaller as she planned great things
For his felicity.

The same old window where today
She hears planes roar above;
Where she will wait with faith and hope,
And guard him with her love.

IF IT WOULD USE IT.

New York, Aug. 5.—Our only living former President will pass his 70th birthday on Aug. 10. History will record his ability, his sterling character and his humanitarian activities. The nation is fortunate in continuing to have the benefit of his wise counsel during these perilous times.

AUGUSTUS P. FLAHERTY.

WHAT ABOUT THE DEBT?

Ackley, Ia., Aug. 6.—President Roosevelt and Henry Wallace, and perhaps a hundred thousand planners and ghost writers assume to answer all demands, reply to all questions, and solve all problems, not only of the United States but of the whole world, about the post-war period; all except one, and that one the most important and unanswerable of all: "What are we going to do about the national debt?"

That should be asked of them every time they spring some new method of spending billions, and it should be repeated by the common millions when President Roosevelt comes to the end of his fourth term campaign. For up to now, and no doubt forever, it must be written of them, paraphrasing old Omar, There is the door to which they have no key; there is the veil thru which they cannot see.

F. J. MCGREEVY.

ELEANOR AND THE ODT.

New Holland, Ill., Aug. 5.—It is not surprising to read that the ODT, in replying to the complaints it received about Mrs. Roosevelt's travels, ignores the cause of the complaints, and takes the public to task for making the complaints.

Anything the top ranking New Dealers want to do is all right, but if the ordinary citizen does a hundredth as much, or even voices a complaint about the activities of the higher-ups, an accusing finger is pointed at him, and he is told that he is unpatriotic and impeding the war effort. Also that he should be ashamed of himself. D. F. HUGHES.

MAYBE ICKES KNOWS.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—If there is such a gasoline shortage as claimed, why do the big oil companies pro-rate wells in the Salem, Ill., field, to 50 barrels of crude oil a day, when these same wells are capable of pumping 200 barrels a day. It can't be transportation, as this field is on the pipe line. Or is this just another way of letting the American public know that there is a war on.

A LEASEHOLDER.

SHIPS TO THE BRITISH.

Waterloo, Ia., Aug. 4.—Since the New Dealers have decided to give 200 ships to the British for operation, let's have some comparative figures, which I have yet to see published. The cost of these 200 ships is going to raise our national debt considerably. Just what is the national debt of the British government? Possibly they could well afford to buy these ships. H. A. LAUX.

CANE RIVER LAKE.

Notre Dame, Ind., Aug. 5. — Pvt. James Holloway asked a few days ago regarding the people who live in the Cane River Lake district of Louisiana. The stream now called Cane river was in 1832 the original Red river and this section was called "La Cote Joyeuse." Bermuda plantation, the home of the Proudhomme family, is one of the important estates of the neighborhood and still is occupied by the family.

The nearest town that Mr. Holloway mentions is Natchitoches and according to one version of history its beginning dates from 1694, 20 years earlier than New Orleans, and the first settlers were Spanish.

Chamber's History of Louisiana states that Capt. Juchereau de St. Denis and a party set out from Mobile in the latter part of 1713 and in the beginning of 1714 arrived in the country of the Natchitoches where he founded a post and left a few Canadians in charge. St. Denis was a great dandy, and an itemized list of his wardrobe still exists.

THEY'D WALK BACK UNDER PACKS.

Camp Stewart, Ga., July 28.—We thought we'd drop you a line and tell you how wonderful Chicago treated us during our stay there. We were there for 13 glorious weeks and enjoyed every minute of it. The people treated us swell, and we can't praise the U. S. O. enough.

We want to thank the people of Chicago for the thousand and one ways they helped make our stay there something we can never forget. We would gladly walk back, with full field packs, if we could stay there.

IT DAMPENS THEIR ARDOR.

Kankakee, Ill., Aug. 6. — Whoever wrote the article about the people of Hardin county refusing to give up their little homes and farms to live in government houses or units failed to mention that the reason is New Deal bungling. That $1,000,000 project was located where it gets flooded under each spring. So why should they give up their homes when they can go on and exist during the high water without losing what little they have? It isn't because they don't want modern living quarters. S. L. G.

KIDNAP SUSPECT SOUGHT BY FBI IN VICE RING PROBE

Woman Linked to La Salle County Inquiry.

Mrs. Natalie Novak, hunted by Chicago police for the kidnaping of Howard Freeman, 2 years old, also is being sought by the federal bureau of investigation, it was disclosed yesterday. The FBI has not entered the kidnap case yet but is seeking Mrs. Novak, also known as Mrs. Palmer, as a material witness in a La Salle county white slave traffic investigation in which 31 persons were arrested Saturday and Sunday, Spencer Drayton, Chicago FBI chief, said.

Mrs. Novak made a statement to the FBI here last Wednesday and then disappeared Friday, apparently with the Freeman boy, son of Mrs. Dorothy Freeman, 28, of 3538 Monroe street, and her husband, Pvt. Vern Freeman, 33, of Camp Hyder, Ariz. The boy was taken from the home of a woman with whom he boarded while his mother worked.

In her statement, Mrs. Novak accused Lester Clark Smith, alias Bingo Smith, of violating the white slave traffic act by bringing Jean Harris, alias Esther Louise Thomasson or Edith Barnes of Hatfield, Ky.; Iva Green, alias Dogpatch Daisy, of Montgomery, Ala., and Iva May Bradfield of Jackson, Tenn, to La Salle county.

Smith was arrested in The Elms, which he operates at Ottawa, Ill., and pleaded not guilty to a charge of violation of the white slave traffic act before Judge Michael Igoe in federal district court yesterday. He was held on $5,000 bonds and his case was continued until Aug. 19. Miss Harris was arrested and arraigned as a material witness. Six others also were arraigned.

United States Atty. Michael J. Boyle had gone before Judge William H. Holly in federal District court last Wednesday with the information obtained from Mrs. Novak, and obtained warrants for the La Salle county raids.

Says She Is in Danger.

Two days later Mrs. Novak, who had warned that her welfare would be endangered if her part in the investigation were disclosed, disappeared.

Pvt. Freeman arrived in Chicago yesterday on a special 12 day furlough and appealed to all soldiers, sailors, and marines in the city to help him find his son.

He also called on Mrs. Novak to leave his son at some spot where he might be found. "We want our baby back first of all," he said "Please leave him in a hotel room some place or with some one."

MARINE COMES HOME WOUNDED; STRUCK BY AUTO

Corp. Raymond Russell, 22 years old, 5544 South Christiana avenue, limped into Safety court yesterday as a prosecuting witness. A marine, Corp. Russell fought in the Southwest Pacific. He was wounded in the left leg and was sent home to recuperate. On Sunday he was struck by an automobile at 55th street and Spaulding avenue. His leg again was injured.

In court, the driver, Frank Dziedzie, 3240 West 38th place, who is about to enter the army, said he would pay the cost of treatment for Corp. Russell.

STOLL KIDNAPER WINS WRIT IN NEW TRIAL BID

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 9 [Special].—A law-studying lifer in Alcatraz prison today won a decision in his long fight for a new chance to present a defense to the kidnaping charge which sent him to "The Rock" eight years ago.

Thomas Robinson Jr.

The prisoner, Thomas Henry Robinson Jr., 36 years old, was granted a writ of habeas corpus by Federal Judge Michael J. Roche. His immediate release was prevented, however, by notice of an appeal in the United States Circuit court filed by Assistant United States Atty. A. J. Zirpoli.

Robinson wants a new trial at which he can defend himself against the charge of kidnaping Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, young society matron of Louisville, Ky., in 1934.

Altho Robinson pleaded guilty to the kidnaping charge, he contends the federal bureau of investigation exercised "psychological coercion" in urging him to enter the plea; that he was not represented by counsel at his arraignment, and that he was insane at the time of the kidnaping and when he entered the plea.

SWIMMER ASKS 'ELBOW ROOM'; HER PLEA FAILS

Mrs. Marguerite Pelzman, 26 years old, 8114 Vincennes avenue, who once trained for Olympic swimming competition, told Judge Cecil Smith in Women's court yesterday that she swam a block out in the lake off 53d street because there is "no elbow" room near shore. Policeman Edward McClellan arrested her Saturday when she invited him to come in and get her. "Do your swimming away from the city of Chicago," Judge Smith ruled. He continued the case until Sept. 10 to keep Mrs. Pelzman under his jurisdiction.

FIND NUDE BODY OF MISSING GIRL ALONG HIGHWAY

Sutton, Neb., Aug. 9 (AP).—Nude and battered, the body of 16 year old Anna Milroy was found today near a highway 18 miles south of Sutton, presenting Clay county authorities with a murder mystery.

A high school junior and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Milroy of Sutton, she had been missing since Saturday night, when she was last seen with her sisters and a neighbor girl at Sutton. Anna had gone to a rest room, and the other girls waited for her, but later, thinking she had gone home, they returned to their homes without her.

A searching party was organized yesterday, but it was not until today that a man mowing weeds found the body of the girl.

HELD FOR TAKING DAD'S CAR, BOY, 15, HANGS SELF

George Knopp Jr., 15 years old, 3553 West 111th street, who was arrested last Thursday after he took his father's automobile without consent, hanged himself yesterday in a cell in the Whiting, Ind., city jail.

Sgt. Theodore Bramer said the police had been directed by federal officers to hold the boy for possible prosecution under the Dyer act because he had taken the automobile across a state line.

Young Knopp was arrested by Policeman Lawrence Vidovich for a traffic violation.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Ben Markland

Aug. 9, 1943.

ONE of the perennial arguments among farmers relates to the advantages of harvesting oats with combines as compared to the system of using a binder and placing oats in shocks.

Both harvest procedures are being used on the Tribune farms this season, so there has been a good chance to compare these two systems. The men at Yorkville used a binder, had the oats shocked, and now are hauling the bundles to a giant thresher. On the Wheaton farm a 6 foot combine is being used.

The men on the Yorkville farm believe that their method has several advantages over the combine system. One of these is that there is less chance of weather damage because the binder can be used as soon as the grain is fairly ripe and the bundles can be put into the shock immediately.

No Damage in Storms.

While curing in the shock the grain can stand almost any number of severe rainstorms without being damaged. The farmer who uses a combine, on the other hand, must cut his grain when it is dead ripe. A heavy rainstorm at that time may drive the oat stalks to the ground, making the harvesting process difficult and less successful.

Another advantage of stationary threshing is that the grain is threshed and the straw stacked in the same process, whereas in combine fields the straw must be baled and delivered to the barns in a secondary harvest period.

On the other side of the argument, however, is the fact that combining can be done with fewer workers—an important point this season when labor is scarce. There are 21 men from six farms, including the Tribune farm, in the threshing crew now operating in the Yorkville area.

600 Acres of Oats.

These men will harvest about 600 acres of oats from the six farms in about two weeks, weather permitting. The crew is needed for hauling the bundles from the shocks, operating the thresher, and delivering the grain.

It is possible to harvest oats with only three men by using a combine. The minimum labor requirements in combining oats are a man to operate the tractor which pulls the combine and two wagon men to deliver the threshed oats to the granary. This is not a fair comparison, however, because the three men cannot gather the straw simultaneously with harvesting the grain, as is done with a threshing machine. After the oats are combined, it is necessary to send the men back to the fields to rake the straw, bale it, and deliver it to the barns.

★ The GARDEN ★

A TIP for respading rows which are to be replanted to autumn vegetables is: Use a mattock instead of a spading fork. Since the soil needs to be reworked only to a depth of five or six inches, instead of 8 to 12 inches as in the spring, a mattock does the job effectively and in a short time.

A mattock is merely a pickax with a wide, sharp blade rather than a pointed blade. The most common tool of this type has a four inch blade, and is handy for many yard and garden jobs.

The farm gardener recently bought a mattock with a seven inch blade. This tool is made primarily for reworking garden rows to be replanted in midsummer. The procedure calls for pulling up the old vegetable growth, using the mattock for digging purposes, then working the top soil carefully with a rake to prepare a fine seedbed. A saving in time is effected because the gardener can wield the mattock four or five times in the period required for turning over one section of soil with a spading fork.

STRIKE OF 180 AT GARY TAKES 1,000 OFF JOBS

A strike of 180 cranemen and hookers over a wage incentive plan in the merchant mill warehouse at the Gary works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation yesterday made idle more than 1,000 other workers.

At 10 a. m., 30 cranemen and 30 hookers left their jobs after the company refused to meet a 50 per cent wage incentive demand made by the workers. Later the 30 cranemen and 30 hookers on the 3 p. m. shift refused to work, a workman said. The 11 p. m. shift of 60 men also refused to work.

A company spokesman said a CIO steelworkers' contract provided for arbitration of grievances of this type. He explained that the workers were already getting 46 per cent under the incentive plan of payment, tho the original contract called for only 20 per cent. Finished steel war materials are stored in the warehouse, company spokesmen said.

CHILD HURT IN 20 FOOT FALL.

Frances Kirkaldy, 22 months old, suffered head injuries yesterday in a 20 foot fall from a second floor window in her home at 3518 Greenview avenue. She was taken to Children's Memorial hospital.

PLIGHT OF JEWS IN EUROPE LAID PARTLY TO U. S.

Leader Says England Also Shares Blame.

Dr. Baruch E. Rabinowitz, Washington, D. C., representative of the Emergency Committee to Save the Jews in Europe, said here yesterday that "the United States and Great Britain, thru their policies of apathy and indifference, share equally with the satellite countries the blame for the wholesale, calculating murder of 2 million Jewish people in Europe."

The doors of Europe are not locked to the Jews from the inside, but are bolted firmly from the outside, he said. The recent Bermuda conference was called, he said, not to find havens for the Jews caught in Europe, but for nations "to explain blandly why they couldn't accept any more immigrants."

Attacks Two Arguments.

If England were to announce that Palestine were open to the Jews of Europe, Dr. Rabinowitz continued, thousands would make their way out of Europe by foot. He asserted there would be no need for transportation, the lack of which, he said, is one of Britain's chief arguments against attempting to evacuate the Jews. Another argument for Britain's refusal to open Palestine to the Jews, Dr. Rabinowitz said, is that the Arab world would be aroused by the action. This, he said, is absurd.

"Britain's real reason for closing Palestine to the Jews," Dr. Rabinowitz declared, "is that after the war, the peoples of China, India, and the east will raise their standards of living, and when it gets merely as high as that of Egypt, world production will increase to seven times that of 1928.

"Afraid of Competition."

"Palestine will then become one of the great centers of world trade. And Britain, seeking control of this trade, is afraid of Jewish competition.

"Altho President Roosevelt is considered by many as the greatest friend the Jewish people ever had, nevertheless he has done less than many of them. Not one man has ever been appointed by the United States or Great Britain to help the Jews of Europe."

Firm and 3 Held in War Fraud Charge, Arraigned

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 9 (AP).—The Bohn Aluminum and Brass corporation, as a corporation, and three employes, as individuals, were held today for trial in federal court on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government in supplying airplane engine parts the government charges were defective. The defendants stood mute and pleas of innocent were entered. Bonds of $5,000 each were set for the individual defendants, Frederick N. Eaton, an assistant plant manager; Paul F. Cordes, a plant superintendent, and George King, a trim room foreman.

Friend of the Yanks' Kin

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[This department answers questions covering problems related to the social welfare of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries to Sally Joy Brown.]

Dr. L. L. writes: "I have been caring for a woman whose only son is in the navy. She is now in need of hospital care. Some time ago her son informed her that in case of need the navy would assist her. Do you know of any such arrangements, and if so, what is the procedure in obtaining this aid? It is imperative that this woman be hospitalized."

ANSWER: If you will report the case to the Navy Relief society, Great Lakes, Ill., giving full particulars, including the full name, rank, and naval address of the man in question, you will be advised as to the assistance available for your patient.

Mrs. R. I. writes: "My son was inducted into the army several months ago. He applied for an allowance for me and for his younger brother. His father is dead. He now writes that he wishes to transfer to the air corps and become an aviation cadet. I have been told that if he does so, I will no longer receive the family allowance. Is that true?"

ANSWER: Yes, as an aviation cadet your son would no longer be in one of the four lowest pay grades, and you would cease to be eligible for a family allowance.

Mrs. K. A. asks: "My son, who is in the army, contributes to an allowance for me. In the envelope with my last check I found a card stating that the FBI will investigate those who are self-supporting without the aid of an allowance. If I am working and continue to receive the checks, can they be taken away from me and am I liable to prosecution?"

ANSWER: If your salary is sufficient to maintain you, you are not eligible for the family allowance and may be expected to reimburse the government for money which you have received. Such allowances were intended for only those persons who were actually dependent upon service men. The law provides severe penalties for any one who accepts such checks when they are not entitled to them with intent to defraud.

Any one who makes false statements in order to obtain such allowances may also be punished. Persons who continue to receive payments when their entitlement has ceased may be punished by a fine or imprisonment, or both. If your income is sufficient for your needs, I would suggest that you write immediately to the office of dependency benefits and request that the allowance be canceled.

THREE BANDITS HELD IN CICERO ADMIT 5 HOLDUPS

Five Chicago tavern and liquor store holdups were confessed yesterday by three young men held by Cicero police after they had robbed a tavern at 1342 South Cicero avenue, Cicedo, Saturday night, police said.

Those held were Frank Mattera, 22 years old, 851 Vernon Park place; Leonard Laino, 18, of 819 South Carpenter street, and Frank Pocius, 30, of 711 South Morgan street. They were captured a block from the tavern by a squad summoned by a patron during the holdup, in which $100 was taken. Police said Mattera and Pocius have police records.

The Chicago holdups confessed by the three were at 4300 Harrison street, Archer and Wentworth avenues, 7100 Stony Island avenue, 79th street and Washtenaw avenue, and 2906 North Pulaski road. A total of $2,200 was taken at the five spots, they told police.

PRE-DAWN SWIMMER ARRESTED.

Bruno Meyer, 31 years old, 745 North Rush street, a chef, solved the heat problem at 3 a. m. yesterday when he donned swimming trunks and leaped into the Chicago river at Dearborn street. Patrolman Roger Powers arrested him. Meyer will face Judge Oscar S. Caplan in Municipal court today on a charge of disorderly conduct.

J. L. DONALDSON IS NOMINATED BY KENTUCKIANS

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 9 (AP).—Unofficial reports from three-fourths of the precincts in Kentucky tonight showed that J. Lyter Donaldson of Carrollton, former state highway commissioner, had won the Democratic nomination for governor in last Saturday's primary.

Reports from 3,581 of the 4,293 precincts gave Donaldson 115,236, Ben Kilgore of St. Mathews, 73,829, Lt. Gov. Rodes K. Myers of Bowling Green, 26,892, and John J. Thobe of Covington, 2,278.

Donaldson will oppose former Appeals Court Judge Simeon S. Willis, Ashland, Republican, in the November general election. Willis was unopposed.

TRADE REFUNDS OF $1,361,807 FORCED BY OPA

Midwestern business men were forced to pay $1,361,807 for overcharging customers in violation of price regulations, Raymond S. McKeough, regional administrator for the office of price administration, said yesterday. The refunds were collected between Feb. 1, 1942, and June 30, 1943.

Refunds to consumers totaled $553,000, to tenants $458,418, voluntary payments to the federal treasury $44,549, and triple damages to the federal government $305,840. McKeough explained that the voluntary payments were made when the overcharge was not imposed directly on the consumer.

Criminal proceedings were brought in 203 cases of price and rationing violations. Convictions were won in 120 cases, he said.

McKeough reported that the OPA won 97 per cent of its injunction suits and lost only one triple damage suit.

Administrator McKeough also warned persons who have not made application for war ration book No. 3 to do so today, if they wish to use it when the new issue becomes valid. Special application blanks are available at local ration boards.

BANKER'S WIDOW CALLED INSANE IN 11 FLOOR LEAP

A coroner's jury investigating the fatal plunge Sunday of Mrs. Anna Phillips, 65 years old, from the kitchen window of her apartment on the 11th floor at 3100 Sheridan road, yesterday returned a verdict of suicide while temporarily insane. Mrs. Phillips was the widow of John F. Phillips, a former vice president of the defunct Foreman National bank. Mrs. Edith Saylor of Lake Villa, a daughter, testified that her mother had been despondent since the death of her father six months ago. Detective William Hogan of the Sheffield avenue police told the jury he found the kitchen window open and the screen removed. A note on the kitchen table read: "Take care of me like you did Dad."

No wonder they call it The "Duck"
Amphibious action is playing an ever increasing part in World War II. And the 2½-ton Amphibian truck, now in volume production at General Motors Truck and Coach factories, is giving American Armies an ever increasing advantage over the Axis. In the water, it has all the qualities of a large landing boat, plus the ability to keep going when it reaches shoals and shore line. On land, it provides performance comparable to a GMC "six by six" army truck, plus the ability to swim lakes and streams. Carrying cargoes from ocean freighter to inland supply depot . . . establishing beach heads and bridge heads . . . unloading ships where no harbor facilities are available . . . aiding in reconnaissance work where no roads or bridges exist . . . carrying or pulling cannon and howitzers . . . transporting scores of troops or tons of equipment . . . are all in a day's work for this sturdy, seagoing truck. No wonder the GMC workers helping to build it, and the soldiers using it, both call it the "Duck." It's one of America's most vital and versatile military vehicles!

New Fall Hats Are Prophetic in a Small Way

BY REA SEEGER.

The first fall hats have for years foretold colors, shapes, sizes, and trimming to come. This year berets in a dozen different sizes and shapes lead the first parade. Felt and squashy velvets, stitched velveteens and corduroys come in soot-black, a lot of spicy browns, stunning old-gold tones, plenty of clear strong reds and greens, and one of the best arrays of beige shades imaginable.

Many of the smartest berets this fall can be classified as pleasantly medium in width, but what they lack in width they make up in maneuverability. They can be dipped and turned, upswept and down curved, in a different way each time they are placed on the headline.

Small, snappy hats, a mere width or band of velvet going across the head like a bisecting line, are pert and young. Many of them have feathers, others have effective pompons and ruchings of the same velvet as the hat. Fringe, passementerie braid, tassels, bugle and teardrop beads, jet and jewel embroidery are other revived Victorian elegancies.

Tiny hats, round squared-off circles, tiny discs, greatly reduced beanies or dinks, skull and pill box formations are "in." Nearly all of them are elaborated with bead or embroidery, and some are covered with tiny swinging tassels in many colors or black, to make bright little spots for headline interest.

When the hats are not small and flat they're small and definitely high, the extra inches achieved with feathered pompons, wings, and feathered birds.

Three Sisters Will Bow at Yuletide Tea

BY JUDITH CASS.

ITS not unusual for a family to have two debutantes in one year, but for three sisters to bow during the same season is something of a record. The Rollin T. Chamberlins will have that distinction during the Christmas holidays when they present their daughters, Frances, Louise, and Isabel, at an informal tea. Since the family lives in Beverly Hills, a simple party probably will be given at one of the clubs in town in order to solve the transportation problem for most of the guests.

Miss Frances, who is just 19, attends Mount Holyoke college. Her twin sisters, who are a little more than a year younger, are students at Bryn Mawr, their mother's alma mater. Mr. Chamberlin is a member of the faculty at the University of Chicago.

The Theodore Sheldons tentatively have reserved Christmas day for a debut tea at home for their elder daughter, Margaret. The bud, who is called Peggy, was graduated from Miss Wheeler's school and at present is a sophomore at the Child Education Foundation in New York, sponsored by New York university. Her sister, Polly, is entering Vassar, having been graduated from Chatham.

Party Dates Filling Up Labor Day Week-End.

Labor day week-end, always considered one of the highlights of the fall season by the debutantes and their beaux, already is filling up with party dates. The John G. Curtises have decided to introduce their daughter, Flossie, at a simple home tea on Sept. 4. Later a group of the debutante's young friends will go on to the Onwentsia for dinner and dancing. The Nicholas Starosselskys are planning a gay evening for Miss Curtis and Miss Joan Monroe on Aug. 21, when they will entertain at dinner for the two buds at the Onwentsia before one of the club's parties. Miss Monroe is a sister-in-law of Mrs. Starosselsky's daughter, Mrs. Jack Hampton Monroe, and will make her debut on Aug. 28.

Miss Curtis, who was at Miss Spence's school last winter, is remaining in Chicago this winter to do nurse's aid work. Her brother, John Jr., will be home from Hotchkiss by Aug. 18 or 19 in time for his sister's debut festivities.

Miss Kathleen Ball, who will be presented at a Christmas day tea in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hyde Ball Jr., will share her party with Miss Alice Warner. The daughter of Mrs. Polk Warner of Winnetka attended the North Shore Country Day school and Vassar and is remaining at home this winter to attend the Katherine Gibbs school, which recently opened a branch in Chicago.

Mary Louise Steinhoff Added to List of Buds.

Added to the list of debutantes is the name of Miss Mary Louise Steinhoff, daughter of the Carroll Steinhoffs of Winnetka. Miss Steinhoff, a student at Pine Manor, as yet has not decided on a date for her party.

Mrs. James H. Douglas Jr. returned to Lake Forest yesterday after a visit with her husband, Col. Douglas, who has gone or soon will go overseas on duty. While she has been away, Mrs. Gregory Williamson arrived to occupy the guest cottage on the Douglas grounds and to see all her old friends in Lake Forest. There is a round of parties for the former Ellen Douglas Jaeger, who will be among the guests at Mrs. Sidney S. Gorham's weekly swimming party on Friday in Winnetka. Mrs. Williams will stay on a week or so longer before returning to New York.

At its next meeting on Friday in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House, the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations will hear an analysis of the Vichy policy of the state department in an address by Harry D. Gideonse entitled "In Defense of the State Department." Altho Mr. Gideonse is not connected with the state department he has made a close study of French politics as a member of the economics department of the University of Chicago and in his present post of president of Brooklyn college. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p. m.

Szell Appears Tonight as Soloist at Ravinia.

George Szell, who conducted the Chicago Symphony orchestra during the fifth and sixth weeks of the Ravinia festival, has stayed over to appear as piano soloist tonight with the Budapest String quartet in the first of its four concerts. Boxholders during the week of chamber music which winds up the current Ravinia season, are Mrs. Louis Eckstein, Mr. and Mrs. Percy B. Eckhart, Mr. and Mrs. Milton H. Callner, Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Wood, and Dr. Adrian Verbrugghen. The Eckharts will turn over their box to the Francis Knights during their absence.

Up in Lake Geneva, where they are spending the summer with their paternal grandmother, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, young Margaret Ayer, Laurie, and Kellogg Fairbank III. are looking forward to seeing their new sister. The third daughter of the junior Fairbanks was born yesterday morning in the Chicago Lying-In hospital and has been named Susan. Mrs. John F. Cornell of New York is the children's maternal grandmother.

Lt. [j. g.] and Mrs. Fred Klaner III. [Marjorie Griffin] are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter, Lucy, on July 29 in Passavant hospital. The baby is a grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Klaner Jr. of East Walton place and of Mrs. May Newman Griffin of Bellevue place. Lt. Klaner is stationed at Great Lakes.

Menu Pointers

Top-of-the-Stove Baked Beans: Add 4½ cups water to pound of washed navy beans, and soak overnight. Then boil rapidly for half hour. Add ½ pound salt pork, cut in pieces, and cook slowly until beans are tender. Add 4 tablespoons brown sugar and 2 tablespoons molasses and season to taste with salt and pepper. Place small whole onion in kettle and add ¾ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and 3 tablespoons catsup. Simmer gently for half to three-quarters of hour, until flavors are well blended.

Cottage Cheese and Fresh Vegetable Salad: Combine 1 pound cottage cheese with 8 radishes thinly sliced, 4 green onions sliced, ½ small cucumber diced, ½ teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper, and enough sweet or sour cream to moisten. Chill well before serving. Serve on lettuce leaf.

SPARS Trained in Glamorous Florida Setting

BY MARTHA MURPHY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Palm Beach, Fla., Aug. 9.—The SPARS are all aboard in the first school for enlisted women of the coast guard reserve in the former Palm Beach Biltmore hotel. Since the gang plank went down on June 14, the crew has grown from 875 to a full complement of 1,434 enlistees and 37 officers.

The hammering that marked the conversion of the $10,000,000 pink peace time palace into the good ship Biltmore is beginning to die away. The last ironing boards have been fitted into closets once filled with ermines and sables. The last rough tables and mess benches have been slid into the ornately carved dining rooms and lounges and the jars of peanut butter have been set out.

Except for the carpeting and the bureaus, in which each SPAR has one drawer to herself, the Biltmore is decked with strictly coast guard gear. Enlisted women transferred from Hunter college, New York City, where SPARS formerly were trained with WAVES, helped with the changes.

In the arcade of glamour gadget shops, which undermined the Biltmore like a Count of Monte Cristo cave, are supply rooms, pay offices, commissaries and laundries, personnel offices, and classrooms.

The main floor cocktail corner, with its curved glass brick bar, mirrored ceiling, and circular dance floor, now is a visitors' lounge. The crystal chandeliers and carved pillars of the ballroom are a setting for assemblies and juke box dances.

The Spanish chapel, with its vaulted ceiling and henna and cream colored columns, now is the site of meetings, movies, and Sunday services. The skipper of the ship, Capt. William J. Keester, formerly of Chicago, and his family have moved into the fabulously beautiful Duke of Alba suite.

In the patio, opening onto Lake Worth, the formal gardens and sunken pool surrounded the 98 foot mast which once soared above the torpedoed S.S. Cumberland. A ship's bell rings out every half hour.

At 6 each morning SPAR trainees and "bootees" slide off their double decker bunks and sink their toes into carpeting which once cushioned the feet of the world's wealthiest women.

After morning mess and inspection to see that no gear has been left "adrift," classes start. Bootees, SPARS receiving a month's basic training, study personnel, which includes military courtesy, ranks, rules and regulations, customs, and naval terms and insignia; ships and aircraft identification, and coast guard organization, which includes the history of the service.

SPARS who have completed the basic training are dubbed "trainees." Aboard the Biltmore, trainees may "strike" for ratings as yeomen, storekeepers, or cooks and bakers. Yeoman training includes stenographic subjects, storekeeping, bookkeeping, and related problems, and cooks' and bakers' work, menu planning, nutrition, and food preparation. Upon successful completion of three months' schooling, trainees are rated as third class petty officers and are assigned to coast guard billets thruout the United States.

Both trainees and bootees spend two hours, three days a week, at the swanky Sun and Surf club on the beach, doing calisthenics and learning to swim. The Sun and Surf club, which boasts a salt water swimming pool, will be turned back to its society members during the winter season.

One hour of four days each week is spent drilling on the Flamingo golf course near the Biltmore. First aid classes meet for two hours two days a week. At least one hour each day is set aside for study.

SPARS officers are in charge of swimming and calisthenics, but they share other instruction honors with coast guard men.

SPARS wear uniforms at all times. Aboard ship they wear navy blue skirts and white shirts, with or without jackets; lisle hose, and black shoes. Ashore, a navy blue and white crew cap is added, and rayon or silk hose may be substituted for the lisle.

Navy blue swim suits and white terry cloth robes are issued for wear at the Sun and Surf club. Blue and white seersucker playsuits with dirndl skirts and white sneakers are worn for calisthenics and fatigue duty.

After uniforms have been issued, bootees may request permission to go ashore between 10:30 a. m. and 6 p. m. on Sundays. Trainees have liberty between 3 p. m. and 7 p. m. on Saturdays and between 10 a. m. and 7 p. m. on Sundays. All may attend the dances which are held aboard ship each Saturday night.

Altho, except in cases of emergency, no leaves are granted until six months' service has been completed, SPARS are granted two week-end shore leaves each month. Most spend their free time "at sea," riding the Lake Worth ferry back and forth to West Palm Beach.

Women in War Work

—By Kate Massee—

The Army Air Force aids, 200 girls in blue uniforms, recently moved their office to room A-706 in the Insurance Exchange building, 166 West Van Buren street. The change in quarters occurred when the air cadet examining board, to which the aids devote their volunteer services, also moved to a larger suite on the same floor, due to expanding needs of army air cadet recruiting. Maj. Charles W. H. Schuck, Illinois wing commander of the civil air patrol, recently was assigned to the board by Maj. Lauris M. Eek, air liaison officer of the 6th service command.

Headed by Cadette Cols. Cleone Cook and Martha Crews, the AAF aids take over many duties for which air force officers haven't the time. They interview prospective cadets, give them the initial mental screening test, conduct refresher courses in physics, higher mathematics, current events, and airplane identification, and also lecture to clubs and make radio addresses in the interest of cadet recruiting.

Since the activities of the air force recruitment have expanded there's a great need to increase the aids' enrollment, especially the day-time force, with special emphasis on teachers of mathematics and physics. One of the most recent AAF aid recruits is Mrs. Merle S. Else, wife of Lt. Else of the army air forces, hero of 119 air combat missions in the South Pacific war theater.

Women interested in signing up with the aids, and who feel that they are qualified, should apply at headquarters of the aviation cadet examining board, room A-706, 166 West Van Buren street, telephone Harrison 8373. Teachers, college women, and stenographers especially have the background essential for this volunteer work. Applicants accepted are trained, and uniforms, costing $42.50 each, are optional. Volunteers should be willing to devote a minimum of a half day or one evening a week.

The employes of the Illinois Bell Telephone company have a word for it: presenteeism. They believe that the term reflects the positive effort of the organization's men and women to stay on the job until it's done, "until the victory call rides the wires." Absenteeism, on the other hand, Bell company workers believe, is a negative word, suggesting indifference to obligation.

Demonstrating the company's remarkable record of presenteeism is one of the telephone operators, Miss Lucille Smith of the Franklin exchange, a resident of Maywood, Ill., who has been an employe of Illinois Bell since 1910 and never has missed a day at work. Her presenteeism record is 33 years of on-the-job service.

Reporting this month for training at Camp Lejeune, New River, N. C., is Miss Elizabeth Paisley who, before enlisting in the women's reserve of the marine corps, was a secretary to an executive in the advertising firm of Needham, Louis & Brorby, Inc., of Chicago. Miss Paisley is the second woman employe of the company to join the marines. Lt. Ruth A. Woodward now is stationed at Camp Elliott, San Diego, Cal.

Higher Ceiling Put on Many Frozen Foods

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—The office of Price Dictator Prentiss M. Brown today boosted price ceilings for the 1943 pack of a number of frozen fruits and vegetables and lowered ceilings for eight varieties of frozen fish and other sea foods.

OPA also announced that industrial users of sugar will be alloted 14 per cent more sugar for making bakery goods, candy, chewing gum, soft drinks, and other food products, retroactive to Aug. 1.

The new ruling allots industrial users 80 per cent of the sugar used in 1941, compared with a previous 70 per cent allotment. The relaxation is made possible by improved shipping conditions, which also made it possible to abandon coffee rationing, OPA said.

Officials said that in most cases the new ceilings on frozen foods covered by today's price order will be about 1 cent a pound higher than the maximums for the 1942 pack.

For a group of "minor vegetables," OPA permitted packers to allow for 20 per cent increase in the cost of raw materials in figuring their new ceilings. These include rhubarb, melons, Fordhook lima beans, broccoli, brussel sprouts, cauliflower, squash, kale, and vegetable greens, except spinach.

For beets, carrots, and lima beans except the Fordhook variety, processors are permitted to use the government's support price for the raw products in figuring these ceilings. These support prices are in excess of the 1942 price level, officials said.

Frozen mixed fruits and mixed vegetables also will be priced to reflect increased costs of the component items, frozen spinach ceilings are boosted 1 cent a pound, and small price boosts are permitted for frozen freestone peaches.

The decreases in frozen fish price ceilings range from 1 cent to 12¼ cents a pound at the processor level and will be passed on to the consumer. The revisions were made, officials said, to bring prices for the frozen foods into line with ceilings on fresh fish, the changes, effective Aug. 12 are: Four items of frozen swordfish will be reduced 2 to 12¼ cents a pound, three types of frozen whiting will be cut 1 to 2¾ cents, and frozen sea scallops will be lowered 7 cents.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

Good Morning, Mr. Blank.

During the war stamp drive in a State street store an employe in the housekeeping service showed more than a small degree of ingenuity. A neatly typed notice appeared one morning on a number of executives' desks:

"Good morning, Mr. Blank:
"Your chair is dusted.
"Your desk is spotless.
"In addition, I sell war stamps
"To help whip the axis.
"Won't you please help?
"And check the desired amount:
$5.00 $10.00 $15.00
$18.75 Or more
"Stamps will be delivered tomorrow.
"Anna Kwiatkowski.
"Housekeeping Service.
"P. S. To date I have sold $300."

Anna's ingenuity was successful to the amount of $1,200.

Lazy Days.

"Yesterday, when I took some clothing to the tailor shop in the basement of a neighboring hotel, I found the outer screen door wide open and carefully closed it. When I came out, it was wide open again. I said to a couple of lazy-bones sitting in the sun, 'What's the idea? The flies are swarming in.' 'O,' said one, 'leave it be, lady. . . . It's so much easier to go in and out.'"

—M. M. B.

The Teen Age.

The American Girl magazine has made a survey among its readers to discover the preferences of teen-age girls. The subject is of current interest to many businessess now employing 18 and 19 year olds.

The survey showed that 71 per cent do part of the food shopping for the family; 84 per cent like to swim; 70 per cent enjoy bicycling; only 26 per cent ski.

The feminine lure of nail polish and perfume appeals to 73 and 75 per cent, respectively; 79 per cent use hand lotion; 49 per cent are concerned about vitamins and eat cereal for that reason; 93 per cent drink milk, and 81 per cent confess a fondness for candy bars.

Recreational interests include books [73 per cent]; phonographs [43 per cent], and photography [72 per cent].

No Offense Meant.

I do not mean impertinent to be;
I love the gals but lose my ecstasy;
In fact, I feel my admiration curdle
On seeing such as needs one, sans a girdle.

Good Morning!

Musicians undoubtedly will be more sympathetically inclined toward this picture than the average citizen, who won't be aware of the plot's nuances and will see in it only the situation of a temperamental composer who also is a married man.

One would have to be more or less on the celestial plane to understand a husband's absorbed interest in a maiden who runs away from school to be near him, with whom he closets himself interminably, and whose part he invariably takes in any controversy. And tho sympathy is insistently demanded for this "constant nymph"—bloodless-lipped, stooped-shouldered, ecstastically wretched, as portrayed by Joan Fontaine—it is to Alexis Smith's straightforward, bewildered, passionately loving, dignified, and most naturally jealous wife that it persists in meandering.

The "nymph" is the musically inclined daughter in a large musically inclined family of girls living happily, sloppily, and from hand to mouth in an Alpine chalet with their widowed father—a great composer.

Lewis Dodd is a friend of long standing, beloved of all the girls, but especially the idol of Tessa, who has a heart ailment that sends her into frequent faints and finally—well—finally . . .

Her beautiful cousin, Florence, on the occasion of Sanger's death, comes to look after the girls and put Tessa and Paula in school. . . . She meets, marries [AND misunderstands] Lewis, who also is there. . . . He goes to share her commonplace life and does it badly. . . . Comes the "nymph" to install herself as attendant on her idol and be his inspiration. . . .

Alexis Smith's is the most clearly etched characterization. Toni and Paula Sanger are played as well as the script permits by Brenda Marshall and Joyce Reynolds. . . . Charles Coburn, Peter Lorre, and Montagu Love swim in strange waters.

To me portrayals of Fontaine and Boyer seemed out of focus. . . . Groupings I found blurry and the story as a whole clumsily worked out. . . . British-Gaumont did it much more artistically in 1934 with Victoria Hopper and Brian Aherne in the leads.

See you tomorrow.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened his fourth highest heart. Dummy ducked and East's jack went to the king. Declarer now cashed the diamond ace and entered dummy with a low diamond to the queen, West discarding a low club. A spade was then returned to the closed hand, and when East played low, declarer put in the jack! West pounced on this trick with the queen and knocked out dummy's heart ace. After that, declarer could take only his remaining diamonds and thus had to concede a 200 point penalty.

If East had put up the ace on the first spade lead from dummy and returned a heart, declarer would have had no chance for his contract. This play, however, involved something of a guess, hence East's actual duck was not an outright error. It was the declarer who was guilty of a demonstrable mistake. On the first spade lead, declarer should have seen that his only opportunity to win nine tricks depended on winning this present spade trick. It would not be enough to make a successful finesse to the jack—even if that card knocked out the ace in West's hand, a heart return would hold declarer to eight tricks, i. e., one spade, two hearts, and five diamonds. Thus, the entire point involved was making the greatest possible effort to win the first spade trick, and it should not have been difficult to appreciate that the king, which could lose only to the ace, had a better chance of winning the trick than the jack, which could lose to either the ace or the queen.

Obviously, after the spade king holds the first lead from dummy, nine tricks become a laydown, since then declarer can afford to lay down the club king and, before losing heart control, establish for himself one spade trick, two hearts, five diamonds, and one club.

"Luck of the Devil"

By Elizabeth York Miller

SYNOPSIS: Before escaping into a craft after the siege of Dunkirk, from which he comes thru without a scratch, Ronnie Banks rifles the person of a lifeless figure. On his arrival in London he evades his comrades, visits a tea shop, and goes thru the note cases taken from the unknown man left on the beach.

INSTALMENT II.

TAKES POSSESSION.

Other papers, notably a passport, made it clear that this Alan Conyers had been an American. Probably one of those impetuous chaps who had come over with the Canadians. Ronnie studied the face of the passport photo—nice looking chap with a small mustache. And a woman, or girl, signing herself, "Very truly, your English cousin, June Merrill," had written to this Alan Conyers at 142 Emberley court, saying how she was looking forward to meeting him and hoping he would find time to spend a week-end "with us." The letter, many months old, now, had been forwarded to France in care of an American Y. M. C. A. hut.

In the confusion of getting away from Tilbury, Ronnie wasn't quite sure if that lance corporal had full particulars of each and every member of his assorted party. But he might have.

Anyway, there was plenty of time, so why not have a look at this Emberley court and see what sort of place it was. He dangled the slender bunch of keys in a speculative manner. Sounded like one of those new blocks of posh flats, and he had always been curious about them.

He decided to take a taxi, because he had no idea where the place was, and S. W. I. is a widespread district.

The fare came to more than he liked, but a hall porter was standing at the entrance as the taxi drew up and hastened to open the door for him, while he was squinting at the clock, so Ronnie tipped the driver more lavishly than he would otherwise have done.

Unfortunately, he would have to get by this gold-braided individual.

One of those brain waves on which he prided himself seized him, and he said bluntly: "I've come about this flat," and proffered the card of Mr. Alan Conyers.

The porter said: "Very good, sir, will you kindly take a seat?" And he went off with the card.

Ronnie barely had time to assure himself that the luxury was all he had heard rumored of these palaces, when the porter came back and invited him into the estate office, where a pretty and capable looking young girl was seated behind a big desk.

He advanced upon this agreeable young person with a smile and there was almost a glow of warmth in his ice-blue eyes. But even now he didn't know what his story was going to be. Maybe that Mr. Conyers was a friend of his and had offered to lend him the flat, or wanted him to get something out of it.

The girl, who was smiling, too, saved him the trouble.

"How nice to see you, Mr. Conyers," she said. "We thought, perhaps, you never were coming to take possession. You've been in France, haven't you? It's pretty awful over there just now, isn't it?"

Any ordinary person might have been knocked sidewise by this unquestioning acceptance of his identity as the owner of the flat, but Ronnie Banks was by no means an ordinary person. He merely blinked. Let her do the talking and let him find out where he stood. He was enigmatic about having been in France. He gently reproached her for questioning him on that point, and her confusion was very pretty. And then he asked for the card back, saying it was one he always kept in his note case.

In the course of a friendly little chat—mostly one sided—he learned that this Mr. Conyers had taken No. 142 furnished and had had his luggage sent there, but he had arranged the whole transaction by telephone, so that nobody at Emberley court had ever set eyes on him. The rent, it seemed, was being paid by Conyers' bankers. Why the man had never occupied the place, it was impossible to guess.

If this wasn't just one more proof—if any were needed—of Ronnie Banks' luck, backed by audacity, getting him places, then he was a Dutchman.

The girl in the estate office, altho reluctant to part with such a charming young gentleman, finally handed him over to another young woman, also pretty, who turned out to be the housekeeper, and she took him up to No. 142 and called the maid who had been looking after the place.

Ronnie got rid of them both as soon as he could, in all politeness.

This Alan Conyers obviously had been a wealthy cove. Well, all Americans were wealthy, weren't they?

Ronnie knew quite well the danger he was running, but he judged the going would be good for the matter of a fortnight or so. Until, of course, it was found out that the real Alan Conyers was dead, or "missing, believed dead." He would have to busy himself keeping an eye on that; watch the newspapers, make constant inquiries. But he didn't think he needed more than a couple of weeks to rest up in and make plans for his future.

No. 142 was not a big flat, only two rooms, a bath with a shower, and a tiny kitchenette. But it was charmingly furnished—"Like a palace," was Ronnie's verdict. And this rich American bloke had had it stocked with a lot of wine and other stuff, all sorts of fancy things in glass jars and tin boxes. In the entrance hall there was a lot of luggage, too, and Ronnie Banks had the keys.

The American had been a tall man, and his clothes fitted Ronnie pretty well. Perhaps a tailor would have suggested a few trifling alterations, but Ronnie discounted them.

Always his ambition, thoroly approved by Mum, had been to turn himself into a gentleman. It was only this ambition that had carried him thru school. Gentlemen, he knew, had to be educated. A born mimic he could denude himself of what he called a common accent and a common way of speaking, whenever it suited his purpose. His father had whaled him many a time for his lah-di-dah mannerisms—that, and other things. But he had gone to his long rest five years ago, when Ronnie, himself, was 17; and for some years before that, it hadn't been safe for Dad or anybody else to raise a hand against him. The last time Dad had tried it—over a small matter of rifling the family gas meter—he had got a broken head for his pains. And even then, Mum had taken Ronnie's part. Her blue-eyed boy was always in the right.

Now, indeed, was Ronnie Banks a gentleman, and he would have lost no time in producing the proof thereof to his doting mother, except for something that happened further to stimulate his ambitions, and caused him to wonder if, perchance, his dear old Mum might not have to count him out of her future life altogether. That thought gave him quite a pang, for he was genuinely fond of her. However, there was plenty of time to think it over, and meanwhile Ronnie Banks, alias Alan Conyers, was having his hands full with a sudden tho not necessarily unexpected love affair.

Falling in love had always been something he could not avoid, even if he wanted to, from the time he was 15 and already walking out with Goldie, who was a year older than he, and a lovely young nymph with a curly yellow bob and more tricks than a cageful of monkeys.

The Adlers Try, but 'Jane Eyre' Draws a Laugh

"JANE EYRE."

Play by Helen Jerome, from the novel by Charlotte Brontë. Staged by Luther Adler and presented in revival at the Erlanger theater Monday evening, Aug. 9, 1943.

THE CAST.

Mrs. Fairfax	Louise Lorimer
Leah	Vergel Cook
Jane Eyre	Sylvia Sidney
Mr. Rochester	Luther Adler
Adele Verens	Jean Ashworth
Grace Poole	Mary Perry
Mason	Elwell Cobb
The Maniac	Katherine Allen
Blanche Ingram	Mary McCormack
Lady Ingram	Mary Scott
Lord Ingram	J. W. Austin
Briggs	Curtis Karpe
The Rev. Wood	Clyde Waddell
Diana Rivers	Ruth Gregory
Hannah	Cora Witherspoon
St. John Rivers	Bradford Hunt

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

"Jane Eyre" had bad luck with transportation last night, and it rang up the Erlanger curtain an hour late, after the settings finally arrived from Detroit in a refrigerator car, with the ceiling of Thornfield Hall more shattered than the actors' nerves. They patched up things backstage while the audience waited with that benevolence that takes possession of audiences in war time, and at last the lights dimmed to disclose Sylvia Sidney, all smooth chignon, frogged jacket, and lace mitts, gliding Victorian fashion across the stage to take a position as governess in the mysterious mansion owned but seldom frequented by what should have been the dark, sinister and romantic Mr. Rochester, but was in this case her chivalrous and masquerading husband, Luther Adler.

Even on the basis of an incomplete report caused by the late start, there is only one way to take this version of "Jane Eyre" and that is with laughter, mostly affectionate. Helen Jerome's inept dramatization does justice neither to the Brontë novel nor to the actors who attempt to breathe life into her wooden framework, whether they were Katharine Hepburn and Dennis Hoey half a dozen years ago, or the Adlers right now. They are helped by the essential strength of the love story, and by some of the delightful dialogue straight from a novel which refuses to die after a century of existence. They are ludicrously handicapped by the creaking melodramatics of a plot that might have come straight out of a show boat, and I mean the real show boats of blood and thunder vintage, not the horrible histrionics recently foisted upon the town by the misguided Capt. Billy Bryant.

Confronted by the play's split personality, Mr. Adler's direction had not made up its mind when I left the theater. The episodes of the mad wife, her husky keeper and the conniving visitor were straight out of burlesque, and the entrance of the aristocratic maiden who wished to take Mr. Rochester riding had the house howling with glee. But the scenes between Miss Sidney and Mr. Adler have much of the gaslit charm that make the book irresistible.

Miss Sidney is a delightful Jane Eyre. She has the prim attractiveness, the sense of unyielding backbone, and the enunciation to make the most of Jane's tendency to be, like Bodo of "Watch on the Rhine," a fancy talker. Mr. Adler isn't Rochester at all, but he is a good actor who can make you respect his technique, even when you aren't in the least convinced by it. His entrance, by the way, is distinctly operatic, quite like that of Edgar of Ravenswood, who comes, cloak and scowl, into the gardens of "Lucia."

You may have fun at this "Jane Eyre." It doesn't matter in the least whether you laugh at it or with it, if it happens to amuse you. And Miss Sidney's dark radiance may remind you that years ago people called her, with reason, the "miniature Cornell."

Thru the Looking Glass

Already women who are back from vacation or who've spent the summer thus far pursuing a coat of tan are complaining about a sun problem they hadn't counted on—the strawlike texture of their hair. The hair becomes lusterless and unmanageable and, when severely sunburned, will not take even the most carefully given permanent wave.

We can't repeat too often that hair, like skin, should be protected from the sun. Use a dressing of some sort before you go out, and if you're exposed for long periods, wear a hat or a turban, especially if the hair is naturally inclined to dryness.

Once the harm is done, however, you have reconditioning work cut out for you. Brush the hair religiously and vigorously to encourage the natural oil that is the best of all aids to hair health and beauty. Massage the scalp, too, toward the same end.

In addition, use a lubricating agent on the dry ends, and brush some on the strands each time you dress your hair. One we can recommend, because it oils the hair without making it greasy, is an inexpensive white lotion which has a lano-Massage the scalp, too, toward the made, and another good trick, we've discovered, is to add a few drops of it to the final rinsing after a shampoo.

The driest, crinkliest hair will look shinier and be a lot more pliable when this is used as a dressing. It can be worked in rather generously to the strawlike ends; you'll notice that they seem to lap it up.

Two Frocks for Autumn

How about two entirely different frocks with which to begin the autumn? The first of today's suggestions is a simple model with soft collar, brief sleeves, and full skirt. It's feminine version of the shirtwaist. The other design is for a jumper and companion blouse, beautifully tailored.

Style No. 3456 is designed for sizes 12 to 44. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material.

Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 9.—Never a dull moment on the De Mille set. He exploded in the morning — at least, his set did. I saw the result in the afternoon. There was Signe Hasso in a blonde wig, as a nurse. I didn't recognize her. Some of the best looking wounded men—one named Mel Francis, actually one of the wounded Dr. Wassell cared for. He was on the Marblehead. One leg injured. I noticed writing on the other leg. De Mille said, "Take another look at it, Hedda. He's got the name of every port the Marblehead made tattooed there." And sure enough, there was tattooing almost from knee to ankle. De Mille says he's one of the best natural actors he's ever come across.

Gets Star Rating.

But the best actor on any De Mille set is De Mille. We started talking about Russia. He said, "I made a trip there some years ago. They treated me like a blooming hero. I was curious which one of my pictures they liked best. Was it 'King of Kings'? or 'The Volga Boatman'? They hadn't seen those. It was 'The Godless Girl'—only picture I was ashamed of. It had been running eight months. They deleted entirely the last reel. The girl was godless—no regeneration in the picture at all. We sold it for $7,000. They made two million." . . . Then De Mille gave me the eye and said, "I don't know whether it was the giant squid or you, but 'Reap the Wild Wind' was the most successful picture I've ever made—also topped all of Paramount's. Maybe you better be in this one just for luck!"

Come On—Give.

Wonder why Harry Cohn won't give his consent to Jinx Falkenburg going overseas with Al Jolson. He gives her nothing to do, and Tex McCrary is impatiently waiting for her to come over so they can be married. Jinx was promised a good part in "Cover Girl." She got a guest appearance. Think of the cheer she'd get from our boys on foreign lands. Why, they might even cheer Cohn! . . . Mitch Leisen had to send to Minneapolis for dogs he needed in "Frenchman's Creek." They're King Charles spaniels — cute as Christmas. I've never seen one before. Faces look Pekinesey, but they have long lanky legs. Minneapolis is only place in the country where they're bred.

Plan Changed.

Metro won't lend Walter Pidgeon. They have enough jobs lined up for him to take care of 10 Pidgeons. . . . "Fine thing for a Presbyterian deacon," says Porter Hall. "In 'Standing Room Only' I played a tired business man off to Washington, and to smooth my path to the right folks, wine and dine their secretaries—also toss in mink coats and orchids to boot!"

Perennial Beauty.

When you see Mae West in "Tropicana," you'll wonder why she's been kept off the screen so long. Same old Mae, only thinner and sexier. Heard a cute one about her from the man who makes up her income tax return. When it was done, she asked what his hobby was. He said "Flowers." That was a little hard for her to take. He said, "I live in a hotel—have one beautiful window box always filled with flowers." So she sent him a huge box filled with bulbs and a note: "I hope they'll come up to see you some time."

Did It Work!

Olivia De Havilland and Dudley Nichols put over a gag on Sonny Tufts. He was reading about Alan Ladd getting 2,000 fan letters a week, looked up at Olivia and said, "Don't you think it's exaggerated?" Said Olivia: "Come now, you mustn't let it get you down. Don't go over in a corner and brood. Your day is coming. Once they see your puss on the screen, you'll get more than Ladd." A few days later in walked a messenger boy with a Paramount mail cap on his head and said, "Mr Tufts, your fan mail has arrived." Tufts held out his hand for it. Messenger said, "It's on a truck outside." He went out, and there was a truckload of letters. Olivia and Nichols had hired an extra to impersonate the messenger.

Three Musketeers.

Ludwig Bemelmans, who wrote "I Love You, I Love You, I Love You," is in town adapting his book, "Hotel Splendide," into a play, with Fefe Ferri assisting him. . . . There was a pause — but not refreshing—When Margaret O'Brien lost a front tooth during a scene. But the prop department took over. It was ready because shooting was held up four days while a tooth was found for Freddie Bartholomew when he was in the midst of "David Copperfield." An order was given then that spare teeth were to be on hand for all child stars, in case nature double crossed them.

Summer Time Brings Joy to Mother, Child

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Lives there a child to whom summer isn't a delight?

Blue skies, floods of sunshine, soft breezes, outdoor living should spell more than health—they should bring with them a certain increased joy of living for both a mother and her children. All that is needed to bring this about is for mother to get a touch of the vacation spirit.

Once innoculated with this delightfully demoralizing virus, all sorts of things become possible—things that make summer living so different from winter living—one of the nicest aspects, I think, of our changing climate.

Up to midsummer vacation doings usually take care of themselves—at least for most of us. But with the first part of August children usually begin to feel a lag—aimlessness sets in. Many mothers begin to wail, "Oh dear! What shall I do with the children!"

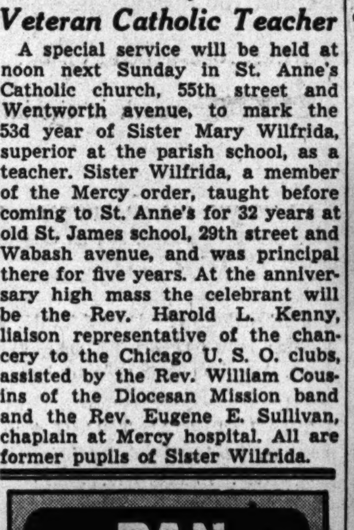
Some of that feeling is due to the fact that there aren't enough activities for the children; but part of it is due to the fact that mothers go on with all their dutiful busyness instead of letting go, as I do believe nature intends us to do when the weather grows warm. If the conscientious mother and housewife would just let down and allow the vacation spirit to get into her blood and join forces with the children she would find fun and refreshment in the long summer days, and the children would adore it.

One of the first things she must do to foster this vacation feeling is to simplify to the very ground her housekeeping; manage, by fair means or foul, to get some co-operation in chores from the children, and last, make up her mind to keep herself and the children outdoors just as much as she possibly can, at the same time keeping the whole "outfit" rested, with sensible measures taken for keeping cool.

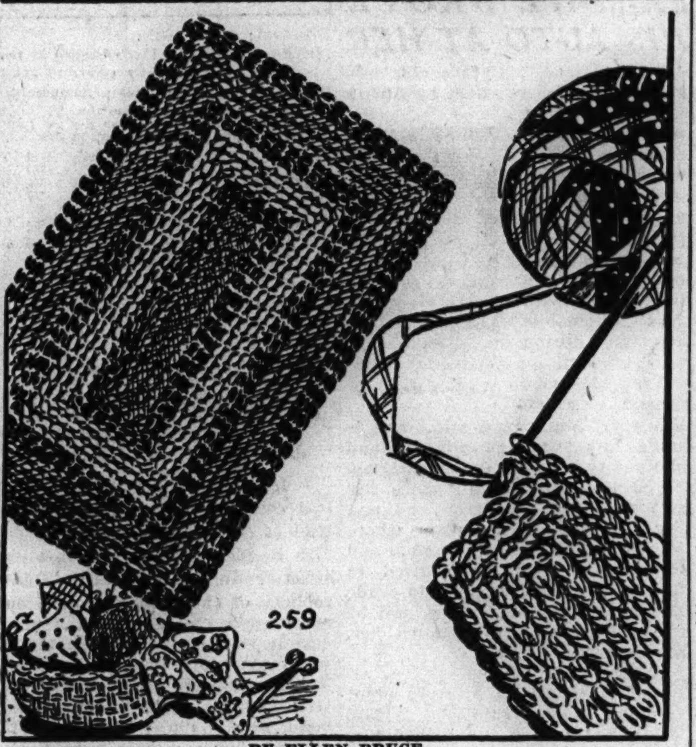
Tomorrow will be devoted to this vacation thought.

Service Sunday to Honor Veteran Catholic Teacher

A special service will be held at noon next Sunday in St. Anne's Catholic church, 55th street and Wentworth avenue, to mark the 53d year of Sister Mary Wilfrida, superior at the parish school, as a teacher. Sister Wilfrida, a member of the Mercy order, taught before coming to St. Anne's for 32 years at old St. James school, 29th street and Wabash avenue, and was principal there for five years. At the anniversary high mass the celebrant will be the Rev. Harold L. Kenny, liaison representative of the chancery to the Chicago U. S. O. clubs, assisted by the Rev. William Cousins of the Diocesan Mission band and the Rev. Eugene E. Sullivan, chaplain at Mercy hospital. All are former pupils of Sister Wilfrida.



Crocheted Rag Rug



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

There is nothing like a crocheted rag rug to complete a picture of cheerful, domestic tranquillity. Such rugs are so easy to make that every home should boast at least one. Strips from old rags may be cut, dyed any color, and combined with strips of printed material. A large wooden crochet hook should be used.

For instructions in crocheting the rag rug, No. 259, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Household Forum

Mrs. E. J. B., Chicago—I store my candles for five or six weeks in a dry place. They burn better—and more slowly—after this treatment.

E. Pfeifer, 1424 East 65th place, Chicago—I have been looking in the Household Forum for a way to prevent newspaper clippings from turning yellow. Would appreciate any information from your readers.

Mrs. Ed W., Aurora, Ill.—For some years now I have cut inch-wide strips of cellophane and used them for plant ties. These are a lot better than string because they won't cut into tomato plants and other plants as string does.

4-H Achievement Day Meetings to Be Held

Due to war time traveling restrictions, the annual 4-H club's Achievement day meeting will be held in two sections of the metropolitan area this year. Northwest and north side members will gather Thursday at the Congregational church in Des Plaines, and the southwest and south side area groups will meet the same day in the Community High school in Blue Island.

Annual Parish Picnic.

The annual parish picnic of the St. Dominic Catholic church, 337 West Locust street, will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at Harm's park, Western and Berteau avenues.

Armour Ideas Make the Most of Meat

Men like Bacon and Cabbage...Hearty Dish!

Haven't you heard men rave over corned beef and cabbage? Well, just let the man of your house try this delicious bacon and cabbage dish! It's wonderfully full of flavor. It's hearty and satisfying. It's the dish that gives that "well-fed" feeling . . . yet it takes less than one red point per serving.

It's so point-thrifty because it's made with Armour's Star Bacon . . . the rich, mild bacon that is sugar-cured in its own juices . . . then slow-smoked over fragrant hickory and hardwood fires. So flavorful that its fine meat flavor extends through all the cabbage . . . makes just a little go a long way. And in this bacon and cabbage dish you need no butter (another red point saving). To prepare the dish, fry 4 or more slices of Star Bacon slowly until crisp. Remove slices. Add 2 tbsps. sugar and 2 tbsps. flour to bacon fat. Blend. Add ½ cup water and ⅓ cup vinegar gradually. Cook and stir until thick. Season. Cook cabbage in boiling water for 5 minutes. Drain. Pour sweet-sour sauce over cabbage. To serve, place crisp bacon slices on top of cabbage. Serves 4.

Announcement Being Made of Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad J. Eimers of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Elizabeth, to David William Goad, son of Mr. and Mrs. George N. Goad of Evanston. Miss Eimers attended DePauw university and North Park college. Her fiance, who studied at Northwestern university, is serving as a seaman with the royal Canadian naval volunteer reserve.

Dr. and Mrs. Russel H. Williams of Granville, O., announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty McCann, to Lt. John A. Lindstrom, U. S. M. C. R., son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Lindstrom of Skokie, formerly of Granville. The wedding is planned for late September. Both Miss Williams and her fiance were graduated from Denison university in 1940. Lt. Lindstrom is an instructir in the officer candidate school for marines at Quantico, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold King of Oak Park have announced the engagement of their daughter, Betty Jayne, to J. Robert O'Connor, son of Mrs. Cornelius J. O'Connor, also of Oak Park. Miss King attended Mundelein college, and her fiance studied at Northwestern university.

U. S. O. Dance Arranged by Daughters of Isabella

The Chicago Archdiocesan group of the Daughters of Isabella will give a dancing party tonight at the U. S. O. National Catholic Community Service center, 1122 South Wabash avenue, with St. Agnes circle taking over hostess duties. A special orchestra has been engaged. The women will serve refreshments and distribute cigarets to the service men. Competitions have been arranged in which the award will be the privilege of making a long distance call home.

Music Note

The Detroit Symphony orchestra, which about a year ago announced suspension of activities until after the war, will reappear in the fall as the Detroit Orchestra, Inc., under the direction of Karl Krueger, for the last 10 years conductor of the Kansas City Philharmonic. According to Dr. Fred T. Murphy, president of the Detroit Symphony society, resumption of the orchestra's activities is made possible by "a wealthy and interested Detroiter," who will underwrite the concerts.

MICHIGAN LIQUOR RATION FIXED AT QUART A MONTH

System Will Be Placed in Operation Aug. 19.

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 9 [Special].—R. Glen Dunn, state liquor control commission chairman, announced today that Michigan's liquor rationing system will be placed in operation Aug. 19 and that the individual ration will be approximately one quart a month.

Dunn said holders of ration cards will be permitted to make only one purchase a month. The purchase may consist of a quart, a fifth of a gallon, or two pints of whisky, gin, rum, or other distilled liquors, a pint of such liquor and a bottle of wine of more than 16 per cent alcohol, or two bottles of wine.

The first coupon of the ration card will be valid from Aug. 19 to Sept. 19, Dunn explained, and the official ration may be bought from a liquor store or a specially designated distributor any time during that period.

Approximately 1½ million cards have been issued. The state requires payment of a 25 cent fee when the ration card is delivered.

Search for Col. Hulse, Army Flyer, Abandoned

The army public relations office here yesterday announced that the search for Lt. Col. S. W. Hulse Jr., army flyer, formerly of Highland Park, who disappeared July 27 on a flight from Truax field, Wis., to Selfridge field, Mich., has been abandoned. A final effort by the coast guard to find him over the week-end failed.

GUEST OF OAKES TELLS TODAY OF FINDING BODY

NASSAU, Bahamas, Aug. 9 (AP).—Harold G. Christie probably will be a witness tomorrow at resumption of a preliminary hearing for Alfred de Marigny, charged with the murder of Harry Oakes, 68 year old multimillionaire.

A guest at Oakes' home the night Oakes was beaten and burned to death, Christie called in physicians and police when he found his friend's still warm body the morning of July 8.

The hearing for De Marigny, Oakes' son-in-law, was continued last week after Magistrate F. E. Field developed writer's cramp copying in longhand the testimony of American police experts summoned to help solve the slaying.

WOMAN CHARGES EX-MATE DROVE HIS AUTO AT HER

Edwin Mead, 31 years old, 4039 Parker avenue, was held by Austin police last night on a disorderly conduct charge lodged by his former wife, Louise, 25, of 4452 Walton street, who told police Mead had tried to run her down with his automobile yesterday during an argument.

Edwin Mead.

The Meads were divorced last year, Mrs. Mead said. She is suing him for back alimony and charged that he has consistently annoyed her with threats since her suit was filed. Yesterday he met her near the defense plant where she works, at Kilbourn avenue and Augusta boulevard, and tried to talk to her. She attempted to evade him by crossing the street and he tried to drive his car against her, she charged.

Shakespeare avenue police arrested Mead at the printing plant at which he was employed at 2356 Milwaukee avenue and turned him over to the Austin police.

ASK JURY TRIAL FOR SUSPECT IN $16,000 ROBBERY

Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Criminal court yesterday continued the trial of Alvin Krause, 29 years old, 2755 Hadden avenue, who is under indictment as a suspect in the $16,000 robbery of the Ashland-Fulton currency exchange, 235 North Ashland avenue, on March 13, 1942, after Defense Attorneys George Crane and Robert Romano asked for a jury trial. Krause, held under $100,000 bond, also is under indictment for robbing Charles Rantis, a restaurant owner, of $150 at the time of the Ashland-Fulton exchange holdup. When seized last Wednesday on the north side, Krause fired nearly a score of shots at pedestrians.

GYPSY WITH TWO WIVES CHOOSES YOUNGER ONE

Steve Dimitro, a gypsy, met with the two wives he married under gypsy law and nine of his 12 children, in his home at 1236 North Western avenue yesterday, in an effort to work out the marital problem that developed when Mrs. Suzie Dimitro, the first wife, and eight of her 11 children arrived from New York to charge him with nonsupport.

Dimitro, the two wives and the nine children were in Domestic Relations court yesterday to present their problem to Judge John Zuris. When Mrs. Suzie Dimitro refused to accept $10 a week as adequate support and Mrs. Dorothy Dimitro, wife No. 2 and mother of one child, declined to see her own money used to pay the $25 weekly demanded, Judge Zuris fined Dimitro $150 and costs. Later a motion to vacate the order was filed and wife No. 2 provided bail for her husband's release.

Judge Zuris, in fining Dimitro, explained the fine did not solve his problem and that Dimitro would have to choose between the two women. Dimitro said he'd take the younger one, whereupon Mrs. Dorothy Dimitro provided bail.

PACIFIC COAST TRIO REPORTS TO ALL-STARS

Al Wistert Also Joins Squad.

Volunteers Wanted

COLLEGE and high school musicians who wish to participate in the All-Star band should make their availability known to Ray Dvorak, whose address is University of Wisconsin Bands, Madison, Wis.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Three stars from Washington State university, William Remington, Bob Kennedy and Nick Susoeff, who were among the last to accept invitations to play against the Washington Redskins Aug. 25, reported to the College All-Stars at Northwestern university yesterday. These players came from their base at Fort George Wright, Wash.

Upon arrival these Washington State men joined Dick Renfro, their quarter back last fall, who had preceded them. The group of All-Stars from the Pacific coast, a delegation which represents Stanford and Oregon as well as Washington, is complete.

Wistert Joins Squad.

Big Al Wistert, Michigan's great tackle, also checked in yesterday morning and went thru the day's rigorous training program which included two sessions on the field. Wistert, who has been working at the Ford bomber plant, left there Saturday night.

Arrival of Remington bolsters the center position for the contact drills which will be ordered by mid-week. Susoeff plays end and Kennedy joins the left half backs. Wistert is a left tackle, of course, but those who followed Michigan last fall know he has played defensive left end on a five man line and that he can lead interference with the agility of the fastest guard.

Easy to Enforce Rules.

Yesterday's squad meeting, the first of the training period, was devoted to discussion of the plans for day by day progress leading to the game Aug. 25. Head Coach Harry Stuhldreher also outlined the brief squad rules. Since the squad is quartered in the stadium, punctuality at all meetings and practices can be enforced.

The two hour morning drill was devoted to fundamentals including stance for line play, timing for blocking maneuvers, and the timing of the snap of the ball by the center. Physical exercises which preceded the morning drill were repeated in the afternoon. Kicking and passing were stressed and the trio of half backs which will be counted on to lead the air attack against the Redskins, will work at this specialty each day. These men are Otto Graham, Paul Governali, and Bob Steuber.

Eight Full Backs on List.

Early shifts in personnel have sent Bob Penaluna of Iowa to left tackle and Ray Carlson of Marquette to right end. Penaluna was listed as a guard. Carlson played right half last year at Marquette but started all games in his sophomore season at right end.

The All-Star squad will be completed by midweek when the last of the service men, several of whom were granted 15 day furloughs, reach Northwestern. The full back position currently is the best fortified. Eight men are listed at the position and they include Roy McKay, Texas; Pat Harder, Wisconsin; Corwin Clatt, Notre Dame; Steve Filipowicz, Fordham; Don Boor, Michigan, and Joe Winkler of Purdue, who are present. Ed Hirsch of Northwestern and William Zapalac of Texas A. & M., who are in the army, are en route to camp.

50 Report for Opening of Warrior Football Drills

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 9—[Special]—Lt. Robert Elden, acting Camp Grant football coach, welcomed 50 soldier candidates for the Warrior squad to the opening practice yesterday afternoon on the military reservation. "Most of these boys have had college experience," Lt. Elden said, "and their military training has kept them in good physical shape."

ALL-STARS WON'T BE DULL BOYS

Coach Harry Stuhldreher doesn't believe in the idea of all work and no play for the All-Stars and here a few of them leave their quarters in Dyche stadium for a bit of recreation following yesterday's workouts. Left to right: Don Boor of Michigan, Bob Diercks of Wisconsin, Rudy Smeja of Michigan, Jim Dewar of Indiana, Pete Pihos of Indiana, Jack Lister of Missouri, and Paul Sizemore of Furman. REDSKINS VISION COLLEGIANS AS FOREIGN LEGION

BY EDWARD PRELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 9.—"I see by the papers," said Dutch Bergman today, "that Harry Stuhldreher of the College All-Stars isn't afraid of the Redskins' new style of play. Well, I'm not afraid of the strategy he and his fellow coaches will toss at us. But, mister, I'll tell you what I am worried about—those 64 men will be playing against our 30. That's not a football team—it's a foreign legion, an army capable of holding Alaska safe from invasion."

The new coach of the professional champions, with occasional verbal aid from his gigantic assistant, Turk Edwards, then sketched a picture of what could happen Aug. 25 in Dyche stadium.

"If it's a hot night," began Dutch in one of his rare pessimistic moods, "and if we suffer from injuries, we'll be in a devil of a fix. It will be a case of our tired fellows being constantly challenged by a stream of fresh talent from the All-Star bench."

Major Mental Factor.

"That's right," cut in Edwards. "You take that eastern Army All-Star-Brooklyn Dodgers game last year. The army had some 60 players and the Dodgers 30. That fourth quarter was a massacre. Bruiser Kinard, the Brooklyn tackle, was crawling back to his position toward the finish. Just a light touch from the other guys and the big fellow would go down. A football player only can go the limit, take so much punishment, no matter how good he is."

"And another thing," declared Bergman, "There's a major mental factor in this All-Star game. Frankly, we can't point for it. We have 13 other games this season. If we shoot the works for the collegians, we're going to be stale in mid-season. So we're just going to take this game in stride. The All-Stars can point for this one battle. After it's over they'll scatter to the four winds. To them, this is the game of games. Sure, we get a big thrill out of it, but we've got to remember there's a tough season ahead."

One Experienced Back Field.

Because of the Redskins man power shortage, the players are being instructed at more than one position The guards are learning the tackle assignments and vice versa. Likewise, the backs are being tutored at more than one spot. There will be no substitutions by units, but they will come singly in the main. The Redskins have only one solidly experienced back field—Ray Hare at quarter, Sam Baugh at left half, Wilbur Moore at right half, and Bob Seymour at full back. Lanky LeRoy Zimmerman, Baugh's

Julius Franks (left) Michigan's great guard, takes his practice drills as seriously as tho it were the evening of Aug. 25, when the All-Stars meet the Washington Redskins in Dyche stadium. Here he scoops up a high bounding loose ball and prepares to make progress. At right Ray Ebli, Notre Dame end, greets Steve Filipowicz, Fordham full back, now a marine at Parris Island training base.

Fritzie Zivic Stops Sgt. Kid McCoy in 4th

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 9 (AP).—Fritzie Zivic, former welterweight king, stopped Sgt. Kid McCoy in the fourth round. The referee ended the scheduled 10 rounder after the soldier had been floored twice.

Catherine Fox and Kay Byrne Share Women's Medal Honors

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Kay Byrne, the personable New York radio singer who of late has been playing golf as sharply as her tutor, Prof. Willie Goggin, yesterday sang it with woods and irons in rendering a tuneful 74, two under par and only two over the course record at the Evanston Golf club. This little number by Kay apparently had captured the qualifying medal in the 43d annual amateur tournament of the Women's Western Golf association, but it was not to be a solo.

The 74 became a duet when comely Catherine Fox, 18 year old Glen Ridge, N. J., star, arrived shortly after Miss Byrne with the 74 that not only tied her for qualifying honors, but also brought her the Marion Miley trophy, awarded to the player with the lowest combined medal score for the W. W. G. A. Open and Amateur. Catherine's card of yesterday, 2 above the course mark set by Dorothy Kirby in the Western Derby of 1939, also gave her the Miley bracelet of a 152, compounded of a 78 in the Western Open at Glen Oak and yesterday's well modeled effort.

Final Trophy Standings.

The speed of the field was evidenced by the fact that a playoff was necessary at 85, with seven players having to work overtime for the last four places in the championship set. The winners were Miss Row; Jean Hopkins of Cleveland, O., and Shirley Ramsdell of Cedar Falls, Ia., all of whom won their places on the second hole, after Ann Lewis of Bloomington, Ill., and Mrs. E. B. Hall of Medinah had been eliminated with sixes on the first hole. This narrowed the extra hole duel down to Carolyn Varin of Indianapolis, Ind., and Miss

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Lee Savold put his knockout punch on display in Chicago for the fourth straight time when he floored Lou Nova for the count in the second round of a scheduled 10 round bout in Wrigley field last night.

It was the Paterson, N. J., heavyweight boxer's second conquest of Nova. In a previous meeting a year ago last May, Savold stopped the big Californian in the eighth round. That decision was disputed by Nova's backers who declared Lou was even with Lee when forced to surrender because of face cuts.

This Fight Decisive.

There were no disputants in Cubs park last night. Not even Nova and his supporters in the crowd of 12,653, who paid $45,959.63 to see the rematch, could question the decisive manner in which Savold ended matters this time.

Action in the first round gave no indication of what was to follow. Savold started things by stabbing Lou with a stiff left, a maneuver which led Bill Daly, one of Lee's managers, to shout "there goes his nose." But it wasn't Nova's nose that took the brunt of those jabs, it was his left eye, as testified by the fact that the skin was broken in that region.

The fireworks began in the next round. But Nova, not Savold, set them off. He glided after Savold and drove a barrage of blows to the head and stomach. Lee tried to retaliate, but only succeeded in running into another series of punches and for a few seconds it appeared Nova would realize his ambition and even the score with Lee.

One Minute, 40 Seconds.

Tho Savold may have been stung he wasn't hurt because shortly thereafter he took advantage of a missed lead. He slipped under the lead and drove Nova to the ropes with several explosive blows to the stomach. These caused Lou to double up in pain, but a left hook to the chin sent him to the canvas and ended the fight.

One minute and 40 seconds of the round had passed when Referee Tommy Gilmore completed his count.

The victory was cause for a double celebration by Savold. Shortly before appearing at the Illinois Athletic commission office yesterday afternoon for his medical test, Savold received word from Warwick, N. Y., that his wife had given birth to a 7½ pound daughter. The girl is the third child in the Savold household.

Maxin Wins Over Bolden.

Pvt. Joe Maxin of Baer field, Fort Wayne, Ind., made it two in a row over Nate Bolden when he outpointed his rugged Chicago opponent in a 10 round semi-windup.

Bolden was the aggressor thruout, but his slow, flatfooted style appeared to be made to order for his 21 year old foe.

Dan Merritt, former Chicagoland Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, knocked out Lem Franklin in the first round of a match set for 10 rounds. Merritt, who was substituted for Clarence Brown, was down twice before he found the range with a series of lefts and rights which floored Big Lemuel four times.

Fight Decisions

LAST NIGHT.

At Wrigley Field—Lee Savold knocked out Lou Nova, [2]; Joe Maxim beat Nate Bolden, [10]; Dan Merritt knocked out Lem Franklin, [1]; Louis Mays stopped Mike Edwards [6]; Lindy Elliott beat Lou Campbell, [4].

At Pittsburgh, Pa.—Fritzie Zivic stopped Sgt. Kid McCoy [4].

At Baltimore, Md.—Lee Q. Murray stopped Harry Bobo [8].

OCCUPATION TO RUN IN WELLES $5,000 HANDICAP

3 Year Old Faces Fast Field Tomorrow.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Occupation, John Marsch's 3 year old which failed in an attempt against more seasoned campaigners in Saturday's $10,000 Chicago handicap, is scheduled to return to his own age class tomorrow for an effort in the $5,000 Dick Welles handcap at Washington Park. The juvenile money winning champion of 1942 was among the nominees for this mile run which were announced yesterday by Racing Secretary Webb Everett.

Yesterday's list of nominations shows that he'll encounter Cabin Creek, All Hoss, Bull's Eye, Burnt Cork, Marchon, Valdina Foe, Alforay, Alquest, and Beau Ary in tomorrow's gallop.

Blue Pennant Entered.

Other nominations announced yesterday revealed that the Louis B. Mayer stable, which has enjoyed so much success this summer, will send Blue Pennant and King's Abbey into Saturday's $10,000 Sheridan handicap at a mile and a furlong. Blue Pennant won the $5,000 Flossmoor handicap on the turf course last week and King's Abbey scored in an allowance event. The stable's top handicap performer, Thumbs Up, will pass this event and give his colleagues a chance at it.

The parade of long shots continued yesterday when Speedy Show and Anopheles combined their efforts for a $568.20 daily double. Speedy Show, a 39 to 1 shot, won by two lengths in the first race and Anopheles scored by a length and a half at 10 to 1 in the second.

Valdina Groom Wins.

Valdina Groom and Dr. Rush finished in a dead heat in the Old Rosebud purse, one mile feature event of yesterday's program. After Dr. Rush had taken the lead away from the pacesetter, Full Cry, in the stretch, Valdina Groom came on beside the rail very swiftly in the last few strides to get up just as they went under the wire.

A length and a quarter further back, Martian was taking third place away from the weary Full Cry, which was the 7 to 5 favorite. Valdina Groom was second choice at 5 to 2 and Dr. Rush was quoted at 7 to 2. The former paid $4 in dead heat and the latter $4.40.

Redskins Fear Man Power in All-Star Game

understudy, and Bob Masters, former Philadelphia Eagle, are the only seasoned members of the No. 2 back field, tho their two partners, Frank Akins of Washington State, and Jack Jenkins of Vanderbilt, look like they'll do.

Summing up 10 days under the California sun, Bergman said he was well satisfied with his squad's progress.

Weather Conditions Ideal.

"Weather conditions have been ideal," he said. "The players are in good shape except for Baugh's cold and minor leg injuries to others. We've had one break. With a small squad, we have been able to give more individual attention and thus make headway in teaching our new system. But those 64 All-Stars. Excuse me while I shudder——."

Today the pro champions took it easy following yesterday's first scrimmage which was termed satisfactory by the coaches. Tomorrow the athletes will crash into the tackling and blocking dummies and work on new plays. Attention also will be paid to pass defense on the defensive formation for kockoffs.

Wife of Mique Malloy, Boxing Promoter, Dies

Mrs. Ruth Malloy, 55 years old, wife of Mique Malloy, Chicago boxing promoter, died yesterday afternoon at her home, 8317 S. Throop street, from an illness which had lasted six months. She is survived by her husband, 11 children, 11 grandchildren, four brothers and three sisters. The Malloys had been married 37 years. Altho complete arrangements have not been made, interment will be in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

THAT KNOCKOUT PUNCH

Lou Nova goes down for the count in the second round of a scheduled 10 round bout in Wrigley field last night as Lee Savold steps back after delivering blow to chin which terminated the fight. It was the second knockout victory for Savold over Nova.

GRAND CIRCUIT TO OPEN TODAY AT EMPIRE CITY

New York, Aug. 9 (AP).—The Grand Circuit opens a three day stand at Empire City tomorrow when Bill Cane takes over the Westchester county track for the meeting he has held in other years over his Goshen track.

The three day session, featuring the $40,000 Hambletonian for 3 year old trotters on Wednesday, is the high spot of the 34 day meeting that got under way at Empire on July 29.

Tommy Armour Finds Car Gone After Fight

Tommy Armour, golf pro at the Medinah Country club, saw the Lee Savold-Lou Nova fight last night in Wrigley field but after the bout was over discovered his car had been stolen from a parking lot on Addison street. He reported the disappearance to Town Hall police.

DON FAUROT TO COACH SEAHAWK FOOTBALL TEAM

Succeeds Bierman at Iowa Pre-Flight.

Iowa City, Ia., Aug. 9 (AP).—Lt. Don Faurot, who started the University of Missouri football fortunes on the up grade in 1935, was named today as head football coach of the Iowa Navy Pre-Flight Seahawks, to succeed Lt. Col. Bernie Bierman, who recently was assigned to duty in the Pacific with the marines. Faurot is 40 years old.

Faurot took over the helm at Missouri at a time when Tiger teams had 16 defeats and a tie in 17 consecutive games. Recovery was not immediate, but in Faurot's first year, 1935, his team won three, lost three, and tied three. By the end of last season his teams had won 47, lost 22, and tied six, scoring 1,201 points against 617 for the opposition.

Seven assistant coaches were named to aid Faurot. They include Lt. Larry [Moon] Mullins, former Notre Dame back field star and ex-coach at Loyola of the South; Lt. Elmer W. Holm, former Nebraska line coach; Lt. Lloyd W. Peterson, one time Minnesota full back; Lt. [j. g.] James Tatum, former North Carolina coach; Lt. [j. g.] Tom Heardon, ex-Notre Dame and Green Bay Packers half back; Lt. [j. g.] Doug Kerr, 1942 line coach at Iowa State college, and Ensign Charles [Bud] Wilkinson, former Minnesota quarter back and assistant Gopher coach last year.

Fishing Tackle Is Enroute to Navy Island

BY BOB BECKER.

Those two Seabees from Chicago, A. E. Montag, F1/C, and George P. Kaminski, S2/C of the 77th battalion, company D, United States navy, who wrote us a couple of weeks ago from some spot in the Pacific that they needed fishing tackle, are going to own plenty of fishing equipment before long. More than 10 small packages containing hooks, artificial plug and spoon lures, a couple of reels and lines, and some rods are now on the way to the boys, thanks to the generosity of readers of this column.

Montag and Kaminski wrote us that they were on "Island X," fish were plentiful there, and how they wanted to fish!

The first package of tackle was brought to our office by Michael Dubell, 2508 North Mason avenue. He left a good sized paper sack full of lures and hooks including a couple of trolling lures that ought to produce plenty of big fish for the Seabees.

We want to thank Dubell and also Harry N. Holland, 4066 Lake Park avenue; John Townsend Collins, 1019 Quarrier street, Charleston, W. Va.; D. D. Thoren, 2049 East 70th street, and James W. Ballou, 122 Everett street, Dixon, Ill., for the fishing equipment they sent in for the navy boys. Our thanks also to R. J. Kelling, 5435 South Christiana avenue, Chicago, who offered to send fishing tackle to the boys but whose equipment is not needed for the Seabees at this time.

SAVOY FIGHTERS HOSTS TONIGHT TO CAMP GRANT

Camp Grant's boxing representatives will meet Savoy Athletic club team in a series of amateur bouts tonight in Savoy arena, 47th street and South Parkway.

The soldier fighters, who will be under the supervision of Lt. Col. Frank A. Bush, camp special services officer, will be led into action by Corp. Gene Roberts. Roberts, runner-up in the finals of the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions in the stadium last March, will meet Lloyd Watts, Savoy club 120 pounder. The card:

Pvt. Ray Grim, Camp Grant, vs. Art Brown, Savoy, 147; Pvt. Lyndell McClure, Camp Grant, vs. James Williams, Savoy, heavyweights; Pvt. Emmet O'Banion, Camp Grant, vs. Ceasar Cooper, Savoy, 235; Pvt. William Tate, Camp Grant, vs. Robert Weatherly, Savoy, 130; Pvt. Joe Chuckro, Camp Grant, vs. William Love, Savoy, 175; Corp. Herb Mashino, Camp Grant, vs. John Bratton, Savoy, 126; Pvt. Lionel Johnson, Camp Grant, vs. Collins Brown, Savoy, 160; Corp. Gene Roberts, Camp Grant, vs. Lloyd Watts, Savoy, 120.

Sgt. Georgie Toy, Camp Grant coach, who is a former Cleveland sectional Golden Gloves lightweight winner, will second the soldier boxers.

BOSTON IS SOX FOE IN RETURN HOME TONIGHT

Smith to Face Newsome in Quest of No. 7.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

James Dykes' White Sox, who went into a decline in their last three matches while touring, will entertain at home this evening, thoroly refreshed, they hope, by a glimpse of the Comiskey park electric lights. With the Yankees so far down the stretch they're hardly visible to their pursuers, the Chicagoans have quit figuring pennant mathematics but remain highly interested in second place and its accompanying portion of world series loot.

Altho the prestige accumulated by their feats in the east broke out at the seams as the result of their misdeeds in Detroit, the Sox still have a few items about which to crow. Luke Appling still is topping the league with his .333 at bat, Guy Curtright is still in the Big Six competition with his .319, and Wally Moses has 35 stolen bases in his trophy case, which has room for more.

Little Eddie Smith is going to work against Boston's Red Sox, the visiting attraction this evening, probably drawing Heber Newsome as an opponent. During the tour the pudgy southpaw captured two decisions against one defeat, being topped only by Bill Dietrich and Lee Ross, each of whom fashioned a trip record of three against one. Orval Grove, who headed into the east with eight straight victories, was whipped twice, but balanced his performance with the same number of successes. He'll have a chance at his No. 11 in tomorrow's night battle.

The Sox best prospects for a climb should develop while the Athletics are visiting in these parts. Eight whacks will be available at Connie Mack's tailenders and Dykes can handle that kind of a load because of being amply supplied with starting pitchers. The A's are not comfortably fixed in this respect. The Yankees are due for a similar dose of labor. They must reel off seven games in four days in Detroit and the Tigers seldom are easy on Joe McCarthy's feelings.

Cubs Leave on Long Eastern Jaunt Today

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs, somewhat chagrined by their series of six flops in seven games they have played in August, after winning 22 out of 31 in July, will head east shortly after noon today. Tomorrow they'll open a six city trip with a game in Boston.

Boston should be a good place for the Chicagoans to get back in victory stride. They whipped the Braves the first nine times they played them, dropped a double header, then added a success the last meeting. Thus the series now shows 10 out of a dozen in Boston competition.

The Cubs will leave home on their last eastern trip of the year still in fifth place, 4½ games behind the fourth place Dodgers [who have a 10 game losing streak on their hands]; a game ahead of the Phillies, who have won one more than the Cubs but have lost three more. They also are a game ahead of the Braves. They have won three more than the Braves but also have lost one more than the Bostons.

ALSAB FINISHES 3D IN TEST AT NARRAGANSETT

Pawtucket, R. I., Aug. 9 (AP).—Mrs. Albert Sabath's game little Alsab put on his usual rush thru the stretch today but it wasn't quite enough to capture the $5,000 added Pawtucket handicap at Narragansett Park.

Returning to the races after a long layoff, the 2-year-old champion of 1941 finished a close third in the stake which opened Narragansett's 42-day summer meeting before a throng of 8,000. J. B. Hatfield's Cherrydale won the race and held a two and one-half length edge over Pine Tree Farm's Virginia Alpha. The winning time was 1:11 1-5.

Alsab, which finished a neck behind Valdina Allha, was top-weighted at 124 and was a slight favorite in the wagering.

Cherrydale earned $4,250 and paid $10.80, $6.60, and $5. Valdina Alpha returned $9 and $6.40, and Alsab $4.60 to show. The Sabath colt earned $500 for his efforts.

MARY HARDWICK, ALICE MARBLE TO OPEN TOUR TODAY

WACs to See Net Stars at Fort Sheridan.

Mrs. Ruth Mary Hardwick Hare, England's No. 1 woman tennis player, whose anticipated three weeks' visit to the United States four years ago has become somewhat of an extended stay as a result of the war, came back home to Chicago yesterday. At least she refers to Chicago as her home now and she has made some plans for a handsome homecoming this afternoon when she meets Alice Marble at 6 o'clock at Fort Sheridan in an exhibition match.

The occasion for the meeting between the two ranking women tennis players of the day is the beginning of an entertainment tour of WAC camps, which will embrace 11 exhibitions in eight states before terminating at Fort Monmouth, N. J., on Sept. 3.

Tour Outgrowth of Her Interest.

The WAC tour, which will include stops at Camp Grant on Wednesday, Fort Des Moines, Ia.; Fort Riley, Kas.; Jefferson Barracks, Mo.; Lexington, Va.; Orlando and Daytona Beach, Fla.; Fort Benning and Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and Fort Monmouth, N. J., is being sponsored by the WACS and the U. S. O. But it all came as an outgrowth of Miss Hardwick's interest in tennis for the services.

Founded Wimbledon Fund.

This started as far back as the pro swing, when she devoted a part of her earnings to the British war relief. She and her husband, Charles Edgar Hare, former No. 1 English tennis star, who represented a Chicago sporting goods concern prior to entering the service at Camp Grant last winter, started a Mary Hardwick Wimbledon fund at that time. Since then they have contributed funds to purchasing three mobile canteens, which were established in Wimbledon, her birthplace, Birmingham, her husband's home, and London.

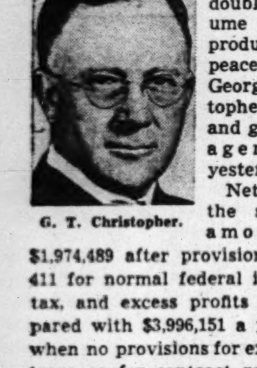
PACKARD'S WAR VOLUME SOARS IN SIX MONTHS

Business Is Double Top Peace Year.

Production of war goods in the first six months of this year boosted business of the Packard Motor Car company to double the volume of its most productive entire peace time year, George T. Christopher, president and general manager, reported yesterday.



G. T. Christopher.

Net income in the six months amounted to $1,974,489 after provision of $9,913,411 for normal federal income, surtax, and excess profits taxes, compared with $3,996,151 a year earlier when no provisions for excess profits taxes or for contract renegotiation had been made, the report said.

Shipments Almost Double.

"Increased production of Rolls-Royce engines for aircraft, and Packard marine engines for PT boats represented half year shipments totaling $160,622,308, and shipments in the corresponding six months a year ago equaled $86,435,663," said Christopher. Profit before taxes was $11,887,900, against $7,260,976, a year earlier, he said.

The John R. Thompson company, Chicago, operator of a restaurant chain thruout the nation, reported sales in the first six months of 1943 increased 24 per cent to $7,416,507 from $5,971,038 the first half of last year. Earnings amounted to $443,774, or $1.50 a common share, against $99,569, or 34 cents a share a year ago.

Earns More in June.

The American Telephone and Telegraph company had June net income of $40,414,245, compared with revised profit of $39,231,197 in June, 1942. Earnings were $84,196,087 in the six months ended June 30, compared with revised earnings of $85,036,832 a year earlier.

Net income of the Commercial Investment Trust corporation, including undistributed net profit of National Surety corporation, amounted to $6,288,238, or $1.72 a share, in the first half of the year against $6,887,842, or $1.89 a share, a year earlier.

Consolidated net profit of Thompson Products, including Thompson Aircraft Products company, was $1,408,152, or $4.53 a common share, against revised earnings of $1,179,918, or $3.76 a share, a year earlier.

HALSEY, STUART BIDS HIGH FOR N. I. P. S. ISSUE

Halsey, Stuart & Co. and associated investment houses yesterday entered the highest bid for 45 million dollars of Northern Indiana Public Service company first mortgage series C bonds, due 1973, bidding 101.719 for the bonds as 3⅛s. Public offering is expected Thursday at 102⅞. The utility company will use the proceeds to retire 45 millions in outstanding 3¾ per cent series A bonds.

Southwestern Public Service company sought securities and exchange commission approval for the sale of all outstanding securities of the Arkansas Utilities company to Gus B. Walton, Little Rock, to comply with a SEC divestment order. The basic sale price is $1,725,000 for a million dollars of first mortgage series A bonds and 100,000 shares of common stock.

People and Events

Benjamin Miller, expert on gas transmission, has been appointed to the staff of the Illinois Institute of Technology, Harold Vagtborg, director, announced yesterday. Miller, who has been associated with the Cities Service system for the last 15 years, was formerly consulting engineer and assistant to the president of Gas Advisors, Inc., a service company in Cities Service.

Cecil LeBoy, who conducted the Tribune Investors' Guide column before entering the army last December, was home on leave yesterday after graduating as a second lieutenant from the army's infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga.

Included in several promotions announced by the Bendix Aviation corporation is the advancement of T. W. Tinkham, formerly general manager of the Bendix products division in South Bend, Ind., to general manager of the Philadelphia division.

Hog Slaughter Soars to New Peak in July

Slaughter of hogs and sheep in July and the first seven months this year established new record highs, but cattle and calf slaughter was below normal, the department of agriculture disclosed yesterday.

Cattle slaughter under federal inspection during July totaled 844,992 head, the smallest for a July since 1940, but an improvement above the preceding three months this year. A year ago cattle slaughter was 1,047,909. During the first seven months the total was 5,827,659, the smallest in three years, compared with 6,805,660 a year earlier.

Lightest for July in 11 Years.

Calf slaughter of 335,011 in July was above the May and June totals, but was the smallest for a July since 1932. The July, 1942, total was 461,376. During the seven months the total was 2,435,086, smallest since 1923, against 3,231,814 in the first seven months last year.

Hog slaughter at 5,426,963 was the largest since last January, and compared with 3,885,575 in July, 1942. The previous July peak was 4,114,000 in 1924. The seven month total was 35,324,248, against 30,812,661 a year earlier, the previous record.

Sheep and lamb slaughter totaled 1,987,648 against 1,705,209 in July, 1942, the previous top for the month. The seven months' total was 11,379,504, against the previous high of 10,917,738 in 1942.

PRICES ARE HIGHER

Despite the government's announced intention to place ceiling prices on hogs this month, competition sent prices in the Chicago stockyards to the proposed ceiling of $14.75 a hundred pounds and slightly above the ceilings promised some of the other markets.

Several carloads of selected 193 to 225 pound young hogs reached the $14.75 top, the highest since May 7 and $1 above the low of last June.

Chicago hog receipts were 21,500, including direct shipments to packers, the second smallest Monday volume in seven weeks. Prices rose mostly 10 to 15 cents, altho numerous sales of 240 to 270 pound butchers gained 20 and 25 cents. The average rose 15 cents to $13.80. The top also gained 15 cents.

Cattle receipts declined to 14,000, the smallest Monday volume in six weeks. Steers and yearlings above $15.50 were strong to 15 cents higher. Others were weak. Calves held firm. Bulls declined 25 cents.

Lamb prices slipped mostly 25 cents.

STOCK SLIDES OUTRUN GAINS IN 3D SLOWEST SESSION OF THIS YEAR

New York, Aug. 9 (AP).—Stocks showed signs of further convalescence today from the shock of the recent steep decline, but most gains were small and some leaders were almost motionless. Exchange dealings of 563,440 shares made it the third slowest session of the year.

The bulk of buying was confined to rails, chemicals, air transports, and specialties. Some gains in these ranged from 1 to 2 points.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was unchanged at 49, down 4.3 points from the four-year high registered on July 14.

BOND TRADING NARROW.

New York, Aug. 9 (AP).—The bond market held to its recent narrow pattern today. Moderate offerings among some of the low to medium priced rails were absorbed at slight declines while others gained fractions. Industrials and utilities were steady for the most part, while governments were neglected and foreign dollar bonds mixed. Sales of $7,266,800 compared with $6,924,000 last Friday.

CHICAGO PRICES DIP.

Prices on the Chicago Stock exchange declined again yesterday on a turnover of 23,000 shares. Of the 126 issues traded, 64 declined, 34 advanced, and 28 closed unchanged. Chicago corporation with 1,800 shares traded was the volume leader, closing at 4¾, up ⅛. Cities Service closed at 11⅞, up ¼.

THE ROAD TO POST-WAR RECONSTRUCTION
Guide for the Investor

The market will not wait for the end of hostilities to reflect the country's transition to peace. The Government and far-seeing business executives are planning now for a post-war world.

Our study, THE ROAD TO POST-WAR RECONSTRUCTION was written as an aid to investors who are thinking ahead and readjusting their portfolios to a peacetime economy.

This booklet estimates the conversion period of different industries, and lists leading companies that will be called upon to supply the world demand for consumer and capital goods.

HEAVY SELLING CAUSES SLUMP IN GRAIN PRICES

Rye Futures Lead Decline.

Uncertainty in regard to political developments in Europe started a selling movement in the grain markets yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade that brought an abrupt slump in prices. Rye led the decline and closed near the bottom with losses of 2⅞ to 3½ cents a bushel, the lowest level since June 24. Wheat was off ⅞ to 1⅝ cents, and oats lost 1¼ to 1½ cents.

The decline was accelerated by reports that 1,200,000 bushels of cash corn had been purchased for deferred shipment from the country.

Eastern Houses Sell Rye.

Houses with eastern connections led the selling of rye futures, and numerous stop loss orders were uncovered on the way down. September sold at 98⅞ cents, the first time that delivery had been below $1 since late in June.

Harvesting of the new spring wheat crop made excellent progress, it was reported. The new grain is starting to come to market in fairly large amounts.

Shipments Are Heavy.

With a Commodity Credit corporation guarantee that any corn sold before the close of business today will share in any advance in the ceiling price prior to Oct. 31, farmers were said to have sold the largest amount of corn since April 16, when the ceiling price was advanced 5 cents a bushel.

A department of agriculture estimate on the 1943 grain crops is scheduled to be given to the trade this afternoon, and brokers expect it will show a gain of about 150 million bushels of corn and 40 million bushels of wheat, compared with the official estimate of July 1. Moderate reductions are expected in the prospective yield of oats and barley.

BROKER LICENSE OF CHICAGOAN IS REVOKED BY SEC

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 9 (AP).—The securities and exchange commission today revoked the broker-dealer registration of Herbert L. Honohan, doing business as Larson, Honohan & Co. of Chicago, and ordered Honohan expelled from membership in the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc.

The commission order was issued after SEC staff members testified at a hearing that Honohan "entered into secret arrangements with employes of other brokers and dealers whereby he was enabled to purchase securities at prices permitting resale at higher prices, and rewarded his confederates by paying them a part of his profits."

Closed Shop Pact Ruled No Bar to New Election

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 (AP).—Holding that a closed shop contract with an AFL union which has been in effect for more than a year does not prevent employes from seeking a new bargaining agency, the national labor relations board today ordered an election for employes of the Trailer Company of America and the Highland Body Manufacturing company of Cincinnati, O. The secret election, sought by CIO workers, must be held within 30 days.

Money Circulation Sets Record Near 18 Billion

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 (AP).—Money in circulation reached a new peak of $17,946,423,125 on July 31 or $131.31 for every person in the country, the treasury reported today. It said the per capita average was $3.71 higher than the revised June 30 figure of $127.60.

A. of C. Fights Cut in South's Freight Rates

The Chicago Association of Commerce announced yesterday it will file a brief with the interstate commerce commission today in a case considered by shippers to be "the most important as far as the transportation of manufactured goods and the future economy of the country are concerned that the commission has considered since 1931."

The association said that in the case in which efforts are being made to revamp the entire structure of class freight rates east of the Rocky mountains the middle west is "fully determined to defend its existing industrial position against possible inroads by competitors in the south, southwest and certain of the western states."

Called Subsidy for South.

The brief asserts that to permit a general downward revision of all class freight rates on manufactured goods moving south of the Ohio and Potomac rivers and east of the Mississippi without raising rates on raw materials carried in the same area would "amount to a plain subsidization of southern industry."

The association, making joint representations with commercial and industrial interests in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Ohio, said that the only sections that would not be affected adversely by the rebuilding of freight rates would be the southern and southwestern states. These states, thru their public utility commissions and state industrial promotion agencies, have been attempting to accomplish in the present investigation the same objectives they failed to attain in the original "southern governors' case," the Chicago association said.

Cheaper Raw Material Rates.

"The southern, southwestern and more westerly intermountain states have for years enjoyed cheaper rates on raw materials carried than the more industrial midwestern states," the association stated. "On the other hand, they have paid higher class rates on manufactured goods.

"It is the association's position that rates on manufactured wares should be continued unchanged in the five midwestern states, even tho rates in the southern, southwestern, and western areas be reduced, provided that accepted transportation principles be recognized in such downward revisions."

INVESTORS FIRM DEMANDS COSTS FOR SEC TRIAL

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 9 (AP).—Denying securities and exchange commission charges of law violations, Investors Syndicate today asked in federal district court here that it be reimbursed for "costs and disbursements," in connection with the action brought by the SEC. Reimbursement was asked in the answer of Investors Syndicate, its two subsidiaries, and 38 officers and directors to the complaint filed here a month ago.

Defendants also asked that the court deny the SEC petition for a permanent injunction against practices which were alleged to constitute a violation of federal law. Hearing on the injunction petition is scheduled for Oct. 4.

ARMY INVITES BIDS FOR STEVENS HOTEL; SALE TO BE FOR CASH

Sale of the Stevens hotel by the army will be on a cash basis, and the successful bidder, if any, will be known by Sept. 11, an invitation for bids sent out by the division engineer disclosed yesterday. Bids will be opened Sept. 4.

The invitation listed facilities and equipment to be sold with the buildings but added that these "must necessarily be supplemented" if the property is to be used as a hotel. The army sold much of the furnishings and equipment after it took over the hotel in July, 1942. All mechanical equipment is intact and in good shape, the army said.

The property will be sold "as is" and "where is," and each bid must be accompanied by cash or a certified check for $125,000. The successful bidder also must pay an additional $175,000 within 10 days after acceptance of his bid, and the remainder of the purchase price within 60 days of the time the government offers him title.

OPA Ordered to Reconsider Armour Claim

Officials of Armour & Co. were notified yesterday that the United States Emergency Court of Appeals at Washington, D. C., has ordered reconsideration of claims that regulations of the office of price administration forced the company to sell large quantities of beef to the army at a loss.

Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown was directed to reconsider "whether maximum OPA prices impeded or threatened to impede production of meat, and if so, what measure of relief is appropriate under the adjustment provision" of the maximum price regulations.

Only One of Many Cases.

Armour's claim for $241,505 as the reported loss on 8,701,997 pounds of beef delivered over a six week period last fall is the first of hundreds of similar packer cases involving millions of dollars. Another claim, by Wilson & Co., is before the court for action.

All claims had been denied by Brown and his predecessor, Leon Henderson, altho in the Armour case OPA admitted that the company had lost $1.92 on each 100 pounds in selling beef to the army under contract. The company faced the alternative of having its supplies requisitioned.

Claim Rules Rescinded.

Three months ago, the OPA rescinded the rules under which food processors had filed claims for losses. The government roll-back program was intended to eliminate the losses, but has served instead to magnify them, according to packers.

Armour has other claims pending covering contracts in addition to the three under which the $241,505 loss was incurred. Before the OPA changed the rules three months ago, meat and other food processors were permitted to file claims on each government contract on which a loss was sustained.

CIVILIAN STEEL SHARE BOOSTED 25 PCT. BY WPB

Rails Get Big Slice in 4th Quarter.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—A 25 per cent increase in steel supplies for use in consumer goods in the fourth quarter of this year was announced by the war production board today.

WPB did not disclose the actual tonnage allotted for civilian products on the grounds of "military security," but Chairman Donald M. Nelson said that the increased allotment reflects WPB's policy of making available sufficient materials for essential products for the nation's households.

Railroads Get Largest Share.

Altho the breakdown of materials allotted to the various groups of claimants was not made public by WPB, the office of defense transportation reported that the transportation industry will receive 1,380,000 tons of carbon steel for principal products for the fourth quarter, an increase of 180,000 tons above the current quarterly allotment, but 390,000 tons less than the amount ODT requested.

Of this total, ODT said, the railroad industry will get the largest share, with 400,000 tons of replacement rail, 240,000 tons of track accessories, and 300,000 tons of steel for maintenance items.

Nelson reported that requests for materials by the government's 16 claimant agencies, representing military, civilian, lend-lease, and other export demands, were trimmed 13 per cent for the fourth quarter in order to balance the requests with available supplies. For the current quarter, the requests were cut 25 per cent, he added.

Carbon Steel Chief Factor.

The supply of carbon steel continues to be the limiting factor in making allotments of other metals, Nelson reported. Carbon steel requests of the army, navy, aircraft reserves control office, and the maritime commission, taken together, were cut 9 per cent, while all other requests, including export demands, were cut 17 per cent.

Today's report, showing that shortages of critical materials are still limiting the nation's war output, was somewhat at variance with recent statements by production officials that man power shortages, particularly in aircraft plants, are retarding production more than a lack of materials.

The report said that the lend-lease administration has been allotted an undisclosed amount of steel for the manufacture of farm machinery to be shipped as needed to occupied countries at the direction of the office of foreign relief and rehabilitation.

JULY, 7 MONTH STEEL OUTPUT TOPS YEAR AGO

New York, Aug. 9 (AP).—Steel production last month was 7,376,107 net tons, compared with 7,027,101 tons in June and 7,144,958 in July, 1942, the American Iron and Steel institute reported today. Production in June was curtailed by the coal strike. Output in the first seven months aggregated 51,242,929 tons, an increase of 1,562,000 tons over the corresponding period of 1942.

In July the industry operated at an average of 96.4 per cent of capacity, compared with 94.6 in June and 94.5 per cent in July, 1942.

The institute estimated that the steel industry would operate at 98.4 per cent of capacity, this week, an increase of 0.1 of 1 per cent from last week's 98.3. A month ago operations were at 97 per cent.

Ickes Carries Crude Pricing Plea to Vinson

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—Harold L. Ickes, war petroleum administrator, today carried his demand for higher crude oil prices to Fred M. Vinson, director of economic stabilization. His request for a ceiling increase of 35 cents a barrel had been turned down Saturday by Prentiss M. Brown, price administrator.

Ickes also was reported to have sent a "sharply worded" reply to Brown in which he took issue with the office of price administration stand that a hike in prices would not increase oil production.

Refining Curbs Are Lifted.

Meanwhile, the petroleum administration for war lifted output curbs on east coast refineries, placing them under much the same regulations as units in the southwest. Only middle west plants were left restricted by refining quotas.

Calling for more production of home heating oil by eastern refineries, PAW said August crude oil runs on the seaboard would be limited only by the capacity of facilities.

Middle West Quotos Stand.

A similar order went out a few days ago to southwest refineries, but middle west plants must stick to July quotas, except for 11 at lake ports. The 11, however, are required to send all products made in excess of their quotas to district 1 [the east coast] to build reserves there.

Maintenance of curbs in the middle west came in the face of an assertion last week by G. A. Primm, executive secretary of the Illinois Petroleum Marketers' association, that at least 100,000 barrels of crude oil a day could be obtained from Texas and Louisiana, that facilities for shipping the extra crude were available, and that refineries in the Chicago area were running 150,000 to 200,000 barrels a day under capacity.

TWO UNIONS LET INTO NO. SHORE, 'L' SETTLEMENT

Permission to intervene in the settlement of a jurisdictional dispute which last year tied up Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee Railroad company elevated service in Chicago was granted two unions yesterday by Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe.

The unions, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, seek to vacate Judge Igoe's order of Feb. 18, 1942, providing that elevated crews, members of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes, American Federation of Labor, take over North Shore trains at Howard street and bring them into Chicago.

Attorneys for the railroad were given 30 days to answer a motion to vacate filed by the attorney for the brotherhoods, and a hearing on the motion was set for Oct. 15.

NATION WARNED OIL BARREL IS NEARLY EMPTY

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 9 (AP).—"We are looking at the bottom of the nation's oil barrel," Michael W. Straus, first assistant secretary of the interior, warned today in opening sessions of a senate subcommittee hearing on the extraction of liquid fuels from coal and oil shale. He said the interior department "is eager and willing to get at work" if congress passes a bill by Sen. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] providing for government construction and operation of demonstration processing plants.

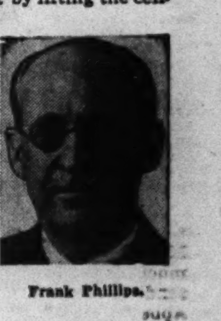
Utah, Colorado, and Wyoming have 75 billion barrels of recoverable oil shale and a trillion barrels of recoverable fuel from high grade coal, W. M. Downing of Denver, a witness, testified.

OIL PRICE HIKE WILL GET GAS, SAYS PHILLIPS

'Stubborn Refusal' of U. S. Blasted.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

Frank Phillips, authority on oil, yesterday said that by lifting the ceiling on the price of crude oil the government could begin "almost immediately" to replenish the gasoline it proposes by a cut in rations to take out of the middle west and ship east.



Frank Phillips.

The oil man, chairman of the 400 million dollar Phillips Petroleum company of Oklahoma and member of the petroleum industry war council, stopped in Chicago on his way to his New York offices.

"In Vestibule of Scandal."

Phillips warned more than two years ago that an office of price administration refusal to allow an increase in the price of crude oil would make the drilling of new wells impossible and cause a shortage of petroleum products. Eight months ago Phillips said that "the lack of oil to fight the war will be the next national scandal." And yesterday he added: "We're in the vestibule of that scandal right now."

"If the bunglers in Washington had taken advice two years ago we wouldn't have this gasoline rationing trouble now," Phillips said. "We could have produced all the oil necessary both for the war and for civilian use that is necessary today—but we just couldn't do it at the price.

"Everything else for the war is cost plus—everything but oil—and oil is the most essential of them all. It may have a big influence on how soon we win the war.

Holds Government Responsible.

"I claim it is a scandal when such a situation—such a shortage as we now face—is deliberately created and the government is responsible for it.

"No matter what they say or do, nobody in Washington can justify the government's obstinate refusal to increase the price of crude oil. I don't care who or what agency is supposed to be to blame. The fundamental law of supply and demand would have taken care of it if they had let it work."

The average price of crude oil is about $1.17 a barrel, Phillips said. "During the last war I paid as high as $4 a barrel for it," he said. "They let us alone during World War I., and there was plenty of oil." He said records of the last 25 years showed that every time there was an increase of crude there was an increase in production.

To Holders of Certificates for Cumulative Preferred Stocks and Common Stock of SOUTHERN UNION GAS COMPANY
NEW MEXICO GAS COMPANY
NEW MEXICO EASTERN GAS COMPANY

The Agreement of Merger and Consolidation providing for the merger of Southern Union Gas Company, New Mexico Gas Company and New Mexico Eastern Gas Company into Texas Southwestern Gas Company and the adoption by the last mentioned corporation of the name of SOUTHERN UNION GAS COMPANY, became effective on November 24, 1942, pursuant to approval, at special meeting of stockholders, by the holders of more than 66⅔% of each class of stock.

Since the completion of the Merger, holders of the above mentioned certificates have only a right to exchange such old certificates for the new securities (6% Debentures and Common Stock of the new Southern Union Gas Company) to which they are entitled.

Such certificates should be sent by registered mail to the Distribution Agent. The Northern Trust Company, 50 South La Salle Street, Chicago 90, Illinois, accompanied by a letter of transmittal, for exchange into the new securities.

Owing to the fact that several hundred stockholders have not informed the Company or the Transfer Agents of their correct addresses, mail containing information with respect to the merger did not reach them. Such stockholders can obtain complete information with respect to securities they are entitled to receive by writing to the Chicago office of the Company at 135 South La Salle Street, or to the general offices at the Burt Building, Dallas, Texas.

Semi-annual interest was paid May 1st, 1943, on the 6% Sinking Fund Debentures and a dividend of 10 cents per share was paid May 15th, 1943, on the common stock of the new Southern Union Gas Company.

It is to the advantage of all holders of certificates to obtain their new securities without delay since the old certificates are non-transferable on the books of the Company and since no interest on the new debentures nor dividends on the new common stock may be paid stockholders until they are in possession of the new certificates.

COURT UPHOLDS CONVICTION OF UNION ELECTRIC

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 9 (AP).—The United States 8th district Circuit Court of Appeals today upheld the conviction of the Union Electric Company of Missouri and its former head, Louis H. Egan, found guilty by a federal jury on Feb. 22, 1942, of conspiring to violate the corrupt practices section of the holding company act.

The government produced evidence to show that the company built up a $591,000 "political slush fund" in the 1930s and disbursed at least part of the money to public officials, politicians, and political candidates. United States District Judge George H. Moore assessed the maximum penalties, fining the company $10,000 on each of eight counts and sentencing Egan to two years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

NO EXTRA TRAINS PERMITTED FOR WINTER TOURISTS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 (AP).—No supplemental train or sleeping car service, in addition to present schedules, will be authorized for operation next winter to Florida, the gulf coast, Arizona, California, or other winter resort areas, the office of defense transportation said today.

ODT said military and essential civilian traffic would not permit the operation of supplemental service to the winter resort areas. Service will be limited to that in operation in the week ended Sept. 26, 1942.

Business Failures Rise to 51 from 48 Week Ago

New York, Aug. 9 (AP).—Business failures in the week ended Aug. 5 stood at 51, compared with 48 in the preceding week and 160 a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. Total for the year to date was 2,415, against 6,562 last year.

The common-sense solution to any money shortage is a short-term loan. It allows a "breathing spell" in which to adjust expenses to fit income. Right now, for instance, living costs are up and it is becoming increasingly difficult to make ends meet. A loan from Commonwealth will "tide you over" until you get adjusted to these new war-time conditions. Monthly rate 3% on balance of $150 or less, and 2½% on that part of the unpaid balance over $150.
